Mrs. Snipes' Baby.
The Aga Khan's Baby.
Wise Ma Ferguson.
40 States Threaten.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

A DAUGHTER is born to Mrs. Snipes, sentenced to death for murder before the child's arrival.

Thanks to the Governor of South Carolina, the woman will not be hanged, and thanks to public sentiment, she was taken from the prison to a hospital that her child might not bear "the stigma of birth in prison."

SOME SAY the child of a murderess can't possibly amount to anything. But it does not follow.

Olympias, daughter of King Neoptolemus, was a Mrs. Snipes on a big scale. There is little doubt that she murdered her husband, Philip of Macedonia, to punish him for taking a second, younger wife.

She was responsible for many other murders, and when her time came she was executed, in 316 B. C. Nevertheless and notwithstanding, she was the mother of Alexander the Great.

The little Snipes baby, now in the state hospital at Columbia, S. C., may be an important baby. The sins of THE MOTHERS are, fortunately, not visited upon the children.

THE AGA KHAN has a baby. It's mother, a charming French girl, the Aga Khan met in a candy store and wisely married. Forty-eight years old, the Aga Khan is supposed to descend in a direct line from Fatima, the daughter of Mohammed.

Eighty million Mohammedans believe it, and their contributions make him gigantically rich. One source of income is a salary that pays him each year his own weight in pure gold.

Fortunately, he is heavy, and it brings him in close to $100,000 a year. His money and the greater part of his time he spends horse racing in England.

WE WONDER at foolish Mohammedans sending money from far off Asia to London to keep the Aga Khan's horses going.

Why not wonder at ourselves that allow our government to send millions to Europe to maintain fine houses for ambassadors that are nothing more than messenger boys?

Our "democracy" does more foolish things than Mohammedans do in supporting the Aga Khan.

YESTERDAY, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, wife of a former governor and affectionately called "Ma Ferguson," was inaugurated a governor of Texas for the second time.

The big "he-man" state of Texas has chosen the right "Ma" for the job. Her first statement, after taking her oath in accordance with the constitution of Texas, that she had never "fought a duel with deadly weapons," was:

"Reduction of taxes must come and come quickly, or the government will fall and fall quickly."

WITH TECHNOCRACY ringing its foolish alarm bell and everybody in the country blaming everybody else, you will hear many queer suggestions.

One of the first and queerest comes from Bismarck, N. D.

The Senate considering a resolution to have 40 good and pure states secede from the eight others, because they have "manipulated Congress to become rich at the expense of the remainder."

The eight accused are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and New Jersey, the eastern states.

Some of those states, if they have become rich at the expense of the other 40, would like to know where [illegible] is.

FORTY GOOD states will not secede from eight wicked states; first, because the forty states are not foolish, second, because they would miss the contribution to national expenses paid through income tax and otherwise by those Eastern states.

But a man from Mars listening to our Congress might well think that our slice of North America had outgrown its one government.

The big dinosaur of ancient times developed a second brain halfway down his backbone to take care of the lower part of his body. It was too much of a job for the comparatively small brain in his skull.

The management of this country seems to be too much for the "comparatively small brain" in the national Congress at Washington, D. C.

A YOUNG GIRL from Dallas, Tex., Lucille Gaskil, gives wise advice to other girls and boys:

"Don't try to be the life of the party, but listen to the others and get them talking about themselves. There is nothing they like better."

That was true nearly 200 years ago, when Laurence Sterne wrote his "Sentimental Journey" and told how his "conversation" was loudly praised in Paris, because he had only listened.

Let a man talk about himself, he will like you, and what is more important, you will learn something. You can't learn talking about yourself, for you know about that already.

A NEW YORK committee, organized, managed, run, supplied with energetic enthusiasm by Mr. Harvey D. Gibson, has accomplished what seemed once an impossible job by raising $15,000,000 for the unemployed by private subscription.

Only those that know how big and little business feel about actual cash can realize how much credit Mr. Gibson deserves for the success of his undertaking.

TRUNK SLAYER HYSTERICAL

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Winnie Ruth Judd became hysterical during her cross-examination today at the preliminary hearing of John J. Halloran, who is accused as "accessory to the crime of murder." Leaving the witness chair, she screamed accusations across a counsel table at the wealthy lumberman.

Judge J. C. Niles called a recess to allow Mrs. Judd to compose herself.

With tears streaming down her face, she leaned across the table and screamed at Halloran:

"I hope you suffer everything Anne's mother and my mother and Sammy's mother have suffered."

Before leaving the witness stand, Mrs. Judd had shouted:

"He don't care that Anne is dead and Sammy is dead and that I am going to die—he just sits there and laughs about it. He don't care so long as he can play around."

Mrs. Judd's breakdown came as she was being cross-examined re-

Mob Fights Police At Relief Station

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Several hundred persons beat two policemen at an unemployment relief station on the West Side today and forced four others to retreat.

Riot squads fired several rounds of shots over the crowd before they could rescue the injured policemen. The crowd was objecting loudly to methods of distributing relief.

'LOVE THEFT' CHARGED TO STILLMAN

N. Y. Banker Accused As Home-Wrecker by Montreal Politician

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—A suit for alienation of affections against James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank of New York, whose marital difficulties with the former Anne Urquhart resulted in startling legal actions over a period of 10 years, has been filed by Luc Rochefort, a French-Canadian politician, it was learned today.

Mr. Stillman

In the face of the banker's blanket denials, Rochefort charges that Stillman stole the affections of his wife, Marjorie, taking her with him on trips to Havana and elsewhere, although he allegedly knew she was a married woman.

The suit brought by Rochefort, who was twice unsuccessful candidate for Mayor of Montreal, was disclosed in the Brooklyn Supreme Court during hearing of a libel action brought by the Canadian politician against Stillman.

The financier's lawyer, Malcolm Sumner, charged that the libel suit was brought in an effort to compel Stillman to settle the alienation action out of court to avoid publicity.

Through Sumner, Stillman announced that he would fight the case to a finish, even though the suit promises to rival the historic divorce battle between Stillman and the former Miss Urquhart, who is now the wife of Fowler McCormick, youthful heir to the Chicago Harvester millions.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 18.—(INS.)—Al Capone, deposed Chicago booze baron, was 34 today.

The scar-faced gangster passed his milestone behind the high granite walls of Uncle Sam's penitentiary which he entered eight and one-half months ago to serve a 10-year sentence for violating the income tax law.

BUDGET GOES OVER TO NEW CONGRESS

Hope for Action Now Given Up, Extra Session Planned

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Congressional Democrats today abandoned hope for enactment of budget balancing legislation at this session, and acknowledged plans are set for a special session of the new Congress to tackle the task.

Twelve strategically situated House members, belonging to the Ways and Means Committee that has jurisdiction over revenue legislation, agreed to drop all tax proposals between now and March 4.

Asked by newspapermen when a special session will be summoned, Speaker Garner said:

"I could tell you but I won't."

The plain implication was that arrangements are under way, and that those in charge of party affairs are looking to such a session to do what they feel is impossible of accomplishment as things now stand on Capitol Hill.

An explanation of the decision as given by Chairman Collier, of the Ways and Means Committee, said the "congested legislative situation in Congress will preclude enactment" of budget balancing legislation.

Only yesterday President Hoover had addressed a special message to Congress on the urgency for budget balancing—asking again that sales taxes be imposed and economies effected.

FIGHT TO END SENATE TIEUP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Senate leaders were attempting today to break the deadlock over the Glass banking bill by a compromise to limit debate voluntarily instead of applying the cloture rule and by modification of the branch banking provisions of the measure.

Negotiations for the compromise were undertaken as Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, sponsor of the bill, took the floor again to defend his measure against the attacks of those who have led a filibuster against it for a week.

While Glass, a former Secretary of the Treasury, held the floor, Senate leaders negotiated with Senator Long (Dem.), of Louisiana, leader of the filibuster, on means of breaking the deadlock.

The compromise plan included modification of the branch banking clause of the bill to permit branches only in states where local laws permit them.

Republican leaders, opposed to cloture, but anxious to prevent further criticism of the Senate for wasting time, were conducting the negotiations.

Man Gets Second 'Common Scold' Sentence

Charles Rizzo, 60, of 1806 El Paso street, today had the distinction of being the first man to be sentenced twice as a common scold. He pleaded guilty and was placed on probation for three years by Judge F. P. Patterson.

March 7, 1931, Rizzo was convicted of being a common scold, the first time a man had been convicted on such a charge in Pennsylvania. The prosecutor was R. D. Dessell, of 1803 Duffield street.

While Rizzo was on probation, Thomas Bolderston, a neighbor, complained that Rizzo's actions were worse than ever, and Rizzo was sentenced to the workhouse for the remainder of his probationary period. He was released last March 7, and about a month later Dessell brought the new charge.

The Slacker Congress and the Glass Bill

By JULIUS G. BERENS
Financial Editor New York American

THE GLASS banking bill, now clogged in the fanatical grip of a Senate "filibuster," contains banking reforms which the general American public demands and to which it is entitled.

The Senate can perform a genuine public service by immediately passing the Glass bill. The principal provisions of the Glass banking bill are:

1.—Permits national banks to engage in branch banking within state limits, or across state lines within a radius of 50 miles from the bank's main office. An amendment provides that such expansion shall be permitted in territories already served by an existing bank only by absorption of such a bank.

2.—Separates, within three years of the bill's passage, security-selling, underwriting and distributing affiliates from all Federal Reserve member banks.

3.—Provides for the organization of a corporation to undertake liquidation of the colossal amount of assets now tied up in failed banks. The government would contribute $125,000,000 towards the capital of this corporation and Federal Reserve banks and member institutions would contribute an additional $143,000,000.

THE SENATE should pass this bill as a testimonial of its anxiety to protect the public from such evils in the banking system as have been revealed during the tragic period through which the nation now is passing. These evils, these weaknesses in the banking structure, still exist.

The Senate should pass the Glass bill, as a display of its unwillingness to permit one or two Senators to impede the progress of public-spirited legislation.

The Senate cannot afford to allow a filibuster to delay not only the Glass banking bill, but also other vital legislation. The times are too crucial to permit personal vengeance to prevent such legislation as the Glass bill from even going to a vote.

The most violent opponent of the bill in the Senate has publicly revealed his opposition is predicated in large part on an old grudge against the bill's sponsor.

Says the Louisiana "Kingfish":

"Senator Glass opposed the seating of my delegation for Al Smith at the Houston convention in 1928 and he opposed my delegation for Franklin Roosevelt at Chicago last year. I told him on the platform at

INTELLIGENT American citizens, you know that the Glass banking bill was introduced to reform the banking business of the United States.

You know that the Glass banking bill is a step towards putting the banking business of the United States on the safe and honest basis which prevails in England and Canada.

You know that neither England nor Canada has had one bank failure in the past ten years.

You know that England and Canada have gone all through this depression without one depositor losing one penny.

You know that there have been over seven thousand bank failures in the United States during this depression.

You know that approximately one-third of the banks in the United States have failed in the last ten years.

You know there were numbers of bank failures after the Florida land boom.

You know there are numbers of bank failures after every financial flurry and numbers of bank failures due to plain incompetence and dishonesty when there are no financial flurries.

You know that if there ever was a banking system in any country which needed reforming it is the indiscriminate, indeterminate, heterogeneous, hap-hazard, go-as-you-please, and the devil-take-the-public system prevailing in the United States.

YOU KNOW that there are some laws against reckless speculative banking.

You know that these laws are evaded and that the so-called affiliates of banks do the reckless speculative manipulation which the laws try to prevent the banks from doing.

You know that the crash and subsequent depression were very largely caused by the over-capitalization and speculation encouraged by many important banks and their affiliates.

You know that the banks could not sell worthless securities directly, but that the banks could and did direct the funds of their patrons and even the trust funds of widows and orphans into the worthless securities which their affiliates issued or handled.

You know that there was a great deal of direct dishonesty in diverting those funds into securities where the commissions were the highest, and that means where the securities were the weakest.

You know that there were all sorts of bribery and chicanery and skullduggery practiced by many great banks to secure from high foreign officials the much-prized opportunity to distribute worthless foreign securi-

U. S. ENVOY PROTESTS ATTACK

Officials Imperiled in Demonstration at Yokohama

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service.

TOKIO, Jan. 18.—More than 200 Japanese "union racketeers" attacked the American-owned Singer Sewing Machine Company branch at Yokohama today, threatening the lives of officials and employes and leaving ruin in their wake.

The American embassy lodged an immediate protest with Foreign Minister Uchida against laxity of the Japanese police in protecting the property against the raiders.

Police reserves later arrested 154 of the rioters, who ransacked the building and equipment and severely injured two Japanese clerks.

Officials of the company charged the police did not molest the marauders until E. P. Walker, one of the officials of the branch, locked himself in his private office and telephoned the American consulate for aid.

Japan's Policy Unaltered By Roosevelt Stand

Associated Press.

President-elect Roosevelt's assurance that his administration will adhere to the principle of the sanctity of treaties will not alter Japan's fixed policies in Manchuria, a government spokesman at Tokio has announced.

China, however, received the Roosevelt statement with great satisfaction as an approval of the Hoover policy in the Far East.

The military situation remains unchanged, both armies in Jehol and Northern China apparently awaiting better weather before renewing activity. A Japanese newspaper in Dairen published an assertion that the city of Shanhaikwan, captured by the Japanese two weeks ago, already is under the rule of Manchukuo as the result of a movement sponsored by the Peace and Order League organized by residents of the city.

At Geneva the League of Nations conciliation committee of 19 decided to make another effort at conciliating the Sino-Japanese dispute before advancing to procedure regardless of Japanese opposition.

Some concern was manifested at Washington over the possibility that the fighting in Jehol might extend southward and involve large foreign interests.

BOMB IMPERILS 'BOY EMPEROR'

By DIXON HOSTE
International News Service.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 18.—The life of Henry Pu-Yi, former "Boy Emperor" of China and now Regent of Manchukuo, was endangered by an exploding bomb on January 12, Chinese advices from Peiping disclosed today.

The bomb, from which Pu-Yi escaped, seriously injured a Manchukuon diplomat.

According to the report, it was thrown at the railway station in Changchun, capital of Manchukuo, where the Regent and a group of authorities had gathered to welcome the Japanese Ambassador to the island empire's puppet government.

Sobs Halt Girl's Plea For Father's Parole

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—With a tearful, whispered "please," a 21-year-old Pittsburgh girl today asked the Board of Pardons to parole her father from the Western Penitentiary.

Starting bravely on a list of arguments as to why Meyer Letwin should be paroled from a 6-to-12-year sentence for arson, the daughter, Eleanor, soon broke into tears, looked appealingly at the four members of the board, and halted. She whispered:

"Please."

Richard J. Beamish, a member of the board and secretary of the commonwealth, said:

"I think we have heard enough."

Thomas L. Pfarr, chief fire marshal of Allegheny County, then came to the girl's rescue. He recommended parole, asserting he believed Letwin, who has served nearly five years of his term, has been sufficiently punished.

Letwin and Harry Frank were arrested in the house of Mrs. C. M. Deverts on East Ohio street. Letwin had two packages under his arm containing papers and bottles of supposedly inflammable liquid. He said he had been directed to deliver them to Frank and as he was about to do that, they were arrested.

Dry Law Foes Spend $364,544 in Year

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—The Association Against the Prohibition Organization spent $364,544 in its drive against prohibition last year, Charles H. Sabin, of New York, treasurer, reported to the clerk of the House today. Receipts were $360,757, including a loan of $11,000 from Pierre S. duPont. Thus for the first time the association reported a yearly deficit.

The National Prohibition Board of Strategy, political committee of major dry organizations, reported receipts of $38,935 and expenditures of $38,735 for the year.

Japs Storm Fort, Find 360 Defenders Frozen

SHANGHAI, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—A gruesome Chinese Army of 360 frozen corpses, lying in the snow where they had fallen when cold and starvation overtook them, were all that a detachment of Japanese troops found when they stormed a Chinese stockade at Chuyi, near the border of Jehol Province, according to word received today.

The dead men comprised a band of Chinese volunteer troops driven out of the Chinese Eastern Railway region by pursuing Japanese soldiers.

Arriving at Chuyi, an isolated outpost in the mountain fastnesses near the Jehol border, the Chinese built a strong stockade. They successfully repulsed the Japanese advance for weeks.

The Japanese then decided to lay seige to the temporary fortress in an attempt to stare the Chinese into surrender.

Salus Quits in Huff, Offers Bills to Change Law

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—Senator Thaddeus Krause, of Philadelphia, is slated to be chairman of the Senate Utilities Committee, when and if it reorganizes, naming a head to succeed former Senator William S. Rial, of Westmoreland County.

Senator Samuel Salus, of Philadelphia, resigned from the committee yesterday after presenting a series of bills embodying the committee's recommendations on the basis of the investigation already conducted.

BAUMER APPOINTED

Senator Herman E. Baumer (Dem.), of Johnstown, today was named to succeed Salus as a member of the committee. Baumer, a manufacturer, defeated a Pinchot-Grundy backed Republican in the general election last November.

An effort will be made to have a meeting of the committee next Monday afternoon. Members were informally consulted on the subject today, but no definite conclusions were reached.

Krause was appointed to the committee through the influence of Senator James J. Coyne when Rial and former Senators William H. Earnest and Charles H. Clippinger retired. Coyne and Krause have come to an amicable arrangement over the chairmanship. The Philadelphian agreed to step aside if Coyne wished to become chairman, but the Pittsburgher declined.

BILLS BY SALUS

The bills introduced yesterday by Salus are based on information secured by the committee last year, its work being halted by a series of injunctions which halted O. K. Eaton, of Pittsburgh, attorney for the committee in his examination of Public Service Commissioners and utilities chiefs.

The Salus bills would provide:

1—Abolition of advance payments to utilities by consumers before service is given.

2—Limiting the rental fee for desk telephone sets to 15 cents a month.

3—Requiring utilities to maintain adequate depreciation accounts at direction of the commission.

4—Regulation of holding and affiliated utility companies.

5—Permitting the commission to allow temporary rate increases in emergencies not exceeding 60 days.

6—Requiring the Public Service Commission to regulate the sale of securities by utilities.

7—Requiring the commission to regulate the sale of utility appliances by utilities.

8—Creation of a people's counsel bureau in the Department of Justice to assist municipalities in rate complaints.

9—Prohibiting commissioners from hearing cases in which they have any direct interest.

Coyne's 'Dictator Rule' Denounced by Harris

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—Senator Frank J. Harris, of Crafton, today welcomed Senator James J. Coyne's pledged co-operation in election reform legislation, and at the same time declared there were many inconsistencies in Coyne's statement Monday attacking Harris.

Today's statement was a continuation of interchanges between the two Senators as a result of action at the Republican legislative caucus in Pittsburgh last month, when Coyne and his associates tabled a resolution by Harris pledging the delegation to election reform.

Harris accused Coyne of engaging in personalities directed at himself and Senator William D. Mansfield as a "result of our failure to accept his dictatorial and intolerant leadership in public matters."

Store Owner Slain In Holdup Attempt

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—Samuel Moss, 48, proprietor of an East Side butcher shop, was murdered here today when a bandit pumped five revolver shots into his body during a holdup attempt.

The killer fled in an automobile, which police said contained a woman and two men.

BLUE LAW FIGHT UP TO SENATE

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The scene of the battle to repeal the Snyder-Armstrong prohibition enforcement act and for modification of the Sunday blue laws has shifted from the House to the Senate.

Decision of the House Law and Order Committee yesterday to prohibit public hearings on the issues definitely places the burden upon the Senate in accepting and hearing complaints from the church and dry groups.

The House committee has indicated it will report favorably on the proposals.

It is believed a favorable report on a blue law modifier, to permit Sunday baseball, will be made to the House next Tuesday. Early action by the committee also is expected on one of the three prohibition enforcement act repealers.

Dry law repealists and proponents of a more liberal Sunday claim sufficient votes to pass the measures in the House, but trouble confronts them in the Senate.

In 1931 the Senate killed in committee a blue law modifier passed by the House. Neither group took a stand on repeal of the Snyder-Armstrong act.

WATSON URGES BIG ARMS CUT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—A sweeping reduction in world armaments—41 per cent over the next 10 years—had been proposed yesterday by Senator Watson, of Indiana, as the "first step toward a world-balanced budget."

Asserting that the four words—armament, war, destruction and debt—"tell the story of the world's great worries today," the Republican leader yesterday in his first Senate speech of the session suggested the real road to peace and prosperity was for all nations to slash arms expenditures five per cent each year for the next decade, which would result in an aggregate of 41 per cent at the end of the period.

At the conclusion of his address, Senator Watson introduced a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the Senate that the United States initiate a multilateral treaty to carry out the project.

AIR STOCK DEALS IN KOPPERS SUIT

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 18.—(INS.)—Various deals involved in Harry Helfman's charge that the American Light and Traction Company, of which he is a stockholder, lost $25,000,000 through stock transactions were expected to be brought into focus again as the traction company's President, R. B. Brown, resumed the stand in Chancery Court today.

Brown testified yesterday that the negotiations which led to the purchase of the stock of the Milwaukee Coke and Gas Company, from a subsidiary of the Mellon-controlled Koppers group, were started by himself, as he felt the Milwaukee Gas Light Company (a traction company subsidiary), of which he had formerly been president, should own its gas supply.

It is charged the Koppers company, by buying the coke company, drawing out large sums in dividends and then selling it to the traction company, profited over $7,000,000, and that this was done with the knowledge of Brown and other directors of the traction company.

Brown declared Henry B. Rust and J. S. Brookes, Jr., both of Pittsburgh, and both officers in the Koppers company as well as in the traction company, took an active part in the negotiations.

Bill Would Cut Pay Of Traveling Judges

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—The Senate Judiciary Committee today struck at traveling judges when it reported favorably the Reed bill, with amendments to reduce the daily compensation of the judges to $15 and permitting them mileage costs and expenses of $10 a day. The existing rate of pay is $30.

Reed's original proposal was that all extra compensation be abolished, and that the judges receive only the salary of their home counties.

Mr. Roosevelt points out that 3,000,000 were out of work in the boom year of 1929.

Good times are coming back and "prosperity is coming back," says Mr. Roosevelt. But "there would still be 5,000,000 idle."

Moving those 5,000,000 from city sidewalks to country grass is the next President's plan.

If he succeeds, he will have taken a long step in the right direction.

REFUND EXPOSE BILL TO HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—The new tax refund plan, making all tax refunds by the Treasury subject to approval by the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, went to President Hoover today for approval, following its passage in the first deficiency appropriation bill.

The new legislation, unless Mr. Hoover should veto it, will give the congressional committee power to reject or reduce all refunds ordered by the Treasury. This drastic curb was enacted as a protest against secret refunds which have totaled $4,000,000,000 in the last 11 years.

Slash in Gas Tax, Auto Fees Sought

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—Two more pieces of highway legislation reached the House today.

A bill sponsored by Representative A. J. White Hutton, of Franklin County, would reduce the minimum fee for automobiles from $10 to $5 and the fee for operators' licenses from $2 to $1. The three-cent state tax on gasoline would be reduced to two cents under provisions of a bill offered by Representative Sowers, of Philadelphia.

Tube Left in Back, Suing Patient Says

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—R. B. Minter, a carpenter, alleges his physician left a rubber tube 4½ inches long in his back during an operation six years ago. He wants $10,655 damages.

His doctor said it was "preposterous."

BILL PROPOSES VOTING CHANGE

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—Revision of the personal registration law is incorporated in a bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Morris Einstein, of the North Side, Pittsburgh.

The bill differs radically from the suggestions in a bill to be sponsored later by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern as a result of his study of permanent registration in western cities.

Einstein would require registration only once in four years, except where a voter failed to cast his ballot at either a primary or general election. This automatically would erase him from the registration lists, but reinstatement would be permitted.

Opposition to Wives As Teachers Scored

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Opposition to discrimination against married women in the employment of teachers has been expressed by the Women's Legislative Council of Pennsylvania.

The council also opposed "politics in education" and urged that the state superintendent of public instruction be appointed by the State Council of Education rather than by the Governor.

PINCHOT AGAIN ATTACKED BY SENATOR

Extravagance Charged By Reed; Fund Bill Before House

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The Legislature quit for the week today after Senator George L. Reed, of Dauphin, organization Republican, struck again at the administration, suggesting a "bonfire such as the burning of Rome," to celebrate its economy.

In a resolution which the Senate received in silence, he charged extravagance and demanded a survey of the Department of Property and Supplies. Last week he assailed Gov. Pinchot's policies, and directed remarks at Mrs. Pinchot, for which he later apologized.

BUDGET INTRODUCED

Introduction of the general appropriation bill embodying Gov. Pinchot's recommendations for $158,000,000 for the general expenses of the government opened the way for an early start on fiscal and economy legislation. Presented by Representative Joseph G. Steedle, Allegheny, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, it provides a $34,000,000 slash from the costs of the present biennium and will serve as the foundation for the impending fight for state economies.

A plan to shift control of the Highways Department from the Governor to the General Assembly was proposed by Representative Frederick C. Peters, Montgomery, who already has obtained approval for a joint legislative investigation of the department's expenditures and policies. He advocates replacement of the present secretary by a commission of three, one named by the Governor and two by the Legislature. The majority would decide the policies.

OPPOSE COMMISSARY PLAN

The commissary plan of relief sponsored by the State Emergency Relief Board continued under fire with communications attacking it pouring in upon the House from merchants and dealers in several counties. One said the plan is sounding "the death knell for thousands of independent merchants."

After brief session, both houses adjourned until 9 p. m. Monday.

Replying to Judge Niles when he tried to calm her sobbing, she said:

"I am going to die in two weeks and I am trying to do the best I can.

"I know that Sammy is dead and Anne is dead and I am going to be dead."

Her tears rolled faster and forced a recess until she was able to continue.

The 29-year-old physician's wife had left the stand late yesterday only after hinting, in a hysterical outburst, of a plan for suicide.

After a gruelling afternoon on the witness stand as the state's star witness in which she constantly bickered with her questioners, Mrs. Judd screamed:

"I'm telling you what I intend to write, and to take with me to God when I commit suicide!"

Mrs. Judd testified she killed both women in self-defense in their Phoenix bungalow in October, 1931, and that she had followed Halloran's advice only to conceal the killings. She said Halloran placed the bodies of the two women in trunks, "bullied" her into taking them to Los Angeles, and instructed her not to tell her husband, Dr. William C. Judd. Halloran had been a friend of all three women.

Mrs. Roosevelt Visits Mrs. Pinchot Feb. 1

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will pay a two-day visit to Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the Governor of Pennsylvania, in about a fortnight.

Mrs. Roosevelt plans to arrive in Harrisburg in time for dinner at the Executive Mansion on February 1. The following day she will speak at a luncheon.

Two 'Ghost' Scares Bring Police Squads

A vigil light in a window at 5533 Bartlett street and a creaking door at 2205 Shady avenue alarmed nearby residents early today who sent calls to East End and Squirrel Hill Police Stations for help. Scout cars responded, determined the cause of the neighbors' alarm, reassured them and continued on their way.

2ND ROOSEVELT PARLEY WITH HOOVER SET

President-Elect to Go Into World Situation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt will confer at the White House Friday morning on foreign affairs and international developments now unfolding.

The President intends to confine the conference to those topics alone, as the situation now stands. This was asserted in the highest quarters this forenoon, soon after it developed that Mr. Hoover had invited his successor-to-be to a second meeting in the Executive Mansion.

Although the White House officially remained silent, it was stated that the meeting would be a continuation of the present administration's effort to gain an accord with the incoming administration on international policies.

This has been interpreted in official circles to mean not only the war debt, armament and world economic problems, but probably also talk of the Sino-Japanese conflict.

No word came from White House officials regarding the advisers who might sit with the President and the President-elect in the conference.

At their previous talk, Secretary Mills and Prof. Raymond Moley, the latter an adviser of Mr. Roosevelt, joined in the exchange of opinion.

It appeared likely, in view of his recent talk with Mr. Roosevelt and the emphasis that probably will be placed upon foreign affairs, that Secretary Stimson might join the President in his forthcoming conference.

FILIPINOS STUDY FREEDOM OFFER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The question of independence today was one for the 13,000,000 people of the Philippine Islands to decide, and they probably will accept the conditions laid down by Congress.

Despite some expressed opposition, there were indications that the 10-year transitional period would be taken by Filipino leaders as the best possible terms now obtainable and that the Insular Legislature would accept the independence bill enacted yesterday by Congress.

Members of the Philippine Independence Mission here, composed of leaders of the island legislative body, said after the Senate had voted, 66 to 26, to override President Hoover's veto:

"The full realization of the significance of this action will bring joy and happiness to the hearts of the Filipino people."

RATES ON RIVER COAL DEFENDED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau today filed a protest with the Interstate Commerce Commission against the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad's latest attempt to have the ex-river coal case reopened.

Ex-river coal is shipped by barge to Conway or Colona, Pa., and there loaded into railroad cars for shipment to Ohio points.

Other trunk line carriers joined the Baltimore and Ohio in attempting to have the case reopened. They contended present rates on ex-river coal were too low.

In its brief today the Coal Traffic Bureau contended shippers had invested "large sums of money in reliance" that present ex-river rates would be maintained, and "should not now be denied the opportunity to realize upon their investments."

The trunk line carriers petitioned the commission to reopen the case during hearings on Ohio intrastate rates several weeks ago.

The Youngstown Chamber of Commerce, the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company filed answers similar to that of the coal bureau.

LIONS FOR MADE-TO-ORDER HUNT

THE CAGED LIONS FOR DENVER M. WRIGHT'S SECOND LION HUNT IN THE MISSOURI OZARKS

Fear Lions May Get Ill In Rain Delays Hunt

WOLF ISLAND, Mo., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Rain soaked and muddy, the 20 members of Denver M. Wright's lion hunting expedition are encamped on a 190-acre Mississippi River island near here, waiting for the weather to clear so that two lions purchased by Wright may be released and hunted down in the best South African style.

After many glances at a lowering sky, Wright decided today the weather was not favorable for the release of the two full grown lions from the cages in which they were transported to the island from St. Louis. He said:

"It would not be humane. They might catch cold and die. We'll wait for things to dry out again."

And so the members of the expedition, water soaked from a sleepless night under leaky tents, settled down to breakfast prepared on a gasoline stove by the cook of the expedition.

Yesterday's trip from East Prairie was for the most part a drag over muddy roads. Throughout the journey it rained.

The lions took it philosophically. They roared only when some one poked at them with a stick for the edification of farmers, past whose home the caravan wended its way.

School Pay Cut Fight Splits Senate Group

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—The Senate Education Committee is torn by dissension over a proposal of some rural members to cut the pay of Pennsylvania teachers 25 per cent, and a demand by Philadelphia members that the slice shall be at least 20 per cent. Allegheny County's two Senators on the committee, Morris Einstein and Herman Brandt, are fighting for a reduction no greater than 10 per cent, the voluntary cut taken by the Pittsburgh school teachers last year. They also insist that the cut shall be only for two years, and that the present statutory pay rate shall then be restored.

Einstein was questioned today on his attitude, after it was learned from another source that the committee members had yesterday held a discussion in which the teachers' pay was the salient issue. The North Side Senator said:

"I am in favor of no more than a 10 per cent cut in pay for the teaching forces. The Pittsburgh teachers have voluntarily accepted that reduction and should be asked to do no more."

In Philadelphia the teachers have taken no reduction. This has led to an insistence by Philadelphia Senators that the slice shall be 20 per cent as a retrenchment measure. It is argued that other public and private employes have taken similar reductions.

ENGINEER DIES AS FALLING BOULDERS WRECK P. R. R. TRAIN

THREE OF CREW INJURED IN CRASH

Engineman Pinned in Cab, Scalded by Escaping Steam

BLAIRSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 18.—Pinned beneath a freight locomotive of the Pennsylvania Railroad when it plowed into two huge boulders as it rounded a curve east of here early today, Engineer A. G. Gascoine, 52, of Glenshaw, was killed and Fireman Charles McGraw, of New Florence, was injured seriously. Two other members of the crew were injured slightly.

The boulders, weighing 50 to 60 tons, rolled down the hillside at Alums Curve, blocking the westbound tracks of the Bolivar branch, used exclusively for freight traffic. The recent thawing weather is believed to have loosened the boulders, permitting them to topple down the steep embankment overhanging the tracks and the Conemaugh River.

TRACKS BLOCKED

Seven box cars and coal gondolas, part of the train of 64 cars which had left Altoona shortly before midnight, buckled and were left a twisted mass of steel and timber as the locomotive struck the obstruction. Both east and westbound tracks were blocked several hours.

Gascoine, who had recently completed 35 years service with the Pennsylvania Railroad, died with his hands on the throttle. He had been scalded to death. His body was pinned to his seat in the cab as the locomotive toppled over into the soft mud of the steep embankment down which the boulders had rolled a short time before. The body was removed three hours after the accident.

WAKENS SLEEPERS

Several residents of Blairsville, three miles away, said they were awakened by the report of the crash.

McGraw, scalded on the face and arm and bruised, made a desperate effort to rescue Gascoine. Escaping steam from a broken line blocked his efforts, as well as those of the train crew. McGraw was taken to Indiana Hospital.

The others injured were E. M. Snyder, of Sharpsburg, head brakeman, who was riding in a cabin in the rear of the tender, and Clarence Fishell, conductor. John Zimmers, of Blairsville, flagman, was uninjured.

Gascoine, married, was the father of eight children. He lived at 12 Orchard avenue, Glenshaw.

STALIN BLAMED BY TROTZKY FOR SUICIDE

Exile Holds Daughter Victim of Vengeance Against Him

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Leon Trotzky, the exiled Bolshevist leader, has fixed upon Joseph Stalin the responsibility for the recent suicide here of Trotzky's daughter, Zinaida.

In a letter from his exile home in the Island of Prinkipo to the central committee of the Communist party he asserts that Stalin's decree of February, 1932, depriving the whole Trotzky family of Russian citizenship shattered his daughter's health.

Zinaida and her son came to Turkey for her health, having first obtained Stalin's permission, the letter said. After great difficulty a German visa was obtained for her and physicians in Berlin restored her health. Trotzky's letter said:

"Then, she dreamed of returning to Russia with her boy to join her 10-year-old daughter and her husband who, as a Bolshevist Leninist had been sent into exile by Stalin.

"Then came the terrible news that she had been deprived of her Russian citizenship, although she took no part whatever in politics.

"To deprive her of her citizenship was a senseless act of revenge against me. It wrecked my daughter's health. They call it a voluntary death. No, it wasn't voluntary. Stalin forced this death upon her."

He charged the Communist authorities at Moscow also had caused the death of his daughter, Nina, who was imprisoned although her health was very frail.

He had been scalded to death. His body was pinned to his seat in the cab as the locomotive toppled over into the soft mud of the steep embankment down which the boulders had rolled a short time before. The body was removed three hours after the accident.

WISCONSIN GIRL STILL SNEEZES

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Isolated from her friends because of the danger of infecting them with sneeze producing germs, Daisy Jost, 15, looked forward hopefully today to the time when she can leave St. Joseph's Hospital.

Although she sneezed about four times a minute when she entered the hospital a week ago, the girl now sneezes only once every three or four hours, attendants said.

Dr. William E. Henske, the attending physician, said she would have to remain under observation for several days before she returned to the home of her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lundy Beachem.

Salt Lake City reports 11 inches of snow on the ground. It is colder in the Mississippi region, the Upper Ohio Valley, Arizona and Southern Utah, and warmer over the plains and the Rocky Mountains.

RUM WAR KILLS 3 IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Three men, including one identified by police as the film colony's leading dealer in illicit liquor, were slain today in what authorities said was an outbreak of gang warfare for Southern California's bootleg trade.

Harry Meager, described as the "Kingpin" of Hollywood wholesale bootleggers, and a man believed to be one of his dealers, were mysteriously shot to death near the home of Meager.

The third slaying, which police believe was linked with the killing of the other two men, was that of Mickey Erno, former boxer known as the "Silky Kid." His body was found on the outskirts of Long Beach.

Meager, who numbered many screen luminaries among his friends, was found dead a short distance from his automobile.

In the wreckage police found the unidentified man. Police said it was apparent a third man had leaped from the automobile after shooting the pair.

Meager, police reported, recently complained that "eastern gangsters" were endeavoring to gain control of the Hollywood liquor traffic.

PRUSSIA RAISES KAISER'S FLAG

Berlin, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—As the imperial colors waved over the Prussian Diet today for the first time since the revolution, Hans Kerrl, president of the Diet, in an address commemorating the sixty-second anniversary of the founding of the Reich, praised the Hohenzollerns. He said:

"The empire would always have remained a Utopia if the Hohenzollerns had not become the sponsors of the idea of a united Germany."

The Nazi members of the Diet wildly cheered his statement.

The hoisting of the imperial colors alongside the Republican flag on the Diet building caused a stormy debate by the Socialists, who protested that this was contrary to the constitution. The Socialists and the Communist members left during the commemorative exercises.

Sees U. S. in New League of Nations

The United States, Canada and Mexico will unite to form a new league of nations "that will make the North American Continent independent of all the rest of the world," J. A. Velenzuela, Mexican consul to Pittsburgh, believes. Such a prediction was made last night in an address before the International Club of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. He said:

"Together with Canada, we have everything, we all need and this increasing friendliness is going to bring about a league of the three nations."

Irene Castle Loses Fight to Save Dogs

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(Universal).—Dog lovers and anti-vivisectionists, headed by Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, lost the first round of their fight today to restrain the dog pound from turning over stray animals to the medical colleges for experimentation.

Judge Hugo Friend declined to grant the requested injunction, but gave attorneys for the Illinois Anti-Vivisection Society 10 days in which to file an amended petition.

HOUSE REPEAL DRIVE PUSHED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—The thrust of militant House wets for another vote on prohibition repeal this session progressed today.

The petition through which Representative Schafer (Rep.), of Wisconsin, hopes to revive repeal, had been signed by 33 members in 24 hours. A total of 145 signatures is necessary to insure a vote.

Schafer was encouraged by Speaker Garner's observation that he "didn't care one way or the other" about the resolution. This, Schafer holds, lifts official pressure against the movement.

Meantime, the modified Collier bill proposing to legalize 3.05 per cent beer, porter, ale, wine and fruit juice was still before the Senate Judiciary Committee. It is expected to be reported next Monday.

FIVE-DAY WEEK HELD VITAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—The work day and the wo[rk] week in industry must be shor[t]ened unless the United States [i]tends to maintain a perpet[ual] standing army of millions of u[n]employed, William Green, pre[si]dent of the American Federati[on] of Labor, told the House Lab[or] Committee today.

He appeared in support of th[e] Connery bill proposing a fine o[f] $1,000 on domestic or foreig[n] products in interstate commerc[e] produced where a longer day tha[n] six hours and a longer week than five days was in effect.

Green said there were now 11,000,000 unemployed with many more millions working part time.

Mine Mule Mike Happy, Marooned in Pit Flood

HARRISBURG, Ill., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Mike, an old gray mule, is marooned in the flooded Ogara mine No. 3 here, but he isn't finding it such a hardship.

The men who were driven out of the mine are seeing to it that Mike suffers no privations. When Mike was driven from the mule barn, which he occupied alone, the miners built a small platform, about 12 feet wide and 14 feet long, and there he is perched night and day. Feed and fresh water are sent down to him regularly. While he is about 250 feet underground, he has an electric light to cheer his solitude.

Mike, with the stoicism born of more than 12 years spent underground pulling coal cars, today was reported docilely contented with his waterlogged life. He was the only mule left in the mine after it was mechanized about a year ago.

When the workings became flooded, the miners intended to take Mike out by lifting him on a cage, but rising water prevented this. The breaking of a creek dam near the mine resulted in its being flooded.

Met Star Stricken Dumb At 'Manon' Performance

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Mostly when the Metropolitan Opera Company does "Manon," Giacomo Lauri-Volpi sings "Des Grieux," but not last night. Just before the curtain was to rise his voice failed him.

The performance was being given at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, and Lauri-Volpi was in costume. Suddenly his vocal chords tightened so that he could not speak.

While Lauri-Volpi was hurrying to consult his physician, officials of the opera company were telephoning Armando Tokatyan, another tenor. Within three minutes after he reached the academy he was in costume and the curtain rose. The performance went forward without a break and with only a few minutes' delay.

The performance was conducted by Louis Hasselmans, who insisted upon handling the baton despite the fact that today he was to attend the funeral of his wife, Mrs. Hasselmans, who was Minnie Egener, lyric soprano, died Sunday.

Lauri-Volpi's ailment was diagnosed as "clergyman's sore throat," a swelling over the vocal chords, which is easily curable.

BUY AMERICAN, URGE TRADERS AND S. A. R.

The Pennsylvania Society, Sons of the American Revolution, and the Chartiers Board of Trade, have joined the paean of praise for the "Buy American" movement.

Weaver H. Rogers, president of the Pennsylvania Society, wrote:

"The Pennsylvania society approves, indorses and most highly commends the splendid effort to 'Buy American' products, things made by American labor in plants located in the United States.

"It is requested that those responsible for advertising programs over the radio and elsewhere be encouraged to likewise support American labor, American products, American artists and American principles."

The indorsement was submitted by Eugene L. Connelly, chairman of publicity of the society.

The Chartiers Board of Trade, meeting in the Charmas Club, passed a resolution indorsing "Buy American." President Charles P. Murray presiding.

Caution

Because of the tremendous public popularity of the "Buy American" campaign, certain persons are offering for sale to the public cards, stickers and various articles for a profit.

The Sun-Telegraph herewith informs the public that it is not engaged in any particular in the sale of anything in this connection, and that association of its name with such activities is unauthorized.

SCHOOL CLASS HOLDS PROM

The senior class of Wilkinsburg High School held its prom last night in the high school gymnasium. The committee, under direction of the class president, Richard Byrne, and the sponsor, Miss Edna M. Reitz, was composed of Betty Schieber, McKee Boal, John George, Clara Mae Pollock, Drew Farnsworth and Cheryl Bien, from the graduating class, and from the Senior B class, Donald Heep, Sam Brown, Estelle Carothers, Betty Roth, Lyda Jane Doran and Bill Spear.

The next function of the graduating class will be class night, Friday. The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered Sunday night in the Trinity Reformed Church. Commencement exercises will be held in the high school Monday night. Dr. Weir C. Ketler, president of Grove City College, will give the address. Alberta Gilroy, validictorian, and Samuel Bistline will be student speakers.

Poe's Anniversary To See His Lone Play

UNIVERSITY, Va., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—For the first time in the hundred years since it was written, Edgar Allan Poe's only dramatic work, "Politian," will be presented on the speaking stage here tomorrow in celebration of the one hundred and twenty-third anniversary of the eccentric genius' birth.

The work, written during the winter of 1832-33, was only recently published in complete form. The university players will stage the world premiere.

Mrs. Sayre's Riets Held in Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Funeral services for Mrs. Jessie Wilson Sayre, daughter of President Woodrow Wilson and wife of Prof. Francis B. Sayre, of the Harvard Law School, were conducted today in Christ Chruch.

Among the distinguished persons attending the services was William Gibbs McAdoo, Senator-elect from California, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Sayre.

Wants West Va. Named 'State Of Roosevelt'

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 18.—Benjamin L. Rosenbloom, of Wheeling, former Congressman, has proposed West Virginia be changed to the state of Roosevelt. He said:

"I am sick and tired of West Virginia being the tail of a kite. If you want to know what they think of us over in Virginia, look at your tax ticket, which shows we are still paying the Virginia debt—a debt we shouldn't have had to pay."

'MA' FERGUSON ASKS SALES TAX

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, inaugurated governor of Texas yesterday, transmitted to the Legislature today a message recommending a tax of 3 per cent on all commercial sales "with but a few exceptions."

Mrs. Ferguson proposed a reduction of $15,106,724 in appropriations to support the state government during the next biennium. She said:

"If we continue the present plan of taxes upon real estate, commonly known as ad valorem taxes, it would exceed the constitutional limit and under present conditions it would not be paid, only in part. The present total deficit of $11,949,214.59 is ample warning to us of how uncertain it will be to depend upon ad valorem taxes to meet our needs in the future.

"We had just as well face the problem seriously and recognize that real estate values are fast slipping, and the ability of the people who own real estate to further pay ad valorem taxes is becoming almost an impossibility."

BRITAIN FEARS FOR 2 FLIERS

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—England was watching with deepest solicitude efforts today to clear up the mysteries involving two of the empire's most famous fliers—Bert Hinkler, of Australia, and Lady Mary Bailey, of South Africa.

Already one of England's numerous pilots, Capt. W. L. (Wally) Hope, is actively engaged in searching the towering Alps of Switzerland for traces of Hinkler, who it was feared came to grief trying to fly over them 11 days ago on a projected speed flight to Australia.

Another of them, Capt. J. A. Mollison, the trans-Atlantic flier, announced he was ready to start at a moment's notice in search of Lady Bailey, missing in the Sahara Desert since Sunday while attempting to break the London-Cape Town record established by Mollison's wife, Amy Johnson Mollison.

ALGIERS, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The commander at Colomb Bechar telegraphed authorities here today that a hunt by French military forces for Lady Mary Bailey would be futile now that it was almost certain she was down in some isolated spot on the desert.

State Will Probe 'Company Stores'

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—The Attorney General's Department today agreed to join in quo warranto proceedings against the Valley Camp Coal Company and the Lilley Mining Company, operating in the vicinity of Brownsville, to determine if they are operating so-called "company stores" illegally. The request for the proceedings was brought by a delegation of miners last week.

Woman Burned In Gas Explosion

Chicago that I would meet him at Phillippi. I have met him and he is vanquished."

While the American public sweats under the load of depression, while fear is rampant over safety of the public's funds in many banks, shall personal grievances dominate in the Senate?

THE GLASS banking bill has received official approval of the Senate's own Committee on Banking and Currency.

Aside from the filibustering Senators, opposition to the banking reforms springs solely from the banking fraternity.

This is wholly natural. Bankers invariably oppose any and all reforms. They fought the Federal Reserve act, which has been virtually their savior.

The big banks bitterly oppose that provision in the Glass bill which will force segregation of security-promoting and security-distributing affiliates.

Small banks are fighting the Glass bill because it would legalize branch banking.

In both instances, banking opposition to the bill is predicated on selfishness rather than public interest.

The big banks have inspired their small correspondent banks to violent opposition to the Glass bill. They are capitalizing the natural small-bank antagonism to the branch-banking provision.

THE BIG banks recognize the advantages of branch-banking.

But they violently oppose the requirement that they, the big banks, divest themselves of subsidiary or affiliated organizations whose principal business is underwriting, promotion and selling of securities.

Certainly the public interest is best served by such segregation.

But big profits for the big banks accrue from such promotions.

To conceal their true opposition, the big banks have fired the anger of their small-bank correspondents on the branch banking provision. Have these small banks forgotten the rightful losses entailed in their purchases FROM THE BIG BANKS' SECURITY AFFILIATES of grossly over-valued, scandal-contaminated foreign bonds and other worthless securities?

The Glass bill's liquidating corporation seeks to make more quickly available to depositors their funds tied up in closed banks. Can there be logical opposition to such a proposal?

Is it conceivable that after these last few years of banking scandals, of colossal losses entailed in a weak banking structure, of the tragic sequence of joint commercial banking and security-promotions, that a measure such as the Glass banking bill is destined to doom through a filibuster in the august Senate of the United States?

ties, and so betray their patrons and their trusts on a commission basis.

You know that Senator Glass is a fine, honorable, sound-thinking statesman.

You know that he was Secretary of the Treasury in Wilson's administration and thoroughly understands finance.

YOU KNOW that Senator Glass's bill proposes to divorce the banks from their affiliates and confine them to legitimate banking.

You know that the bill also proposes to permit the Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation to advance money on the frozen securities in banks which had failed and so allow depositors in broken banks to receive immediately their due proportion of the assets of these banks.

You know that the bill is throughout a relief and reform measure which the country urgently needs not only to correct existing conditions but to prevent the occurrence of future catastrophies.

Perhaps you do not know, however, that the bankers do not want to be reformed.

Perhaps you do not know that Wall Street does not want its opportunities for speculation and peculation restricted in any way.

Perhaps you do not know that the high financiers do not want their highway robbery interfered with.

SO THEY went to Congress to kill the Glass bill.

To whom in Congress did they go?

To the conservatives?

No.

To the progressives?

No.

To whom then?

To the demagogues, of course.

And there is a very seasonable supply of demagogues in the present Congress.

The hard times promote the demagogues to the detriment of the sound statesman, just as a year of bad weather in agriculture increases the rank weeds which choke the useful grain.

The demagogues are short on sincerity, but long on talk,—and so a meritorious measure is being talked to death under the pretense that these demagogues are serving the public when in reality these buccaneers in politics are serving their fellow buccaneers in business and protecting and perpetuating the dishonest system under which the people of the United States have been plundered and impoverished.

Intelligent citizens of America, if you want conscientiousness and competence in Congress, if you want sincerity and honesty and ability in the conduct of your public affairs, you must take enough interest in your politics to reward the loyal men who have served you and to remember and reject the demagogues who have betrayed you.

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

UNIFIED SCHOOL SYSTEM URGED BY LEAGUE

The Allegheny County Real Estate Owners' and Taxpayers' League has announced it favors unification of the school system in Pennsylvania under the supervision of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, the costs to be met by taxes levied by the state.

The organization approves the continued appointment of school boards by the courts. It suggests a system of education commensurate with the ability of the taxpayer to meet the cost.

The league approves the stand taken recently by Dr. William J. Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, that state and national governments should assume the duties of paying for education.

A state personal tax or sales tax is advocated as a method of distributing the cost equitably among the citizens.

In answer to a recent address made by the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson on "Schools and Politics," Attorney B. Robert Averbach has written a letter declaring economies in the school system and in every branch of government are necessary to relieve the taxpayers.

Dr. Goldenson recently spoke against an elective school board. Averbach in his letter declares the only question at issue is the relief of the property owner. He asks why the Board of Public Education should carry $1,102,110 as a surplus when property owners are finding it difficult to meet current expenses.

Dog Tax Refund Sought; Pup Dies

READING, Pa., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Can a man have his 1933 dog license fee refunded if his dog dies five minutes before expiration of the 1932 tag?

Robert Gerhart, County Treasurer, pondered the question raised today by a man who said his dog died five minutes before midnight, January 15, after the new license was paid for. He referred the problem to the State Department of Agriculture.

Bound Body Found On Rails, 4 Grilled

GAFFNEY, S. C., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The mutilated body of C. E. Marsh, 48, Gaffney business man, was found on the tracks of the Southern Railway here last night. The head was tied in a burlap sack and the arms bound.

Authorities held four suspects, one of them a business rival of the dead man, for questioning.

MUSIC

Chicago Symphony Orchestra

Syria Mosque

PROGRAM

Symphony, D Major (Kochel 504) ..... Mozart
Symphony No. 1, E Minor, Opus 39 ..... Sibelius
Variations on a Theme by Joseph Haydn, Opus 56a ..... Brahms
Dance of Nymphs and Satyrs, from "Amor and Psyche," Opus 3 ..... G. Schumann
Selections from Act III, "Siegfried" ..... Wagner
(a) Siegfried Ascending Brunnhilde's Rock.
(b) Brunnhilde's Awakening.
(c) Finale.

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Frederick Stock conducting, gave its single concert in Syria Mosque last night. It was a revelation to watch Pittsburgh respond to a program with two symphonies, but no surprise when listening to this superb playing.

Mr. Lissfelt

A Mozart and a Sibelius Symphony side by side are excellent partners; both are enhanced by such proximity and each is of such individual strength that it stands radiantly on its own merits. Of Sibelius we cannot hear too soon again. Infinite fancy, solid workmanship, not only skillful but bewitching orchestration mark this first symphony. Its flavor is akin to Tschaikowsky, but never so dismal. Its darkness has the hope of the long summer sun of the North.

Brahms' Variations belong to the period of his first symphony and yet he was so loyal to his theme and Haydn that he wrote in Haydn's spirit rather than in his own, so well established by that time. We want more of George Schumann, too. It is difficult to associate so delicate a dance with the German spirit in orchestral works; it suggests perhaps D'Indy. And lastly we pay tribute to Mr. Stock himself for his arrangements of the "Siegfried" fragments. How beautifully he has welded this music into a concert piece, and with what a sure hand he has transposed "Hail Thee Sun" from Brunnhilde's lips to the voice of his orchestra!

That the orchestra is right now goes without saying. Mr. Stock's effortless conducting brings classic repose to all he touches so that the niceties of variations, the glory of an operatic score, or the adjusting of dynamics within a symphony seem to ask but for the turn of his hand. Never before has he read more profoundly for us, and never before so charmingly as during the Schumann Dance.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

FRAUD CHARGED IN BUTLER

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 18.—There is little likelihood of George W. Rogers, alias H. W. Currier, being returned to Butler from Philadelphia, District Attorney E. H. Negley said today. Rogers, with Robert Taylor and R. L. Broyles, were arrested by Philadelphia authorities and are held for a hearing on charges involving alleged fraudulent bond transactions.

Negley lodged a detainer against Rogers, after C. A. Blaine, of Center Township, filed an information. Blaine claims Rogers obtained $700 worth of West Penn Power Company stock from him by representing that the West Penn Power Company was calling in its stock for a new issue.

Martin L. Hilliard, of West Sunbury, today told District Attorney Negley that he had been defrauded of $2,000 stock in a similar scheme.

Night Club Patrons Chagrined by Raid

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The dancing and prancing at Will Oakland's Willow Club was capped by a surprise finale shortly after midnight today. As the entertainers were warming up to their song and dance stuff, eight dry agents arose and announced the house was in their hands.

The customers filed sadly away while the agents, announcing they had found 18 bottles behind the bar, led Oakland and seven employers to a police station.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 18.—Mrs. Susan Fry Kent, 98, said to be the oldest woman in Greene County, is dead at her home near here.

FATHER O'NEILL DIES AT HAYS

The Rev. Patrick J. O'Neill, of the Holy Angels Church, Hays, died last night at the parish house after a short illness. He was ordained 41 years ago at St. Vincent's Archabbey, Latrobe, and had been pastor of the Holy Angel Church for 15 years. He formerly was pastor of St. Clair Church, in Clairton.

Father O'Neill was born in Ireland. He leaves three sisters, Miss Ellen O'Neill, his housekeeper; Mrs. Catherine Devine, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Bridget Conway, of Ireland.

WALKER SCANS WINE OFFER

PARIS, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—Former Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, today was considering an offer, which, if accepted, would make him the dictator and guiding genius of French wine exports to the United States, provided such exports become legal.

Under the plan, New York's erstwhile mayor would dictate the quality and quantity of the exported liquors. It was reported he was offered a salary of approximately $40,000 a year.

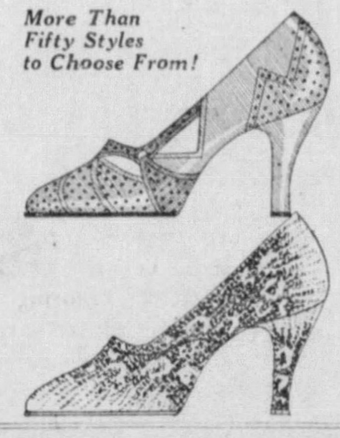
More Than Fifty Styles to Choose From!



WHITE HYACINTHS

. . . to feed the soul

A GREAT department store, one of the largest in the country, published a most unusual advertisement. "Buy something you don't need," it read. And there is a sound and worthy philosophy beneath that seemingly cold and calloused plea . . . a philosophy that has endured for centuries.

"If I had two loaves," wrote the Persian poet, Sadi of Shiraz, "I would sell one, and buy white hyacinths, to feed my soul." And throughout all history men have sold their loaves to buy white hyacinths.

We would modify the exhortation of the department store. Buy something you could do without, but something you very much want . . . The antique chair you've been promising yourself. The new carpeting for the dining room . . . The electric grandfather's clock, or the sterling silver.

Values were never so great, for the amount expended, as now. You have only to turn to the advertisements in this newspaper to be convinced. Here is written a story too important for you to miss. And very often you will find you may keep both loaves . . . and have your hyacinths as well.

'33 AUTO SHOW TO BE STAGED DOWNTOWN

Pittsburgh's annual auto show moves to the downtown district this year to display the latest in motor cars for six days beginning Monday in the Hotel William Penn.

Not alone will the array of automotive creations be found in new surroundings after years of displaying in East Liberty, but a free exhibition of automobile accessories, parts and equipment, electric refrigerators and radios will be a new feature. The show hours will be longer with doors open from 11 a. m until 11:30 p. m. each day through Saturday, January 28. A lower admission price also will be offered.

The shining new 1933 models will be exhibited in the Chatterbox, and the lower exhibition hall. The supper club will move to the Urban Room during the week. Throughout the hotel's lobby and corridors, the display of accessories, radios and refrigerators will be open to the public.

The Pittsburgh Auto Dealers Association, sponsoring the show, anticipates the largest afternoon attendance ever accorded the event. W. N. Owings, secretary, explaining the facilities of the new location said:

"Moving to the center of the shopping and theatrical district, we believe the show will be more accessible from all parts of the city and for out-of-town visitors. Better parking facilities will be available than heretofore. Downtown businessmen will find it more convenient for visiting during the luncheon hour and afternoon. Too, the show will test the Town Hall idea for the downtown district. The facilities of the hotel will lend themselves to the staging of a more impressive show."

George Gray is president of the dealers' association.

Kiwanians to Study Child Welfare Work

Outline of the under-privileged child welfare work to be conducted throughout Western Pennsylvania this year by Kiwanis clubs will be given tomorrow at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club of Pittsburgh in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Jacob Engel, chairman of the local committee, who also heads the state work, will be in charge of the program. An illustrated talk will be a feature.

Scientist to Give . . . Lecture on Hawaii

Dr. S. A. Barrett, director of the Milwaukee Museum, will give a free illustrated lecture in Carnegie Lecture Hall tomorrow at 8:15 p. m. "Hawaii—A Tropical Paradise" will be the subject.

Italian Consul To Speak at Frat

Giovanni Giurato, Italian vice consul, will speak at a meeting of the Business Fraternity of the University of Pttsburgh Saturday. A dinner will be served. Chalmers F. Zahniser is in charge.

COUNTY RELIEF PARLEY SET

"Welfare Work in Allegheny County" will be the subject of a one-day welfare conference, February 8, at Hotel Schenley. The conference will be organized in round table discussions on a variety of subjects linked with relief here.

John A. Lapp, Chicago, ex-president of the National Conference of Social Work, heads a distinguished group of speakers and discussion leaders from other cities. Allegheny County's representatives include M. W. Acheson, Jr., president of the Pittsburgh Federation of Social Agencies.

At the luncheon there will be a joint meeting of the Pittsburgh Federation of Social Agencies and the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania. "Social Justice" will be the topic at dinner.

The conference is designed primarily to acquaint the public with the welfare work being performed in Allegheny County.

2-HOUR COOKING SCHOOL ON AIR

Miss Eleanor Howe, chief home economist of the Radio Cooking Club of America, is conducting a daily "Two-way Cooking School" over station WCAE from Kaufmann's auditorium. The program will continue through Friday, between 2 and 4 p. m.

Miss Howe will give demonstration during her two-hour radio talks and will answer questions which women are invited to telephone to Kaufmann's during the broadcast periods.

The programs will be: Today, "Let's Bake;" Thursday, "Just a Bit Different," and Friday, "Frills and Furbelows."

Stewards to Hold Annual Ball Feb. 22

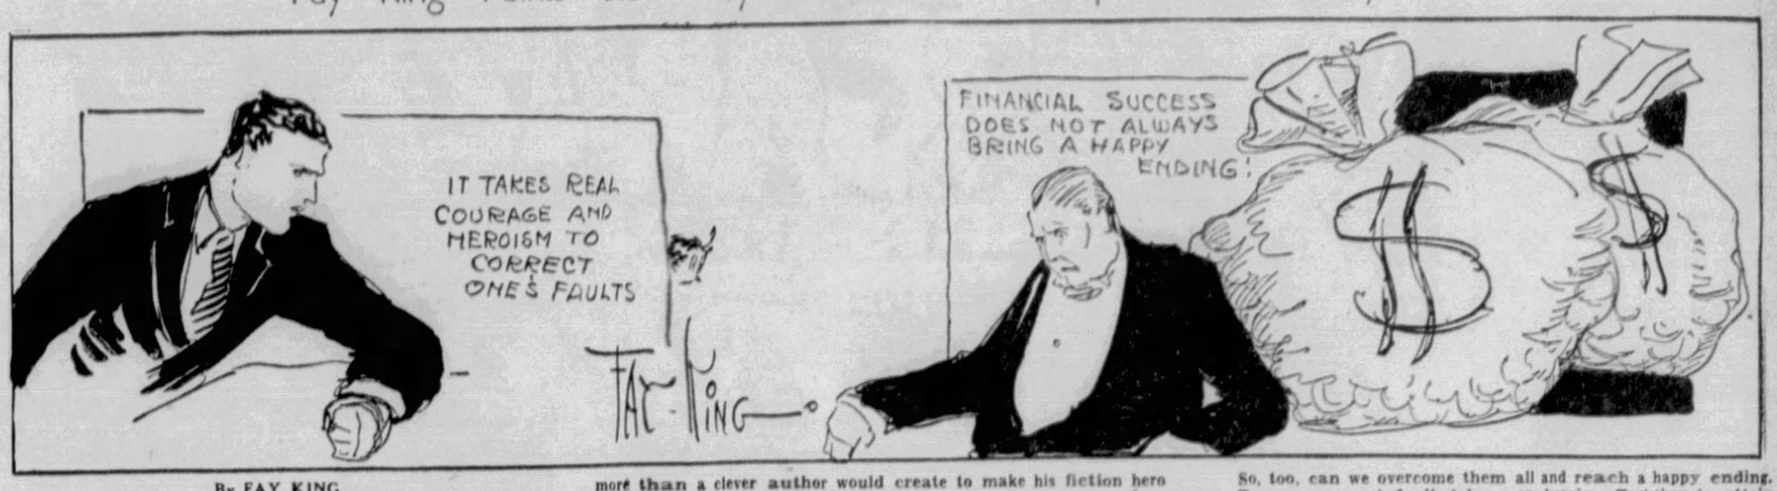
Fay King Points the Way to Thrill and Inspiration in Every Life



IT TAKES REAL COURAGE AND HEROISM TO CORRECT ONE'S FAULTS
FAY KING
FINANCIAL SUCCESS DOES NOT ALWAYS BRING A HAPPY ENDING!

By FAY KING

Every one of us is the hero of an adventure story called "Life."

Every day is a page. Every year is a chapter. Not until Death writes "finis," and closes the book, is the plot completed.

Adventure begins with our first tooth, and our first step unassisted.

The obstacles and difficulties we all encounter in life are no more than a clever author would create to make his fiction hero more worthy of our attention and approval as he overcomes them all, one by one, to reach a happy ending.

So, too, can we overcome them all and reach a happy ending. To overcome one's faults takes more heroic effort than to attain financial success that has little to do with a happy ending.

Young Folk Should Discuss Future Before Marrying

Should lovers rush into marriage blind-folded?

Or should they discuss their individual notions and their joint future frankly, find out what they're honestly like, and what they really want behind all the pretty palaver?

George was all for frankness, and thought his sweetheart was; but when he spoke of the little tads he dreamed of having, pretty Nonie promptly told him that the picture was all wrong. Babies? Not for her!

So their romance was off, and poor George wondered whether he had bungled by being too honest, or was Nonie just a Queer One.

And here's Madge answering. According to Madge, folks should flock to the altar first, and get acquainted afterwards. Dear Elsie Robinson:

I read George's letter with a lot of interest, and I want to say that I think he was all wrong to discuss children with Nonie before they were married.

No single girl really knows whether she wants children or not, or what home would be like without them. After she is married and has settled down even if she thinks she doesn't want any, she will change her mind, because children are what really makes a home, and a girl will soon find it out when she sees how lonely a house is without them.

I think problems like that should be left to be worked out after people are married and begin to see just how things are. George made a mistake when he made an issue of it before they went to the altar.

If George goes ahead and marries her I am sure that she will want a baby or two herself, sooner or later. He loves her. Why not go ahead, and let this question rest for the present? I am sure it will be all right.

HAPPY WITH CHILD

I didn't think I wanted any, either, when I was just a silly, carefree girl; but after I got married it was different. I know that if my husband had brought up the subject as George did, I would have talked just like Nonie. And now—well, I am so happy with my little son!

If there had been an argument like that beforehand, the chances are I never would have married my husband, because he is crazy about having a family, too, and it might have smashed things, just as it is threatening to smash them for Nonie and George.

So I say, let all questions rest and work them out together after you're married. That is the best way. MADGE.

Maybe it was for you, Madge, but generally speaking, your plan doesn't hand women many medals for intelligence. Time was, of course, when wives rated as cows and no one expected them to exhibit brains; but if a modern girl doesn't know enough about herself and her world to decide whether she wishes children, she sounds to me like mighty poor material for a Missis.

NECESSARY FRANKNESS

No sane man would take a partner in the chicken business without discovering his ideas on chicken raising; nor would he dream of taking chances on a possible "change of mind" when all his happiness and bankroll were at stake. He would want to know exactly how his prospective partner felt, and what he was willing to do. He would also insist on definite, binding agreements as to a future program.

If it's necessary to take all that precaution before starting a chicken business, shouldn't we be at least equally frank about the biggest business on earth—the business of starting a family?

That, Madge, is how I should feel if I were a young man contemplating marriage. But perhaps I'm in the minority. So now, you tell me.

Do you, or don't you, think young folks should talk things over before the fatal day?

Should, or shouldn't, a girl know whether she wishes to have children before she decides to be a wife?

And if she's too skittish to face a discussion of these fundamental facts, is she, or isn't she, a good bet as a wife?

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Grows Anxious About Dicky and Hugh

Lillian started to her feet at my query concerning the Chinese, her eyes so tortured that I could have bitten my tongue through for uttering the fantastic suspicion that I had kept to myself, ever since I heard from Lucy of the queerly acting Chinese who had passed the school.

"I don't believe I have discovered anything." I told her steadily. "I keep telling myself that I am letting my imagination run away with me. That's why I wouldn't let myself trouble you this afternoon with something that I am sure you will say is utterly ridiculous. But—something outside myself made me peak just now, so—here it is."

I told them quickly of the Chinese who had passed the school, and of the description of him which Lucy had given me. As I talked I was conscious that not only Lillian's eyes were fixed tensely upon me. There was no stir or sound until I had finished, nor for several seconds afterwards. Then my father spoke.

"What do you make of it, Hugh?" he asked. "Was not Lee Chow sure after that night of—investigation—at the farmhouse, that those Chinese never would trouble us again?"

TENSION RELIEVED

An involuntary little shudder ran over me at the memories called up by my father's reference to that terrible night. Again I heard that suppressed, reedy cry from my studio bungalow where the trussed Chinese had been taken by our men, suddenly transformed into stern jailers because of the danger from the venomous desperadoes.

"You are entirely correct in your assumption," he told my father at last. "Lee Chow was sure that those Chinese would never be factors of trouble again, and I was entirely in agreement with his opinion. I see no reason, because of this incident, to withdraw from that position. However, as no happening, even something more trifling than this, should be overlooked, I should like to get in touch with Lee Chow concerning it. Shall I telephone him now, or do you wish me for something else first? I really believe it is a matter that can wait."

His imperturbable manner, his apparent belief that the incident meant nothing, patiently relieved the tension to which all our nerves were strung. Lillian voiced the feeling of us all, I think, when she uttered a quiet but fervent, "Thank you, Hugh," and then my father answered his question.

PLAN FOR ATTACK

"We do need you here for a little while. If we make that attack tomorrow night, we must get everything ready beforehand—material, men, everything. And, my dear chap, we shall have to depend upon your experience and training to plan and conduct that attack from the ground. Richard, of course, will be constantly in the air above you, and you must work out together your plan of action. This I am sure you will agree with me, must be planned as far as possible tonight, so that when Richard discovers the place where the girls are hidden, you can get into action at once.

"I already have 'materials' on the way, on the chance that we might need them," Hugh said, and I can have men here tomorrow—all we shall need. The place where I am will serve in a pinch to take care of them, but I should like to find some place that is safer."

"I think I can help you out," Dr. Barnes said quietly, but I scarcely heard him because of something that was beating against my consciousness.

Dicky and Hugh Grantland were to lead this attack! I knew the quick temper of my husband, and guessed that Hugh could be a bit arrogant and dictatorial when engaged in a difficult piece of work. I knew also the reason why the smoldering antagonism between them might burst into flame with the dropping of an inadvertent spark.

Would they be able to work amicably together, or might some sudden disagreement endanger the success of their attempt to rescue the girls?"

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Luckiest Fool Bid

The old saying, "The Lord makes special provisions for the care of fools and babies," occasionally, but not often, applies at the Bridge table. Even the best of players will, once in a blue moon, depart from the straight and narrow path of sound bids and indulge in a bid which seems to border on silliness.

This is disclosed by Miss Ethel Watkins, of Mobile, Ala., who tells the story of one of Mobile's leading Contract players, Dr. G., who made such a bid, with such an amazing result that it should go on record as the luckiest of its kind ever made.

South—Dealer.

East and West vulnerable; part-score 60.

	♠ J 10 6 4 2 ♡ A ◇ A J 7 5 4 ♣ A Q
♠ A 9 8 7 ♡ 7 6 4 ◇ 2 ♣ 9 7 5 3 2	North West East South	♠ K Q 5 3 ♡ K Q 9 8 3 ◇ — ♣ K J 10 8
	♠ — ♡ J 10 5 2 ◇ K Q 10 9 8 6 3 ♣ 6 4

Dr. G.

Dr. G. was the Dealer, as South, and, relizing that his hand had no defensive values, made the most unsound and unwise bid of one spade on the hand, which was void of that suit. West passed, and North immediately raised the contract to six spades. This was overenthusiastic bidding, as a much better response would have been three diamonds. The Forcing Takeout would have assured a game contract and provided a little leeway for the Opening bidder. The bid of six spades was doubled by East, and Dr. G. shifted then to seven diamonds, which West doubled.

The Doctor now regretted his temerity, but fortunately North passed, realizing that there must be something wrong with the spade distribution, and having even a stronger support for diamonds than for spades.

West opened the club 3, and the finesse was refused. Instead of a staggering defeat, there appeared a chance to make the contract if one of North's spades could be established to discard the losing club. Winning with the Ace, a small spade was led from Dummy. East played the Queen, and the Declarer trumped. The other players, including North, were amazed, and all joined in the conventional "No spades?" query.

The Doctor had no spades, but was successful in establishing the fifth spade in Dummy, and thus found a place on which to discard his only loser. Luck had played a merry prank in the distribution of the cards.

Today's Question

South bids one heart, and West bids one spade. What should be the response of North, holding the following hand?

♠ K 5 4 ♡ K 3 2 ◇ 10 9 8 7 ♣ A 4 2

Answer—One notrump. This bid should be preferred to a heart Raise, in view of the holding of 2 honor-tricks, a spade stopper and the balanced distribution.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

If blackheads are present on the otherwise satisfactory complexion, apply powdered boric acid to the skin when it is warm and moist from the facial tubbing. Don't rub in the powder, pat on lightly.

Wouldst be the grand sartorial display at the merry evening party? Then get a frock of the new bronze-green, wear eye shadow to match. Blondes, brunettes and in-betweens can wear this charming new shade. With burgundy tones, purple eye shadows are effective. With the white satin robe, lids touched with silver-blue lure the beauty prize.

Correct Manners

Wedding Invitations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to have an informal wedding . . . a ceremony at home and a dinner at a restaurant. I am not going to be dressed as a bride, and therefore I cannot send any formal invitations. Is there any such thing as an informal invitation? As I am going to have about 30 couples, I would not like to write that many letters. D.

That's just what I would like to have you do, though . . . write a gracious and charming note of invitation to your guests. One note will, of course, be right for a married couple.

Don't regard this writing as a chore. It will really be a delightful thing for you to do. Your notes of invitation will not be long, but they can be so friendly and fine that, before you know it, you will wonder why you ever regarded this as a "task."

First, for these notes, have excellent letter-paper; double-sheeted, white, heavy and fine of texture, paper of which you can be proud, paper worthy of carrying this most important invitation.

After all, 30 invitations to your marriage are important items, and you should regard them as an artistic adventure, not as a chore. Don't you really agree? Let me know if I can help with them, with the wording or composition.

It Is Not Proper

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper, when dining out, to pick up a chicken bone with your fingers? S.

No, this isn't proper, for it isn't "careful" eating . . . isn't pleasant for those who must look at us while we are eating. If we pick up the chicken bone in our fingers, we soil our fingers, and when we wipe our fingers on our napkins, our napkins certainly look messy. Leave the chicken bone on the plate where it belongs, and use your knife and fork skillfully.

Household Hints

Canned fruit should always be opened an hour or two before it is used and poured into a dish. It becomes richer after it has been allowed to absorb oxygen.

When any portion of a velvet gown is crushed from pressure, hold the part over a basin of hot water, lining side next to the water. The pile will soon be restored.

New potatoes should never be scraped a long time before they are needed and kept in water. Scrape them, rinse them through water and put straight away into boiling water to which salt has been added. They will not be "soapy" if treated in this way.

COOKING SCHOOL BACKED BY INSTITUTE

The Kroger Foundation Cooking School and Food Institute is to be presented in Pittsburgh, it was announced today. Arrangements have been completed for the big three-day free event to be held in the Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Hall. It is to be given in co-operation with the Sun-Telegraph.

Helen Watts Schreiber, nationally known lecturer and food expert, will conduct the school and institute.

The Kroger cooking school is being presented in only the leading cities of the country, and through it Pittsburgh women will be able to take advantage of the same features, lectures, gifts, etc., that are being offered in Detroit, St. Louis, Grand Rapids and Cleveland.

MANY NEW FEATURES

Not entirely unlike the usual cooking schools presented by newspapers, many new features have been added to this one to make it outstanding. It is sponsored and produced by the Kroger Food Foundation of Cincinnati, famous million-dollar institution endowed for the purpose of advancing knowledge of food. The Kroger Foundation, with its research laboratories, its experimental kitchens, and its splendid home economics department, has high standing in educational circles.

A wealth of new ideas and recipes and ways of doing things, a host of up-to-date food institute exhibits so fine that public school and college teachers are invited to bring their classes to see and hear about them, and scores of valuable gifts to the guests at each session are some of the features of this school.

ALL SESSIONS FREE

All sessions are to be free, and they will be held on the afternoons of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, January 25, 26, 27. The hours of the cooking school lecture are from 2 until 4 each afternoon. Women attending the cooking school are invited to come early and remain after the school closes to see the exhibits. The exhibits will be open in the mornings for school children and for home economics classes on appointment.

In this food institute, through a series of booths, leading food manufacturers of the country provide displays telling the romantic story of production, manufacture and marketing of foods found on the tables of America. Such food exhibits are rarely available save in the factories themselves or in great industrial fairs, and they are of interest alike to housewives and to students.

Women's clubs, home study groups and educational agencies have been asked to make careful note of the dates of the Kroger Foundation Cooking School and Food Institute, and to arrange their meetings so that members may take advantage of all the sessions. It is to be the most outstanding event of the kind that has ever been seen. Full details of the program will be announced later.

Murder, Suicide Verdict on Ex-Dean

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The final chapter in the life story of Justin Leroy Harris, whose career led him from clerical positions in Illinois to the post of dean in an Enid, Okla., university, and golf professional in New Jersey, was written by a coroner's jury here yesterday.

The jury held Harris killed his wife, Mrs. Byrtle Adele Harris, in their Redwood City home December 30 and 10 days later committed suicide in a San Francisco hotel. The couple was buried in "charity" graves.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

First Months of 1932 Healthiest on Record

It is gratifying to learn that in spite of severe economic distress the health of the nation has not been seriously impaired. Figures compiled by the health department of New York City show that the first nine months of 1932 were the healthiest months on record.

Dr. Copeland

There is one alarming statement in this otherwise encouraging report. More cases of diphtheria were reported during this period than in the preceding year. Deaths resulting from diphtheria have increased within recent months.

There is no denying that these conditions are founded on carelessness. Diphtheria is a preventable disease. It can be prevented by the "immunization" treatment. I am sorry to say that during the past year fewer children than usual have received diphtheria inoculations. Undoubtedly this explains the present marked increase in diphtheria.

There is grave danger in this increase. I want to impress upon all my readers the need of protecting the children against this serious disease. Bear in mind that your child is safe from diphthera only if he is immune to that disease. This can be determined by the Schick test and in no other way.

If your child has not been immunized against diphtheria, consult with your physician or the local board of health at once. A Schick test will be made. If it is negative there is no need for worry. If it is positive have your child inoculated against diphtheria. A positive Schick test means that your child is likely to contract diphtheria if exposed to the disease.

Sometimes the immunizing agent is used at once. Of course this does away with the need of the preliminary test.

'MOIST THROAT' ENDED HIS COUGH!

"I had coughs all winter, till I learned about 'moist throat,'" writes R. G., of New York City.

Your throat and bronchial tubes are lined with millions of pores like tiny "bottles" continually supplying moisture to the delicate tissues . . . until you "catch cold."

Then these pores clog. Phlegm collects — dangerous germs find a breeding place. Tickling, irritation and coughing set in.

Your cough will be cured only when you increase the flow of your throat's natural moisture, loosening the phlegm so it can be expelled. Many cough "remedies" contain numbing drugs which merely "deaden" the nerves . . . but don't get at the real root of the trouble!

PERTUSSIN, a scientific remedy, is the extract of a famous herb which opens the tiny glands, stimulates the flow of throat moisture and brings quick relief naturally.

If your throat's the least bit raw or dry, take a few spoons of PERTUSSIN now. It's absolutely safe, even for children. At all drug stores, 60¢.

SHANTY COLONY PAYING WAY

Father Cox, again in Mercy Hospital, feels some of his welfare problems have been fairly well settled. Shantytown, for the first time since it was started, is on a self-supporting basis. The residents of this unique community are devoting their time to the building of crates from donated lumber and selling them to the produce dealers at 15c each. As they pay no rent their earnings can be expended for food and clothing.

Just before going to the hospital, Father Cox organized a woman's sewing circle—both downtown and at Coxtown to mend donated and make new clothing for the needy. At its initial meeting in Old St. Patrick's last night, the sewing circle was organized under direction of Mrs. George Mason, Sr.

How long Father Cox will be in the hospital, is not known but, he needs the assistance of friends and sympathizers to carry out his welfare work.

That is why the Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph subscription drive will be continued indefinitely. The Sun-Telegraph not only calls attention of the public to his activities, bringing him many donations but also gives his relief fund a liberal cash commission for every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page.

CHEVROLET ANNOUNCES AN IMPROVED LINE OF SIX-CYLINDER TRUCKS SELLING AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES

■ Again Chevrolet leads the way to economical transportation! Chevrolet announces a greatly improved line of Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks—featuring a new engine. A new rear axle. A new frame. Many progressive changes in design and construction. And selling at new, greatly reduced prices that only the world's largest builder of cars and trucks could achieve. These reductions apply on every one of the 28 body-types and place Chevrolet trucks in the most attractive price-position in their history.

All 1½-ton models are now powered by a remarkable new Six-Cylinder Special Truck Engine. This is basically the same reliable power plant of last year—but Chevrolet has made it even smoother, more powerful, and more economical by the addition of 33 new improvements and refinements.

Chevrolet has also introduced an entirely new type of rear axle. It's bigger. It's more rugged. And it's capable of handling heavier loads. All because Chevrolet has given it the outstanding mechanical advantages of a four-pinion differential and a straddle-mounted pinion with bearing support on both sides.

REDUCTIONS AS MUCH AS $70

Half-ton Pick-up . . $440
Sedan Delivery . . . $545
Half-ton Panel . . . $530
131" Stake $655
157" Stake $715

*All prices f.o.b. Flint, Mich. Special equipment extra. Low delivered prices and easy G.M.A.C. terms.

CHEVROLET

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

In addition, the Chevrolet 131-inch truck now has a much stronger frame, with deeper, heavier side members. The 1½-ton models have a sturdier universal joint, as well as larger brakes, improved springs, and a new 15-gallon fuel tank.

Nothing that Chevrolet has ever done before in trucks can equal the importance of this announcement: A stronger, more powerful, more durable six-cylinder line. Even more economical than last year. And selling at prices as low as $440.* That's value. That leadership. That's news which no buyer of a low-priced truck can afford to disregard.

This is Chevrolet Truck Demonstration Week. And special arrangements have been made to give all truck-users a road demonstration of the improved Chevrolet six-cylinder truck. Take advantage of this opportunity to see and try the world's most economical haulage unit.

STILLMAN SUED AS 'LOVE THIEF' BY POLITICIAN

that the banker made love to the former's wife, lavished gifts of presents and money upon her and thereby "completely alienated her from her husband."

In reply to the charges, Sumner declared he had obtained affidavits from Mrs. Rochefort and from her mother, Mrs. Emily M. Bakea, in which both were quoted as swearing that Rochefort not only encouraged the friendship between his wife and Stillman, but "benefited financially by it."

Mrs. Baker, incidentally, was named as co-defendant with Stillman in Rochefort's alienation suit.

These affidavits, Sumner told Supreme Court Justice Edward Riegelman, corroborate one made by a woman named as Miss Astrid Haug, in whose apartment in Long Island City Stilman was said to have met Mrs. Rochefort.

LIBEL CLAIMED

Miss Haug's affidavit, Sumner said, confirmed the stories sworn to by Mrs. Rochefort and her mother. The libel action was brought by Rochefort on a claim that he was libelled by Stillman when the latter's attorney read excerpts from Miss Haug's affidavit to Rochefort's counsel, Alfred L. Becker.

To substantiate Stillman's denials, Sumner asserted that Mrs. Rochefort had not lived with her husband for seven years prior to the time she met the banker. Stillman was told. Sumner said, that she was a widow. Stillman's counsel charged:

"This action was brought to extort from Mr. Stillman a large sum of money in order to compel him to settle the alienation case."

Sumner charged before the court that Becker, Rochefort's counsel, was suspended from the practice of law by the appellate division in 1924 on two allegations of misconduct. He branded Becker's actions in the present case as "very reprehensible professional misconduct."

Stillman's attorney disclosed that the alienation action was instituted by Rochefort in October, 1932, after Mrs. Rochefort had started and apparently dropped a lawsuit of her own against Stillman. Only a summons in Mrs. Rochefort's case was served and her attorneys, Sumner said, declined to proceed further after he had convinced them that the litigation was unfounded.

DETAILS REVEALED

In the course of his detailed narrative of the affair, in which he asserted that the Rocheforts had not had marital relations for seven years, Sumner disclosed numerous details of Stillman's associations with Mrs. Rochefort. Sumner said:

"It appeared that in April, 1932, Mr. and Mrs. Rochefort and Mrs. Baker were living in a small, three-room apartment in Long Island City with Miss Haug, who was convalescing from an operation.

"All of them were in an impecunious condition.

"It was then discussed between Miss Haug and Mr. and Mrs. Rochefort and Mrs. Baker that Miss Haug should invite Mr. Stillman, with whom she was well acquainted, to visit her and introduce him to Mrs. Rochefort. The evening Mr. Stillman called he was introduced by Miss Haug to Mrs. Rochefort as a widow.

"Rochefort, with knowledge of the proposed meeting, left the apartment and spent the night in a hotel, after receiving five dollars from his wife with which to pay for the hotel room. Thereafter, in talks between Mr. and Mrs. Rochefort and Miss Haug, it was agreed that Marjorie Rochefort and she would encourage Stillman to take them to Havana and finance them in a beauty parlor business.

"Mr. Rochefort had full knowledge from the beginning of whatever relations may have existed between his wife and Mr. Stillman. He had received from his wife at various times sums of money which he knew or had reason to believe she had received from Mr. Stillman."

TELLS OF DEALS

Sumner then related his negotiations with Becker, which he said began on October 27 last when Stillman informed him an effort was being made to serve him with a summons and complaint. Stillman was ill, Sumner said, and directed the attorney to act for him.

On November 2, according to Sumner, Becker came to the former's office and said he was ready to consider an "amicable settlement" of the proceedings for an amount which he believed Stillman "could well afford to pay in preference to the trouble and expense of defending the suit." Sumner charged:

"Becker mentioned $25,000 as the sum which he believed he could prevail upon his client to accept if settled immediately."

Sumner said he told Becker he was "taking too much for granted," declaring that investigation revealed that Rochefort's suit was based on the "same set of facts" used by Mrs. Rochefort in her unsuccessful litigation.

'Hot From Harlem' Raises Show Boat Temperature

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Since everybody can't go to Harlem, Skipper Joe Hiller brought Harlem to the Show Boat last night—and how! Hot rhythm, hot dancing, hot songs were the program of this swift floor show, which, peculiarly enough, is titled "Hot From Harlem." It has merit as well as temperature, this entertainment presented by a group of Negro artists that is topped by George Dewey Washington, whose singing of "Brother Can You Spare a Dime," alone, is worth a visit to the Show Boat. It may have been attempted, but it has not really been sung in Pittsburgh before.

Besides Mr. Washington there are Billy Maxey and Mary Dixon, and no artificial heat is needed when they let their voices loose. A little bawdy, perhaps, but, as we understand it, the proper Harlem atmosphere. Alice Harris sings more conventionally—and more sweetly. The Washboard Serenaders, four boys, make tempo behave fantastically with a piano, guitar, a squawker and a washboard. The Creole Bells do an orgiastic dance, with plenty of thigh-grinding, and other physical weirdness, that makes their adorning feathers fly. This specialty features Helen Powell. Then, too, there is the snappiest of snappy dancing by a male foursome called the Four Blazers.

Besides the song mentioned, Mr. Washington sings "Around the Bend of the Road" and "Chloie."

Mr. Hiller has one of the best shows of its type ever presented here.

Spencer Tracy Guild Grad

Spencer Tracy, who is featured in "20,000 Years in Sing Sing," opening Friday in the Stanley, got his early training for the stage in the American Academy of Dramatic Art in New York. His first professional role was in the Theater Guild production of "R. U. R."

Following that he appeared in stock for a season in White Plains, N. Y., and was then chosen to play the heavy role in "The Royal Famdango," with Ethel Barrymore. He joined the famous Stuart Walker players for a time and was later under contract to George M. Cohan, playing widely diversified roles.

He returned to the Theater Guild to play in "Ned McCobb's Daughter," and was seen next in "Conflict," "Nigger Rich" and "Bread." Following this came his great success in "The Last Mile," which won him attention from motion picture producers and resulted in his contract with Fox studios.

Some 10 years ago he married Louise Treadwell. They live in Westwood, a part of Los Angeles.

He drives a big roadster with the top down, never wears a hat and plays at life just as enthusiastically as he plays parts.

There is a notable cast supporting Mr. Tracy, including Bette Davis, Arthur Byron, Lyle Talbot, Shella Terry, Warren Hymer and Louis Calhern.

Miss Dietrich Talks About Trousers

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 18.—Tongues have wagged, chatterwriters have gone on endlessly, but yesterday, for the first time, Marlene Dietrich discussed Hollywood's favorite topic of conversation — why she wears trousers.

I found the star talking to Maurice Chevalier at the Paramount studio. She took me to her dressing-room and freely gave this interview.

First, a picture of her: She wore a man's gray suit but no vest, a striped shirt and a broad, black, four-in-hand tie. Upon her golden hair was a jaunty black beret. Her eyebrows were finely pencilled yellow arches, her gray-blue eyes, amused eyes, looked out of a pale face, her lips were vivid red.

Miss Dietrich

"I wear trousers for three reasons," she told me. "First they are comfortable; second, because I think I look better in them than I do in dresses; third, because it takes too much time, money and trouble to be a well - dressed woman. You can wear a gown only once or twice. Before you turn around, it is out of style."

Deftly the German star lit a cigaret, strode nervously around the room. Once she stopped to lean back against a table, her hands outstretched clasping the edge. Again, she paused at the door to look out towards the building where Josef von Sternberg once had his office. But mostly she paced, her neatly shod feet (sort silk socks showing above them) taking long strides.

"Whoever started that story about Joe not liking me to wear trousers—he told me to do it!" she exclaimed. "I used to wear them around the beach. We'd want to see a picture. I wouldn't w[illegible] dress. 'Go as you are,' he'd say. And that was what started it."

Coming Photoplays Feature Drama, Romance, Comedy

"Fast Life," the screen feature in the Enright for three days beginning today, is a romantic comedy drama that has William Haines, Madge Evans and Cliff Edwards in the leading roles.

* * *

Matt McHugh, Pittsburgh comedian, has one of the chief supporting roles in "Hypnotized," feature comedy opening tomorrow in the Fulton with Moran and Mack, "The Two Black Crows," as its stars. Mack Sennett, noted comedy producer, turned out this picture.

* * *

Eddie Cantor, who will be seen on the Penn screen Friday in a musical comedy film, "The Kid From Spain," has two leading women, Lydia Roberti, from the musical comedy stage, and Ruth Hall. Sidney Franklin, bullfighting hero in Spain, whose home is in Brooklyn, has a part in the picture.

* * *

"Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing," photoplay that will open Friday in the Stanley, is based on the book of the same title by Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing Prison. Spencer Tracy and Bette Davis play the leading roles. The title is from the fact that the terms of all prisoners in Sing Sing would total 20,000 years.

* * *

The Warner screen feature, beginning Friday, will be "The Half Naked Truth," the cast of which is headed by Lee Tracy and Lupe Velez, the former as a publicity man and the latter as a carnival queen who reaches Broadway through the ballyhoo route.

* * *

Sally Eilers and Ralph Bellamy head the cast of "Second-Hand Wife," one of the features that will be seen in the Davis and Regent Saturday. The other will be "Afraid to Talk," with Sidney Fox and Eric Linden prominent.

* * *

Sunday midnight the Variety will begin a new stage and screen bill in which the photoplay feature will be "Virtue," comedy drama with Carole Lombard and Pat O'Brien in the leading roles.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Bob Crawford, member of the Sun-Telegraph editorial staff, tells it apropos of the presentation of the film version of "The Sign of the Cross" in the Nixon. Years ago, when the original play was given here, Mr. Crawford's mother attended, accompanied by an elderly woman friend. The play had reached a solemn moment. Feeding Christians to the lions, at the behest of Nero, was about to begin and Marcus Superbus was sending a last message to the tyrant.

"Tell Nero," he said, "that Marcus Superbus, prefect of Rome, has become a Christian, and dies with Mercia."

The stillness that is said to stand the test of the proverbial pin-drop was broken by Mrs. Crawford's companion, who was emotionally affected as any present, but still vociferous. Her pent feelings burst out in an exclamation, heard throughout the house:

"My God, how we Christians did suffer!"

* * *

A group of stage producers, playwrights and New York businessmen have organized the Union Theater League to send out plays and musical comedies to 25 cities, among which Pittsburgh is included. The plan is to assure each city a season of 24 weeks. Morris Green, well known producer, has been elected president of the organization, which will be dependent to some extent upon subscription. Well, the Alvin or Pitt, would be available here.

Southern France Tour With Holmes Tonight

In Carnegie Music Hall tonight, Burton Holmes is to present the third episode in his current series of pictured travel revues, a motor tour through a region in Southern France. After passing in rapid but comprehensive review such picturesque old towns as Marseilles, Martigues, Nimes, Avignon, Arles, Les Baux, St. Remy and Aix-en-Provence, the audience will be diverted with the passing show of Nice, Cannes, Antibes, St-Juan-les-Pins and others of those vivid and colorful spots along the French Riviera. Finally Corsica, with its memories of Napoleon and scenic beauty will be visited through talk and pictures.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

GEORGE THE FIFTH, HOTEL, PARIS, France.—I think I'll move along tomorrow night. Paris hasn't held much for me on this trip and the longer I stay, the less appeal the spot seems to have. I'm going to hit for Berlin and grab myself a load of what that nation has been doing since the war. Something tells me that I'm going to like it there. I hope so, because it's high time I began to like something on this trip.

Why has Paris failed to interest me this time? I honestly don't know. Perhaps the weather has had something to do with it. For said weather has been positively rotten. I've been here almost two weeks now, and I don't think I've seen three hours of sunshine. And when the weather is chilly and foggy, I suppose a man gets to feeling the same way.

Also, there are other and more concrete reasons. The utter lack of any sort of friendliness in Paris, for example. Everything is take, take, take. When you meet an American who lives over here, you can see he is wondering what your racket is and how much it will take to outsmart you.

About the Parisian attitude toward the American, there can be little or no question. From the haughtiest head waiter to the lowliest shop clerk, they are firmly convinced that any American is a cross between an idiot and a bar of gold.

Can I offer concrete examples of why I speak this way. Yes, I can—but I'd rather not go into them. After all, such a situation must be sensed rather than tossed in your kisser.

Deep down, I do not blame the Parisians entirely for the present state of affairs. For years and years and years Americans have been visiting Paris on a holiday. They have shown, not their best side, but their worst. They have tossed money away on things that could have been bought far more cheaply in New York.

Thus, the Parisian has judged the whole by the part.

Instead of catering to the visiting American as a brother-worker on a holiday, he regards him as a sucker—as, indeed, he is. When an American walks into a store or a restaurant, here is the average Parisian reaction:

"Ah, here is an American. He must have money to spend or he would not be here. Tonight, he will spend much money and get very drunk. He will laugh at our customs, whistle because our policemen sometimes wear whiskers, think we are very stupid and have a good time in general because he feels that he is quite superior.

"Ah, good evening, sir. Ha, ha. Bon soir, monsieur. I see you speak very well French. Ha, ha. Welcome to our establishment. Make yourself please very much at home. Monsieur wants the best, of course, because monsieur is an American—and it takes the Americans to know the best. Ha, ha."

And what is the American's reaction? Well, if you'll pardon my frankness, it goes somewhat along the following lines:

"Get a load of this guy. He thinks I'm a first-class sucker because I walked into his place and I want to spend a few of my hard-earned American bucks. Well, he's got another think coming. I'm shopping around plenty before I buy anything at all in Paris. I—

"Hello, there's a sweet-looking pocketbook. Gee, Blanche would go crazy about that. Hey, garcon, what's the price of that pocketbook? How much? What? Four hundred francs? Why, that's twenty bucks.

"What's that? You'll let me have it for three hundred and ninety-five francs? Well, now you're talking. I like a bargain as well as the next fellow. I'll take one of them for Blanche—and look, you better give me two more along about the same lines but just a little different. I might as well get one for Beatrice and Julia while I'm at it.

"But be sure and stick the Paris label on the inside of the bag.

"What's this? You took out too much. I gave you—oh, that's the tax. I see. Well, it's okay with me if it's okay with you. I didn't figure on spending quite so much but—well, it's Paris. So long, brother. Goodnight."...

And so the game goes on and on. As an American, I am inclined to place the blame more squarely upon the Frenchman.

What Paris—and France—fails to realize right now is that Americans are becoming plenty fed up with the entire French attitude at the present writing. Slowly but surely, the goose that lays the golden egg is being definitely squeezed to death.

Disappointed in Paris? Yes, I was. A very great deal. I came to find gaiety and life and mutual admiration — and found nothing but sordidness and distrust.

So long, Paris. You may be a Godsend to some people — but you're a pain in the neck to me . . .

Greatest Thing of Its Kind in America

REMNANT DAY!—a Boggs & Buhl institution for more than a half century. Originated at this store—attended faithfully twice a year by your Mothers and Grandmothers—yearly it has grown in volume and interest. Today, Remnant Day is acknowledged the supreme event for phenomenal values in this or any other part of the country.

Thousands of items of merchandise are sacrificed at cost and less. Profit receives no consideration this day. Whenever broken lots, odd lengths, overstocks or surplus goods are found they are put to one side and a Red Ink price put upon them. In every case they are rock-bottom prices—lower than you will find on any other business day.

Plenty of new merchandise as well—apparel, home furnishings, accessories—all style-right, useful and desirable—likewise ruthlessly cut in price to carry out the tradition of Remnant Day—lowest prices of the season.

Thousands of budget-minded buyers from hundreds of miles around will be here in force Friday. Make your plans to come and spend the day!

AN EASY STORE TO REACH

Just a few blocks over the Sixth St. Bridge by street car. Crosstown transfers available from any street car entering the downtown district. One block from the Fort Wayne Depot. Charleroi district busses stop at the door. Ideally located for motorists. Residents of East End can cross the 40th St. Bridge and come directly to store without entering downtown traffic. The new North-Side-West End Bridge offers a direct route to store for residents of Dormont, Mt. Lebanon, Crafton, Carnegie, West End and Communities West. Likewise the shortest route from Morgantown, Uniontown and Wheeling. Free Parking next to store.

The first of the year always brings reorganization and new interests and is a particularly popular time for elections and meetings of the various school alumnae. This week and last week three of the most prominent organizations scheduled meetings.

The Dilworth Hall Alumnae Association has already planned a business meeting and luncheon to be held March 6 in the College Club, and a benefit bridge to be given next month. On Monday afternoon members of the association and their friends were entertained by Mrs. Winslow Slocum, of Maple avenue, Edgewood, at a large bridge party for the benefit of the Janet L. Brownlee school fund. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. J. S. McClurg, Mrs. Frederick Newman and Mrs. Oscar Bieler.

Last week Mrs. Paul D. Hutchinson entertained with eight tables of bridge for the same cause.

And Friday the Federation of Girls' School societies will have its annual election of officers and luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club.

On Tuesday of last week, the Farmington School Society had its annual luncheon at the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

Going on Cruise

February 25 is going to be a red-letter day in the calendar of many a social registerite, for that is the date on which those embarking on the Frontier Nursing Service benefit cruise will sail.

Tht list of travelers, and there'll be more, I hear, includes Mrs. Charles Sumner Shoemaker, who is in chanrge of the Pittsburgh committee: Mrs. James B. Oliver, Mrs. James E. Umbstaetter, Mrs. William N. Frew, Mrs. George H. Flinn, Mrs. John C. Oliver and her son, John Oliver.

Others are Miss Sarah Bissell, Mrs. Thomas A. Mellon and her daughter, Patsy, and three of Patsy's sister debs—Laura Oliver, Laura Childs and Georgianna Collin.

The Nursing-Service is a public health group, nursing Kentucky mountaineers.

* * *

Guest at Luncheon

There's to be a luncheon for charming Ruth Bryan Owen, who'll be the speaker tomorrow morning at the lecture series in the urban room of the Hotel William Penn.

At her table will be Mrs. John W. Lawrence, who will introduce her at the lecture; Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, Mrs. Eugene Metour, Mrs. William S. Moorhead, Mrs. Howard Heinz, Mrs. William Watson Smith, Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson and Mrs. Margaret M. Morgan.

* * *

To Fete Players

After the polo game Saturday night in the Armory, in which the Yale varsity will play the Pittsburgh Polo League All-Stars, the David I. McCahills will give a reception in their home for the players.

The Yale alumni will give a luncheon Saturday in the Pittsburgh Golf Club for the visiting players.

International Institute Active

The International Institute will be the scene of varied activities for the remainder of the month. Today "Le Foyer Francais" is being entertained by the French Club of Carrick High School which is presenting a comedy, "Les Etrange Fiancailles," under the supervision of Miss Louise Thompson.

The Institute has invited the members of its various clubs to participate in an old-time square dance on Saturday and guests have been requested to dress in overalls and gingham dresses.

Russian Night, formerly scheduled for January 27, has been changed to January 28.

Hospital Aid Society To Meet January 26

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society will take place on January 26 at the "Y" on Bellefield avenue. The ticket to be presented by the nominating committee reads: First vice president, Mrs. Isadore Williams; second vice president, Mrs. B. B. Wechsler; treasurer, Mrs. Mortimer B. Lesher; recording secretary, Mrs. Maurice N. Landay; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Joseph Goldberg; directors, Mrs. Phillip Ginsberg, Mrs. C. Chester Kaufman, Mrs. Samuel H. Smith, Mrs. Louis Amshel, Mrs. Jesse Amshel, Mrs. Sidney Bachman, Mrs. Harry L. Baer, Mrs. Alfred Bennett, Mrs. Leo Davis, Mrs. Morris Friedman, Mrs. Richard Gerechter, Mrs. Hyman Goldenson, Mrs. George P. Goldman, Mrs. Karl J. Kaufmann, Mrs. Jacob Klein, Mrs. Phillip Loevner, Mrs. Sara Mendelson, Mrs. Louis Rosenbloom, Mrs. Theador Rothman, Mrs. E. B. Shapira, Mrs. Simon Solof and Mrs. Harry M. Stein. The speaker will be Dr. Ludwig Bernstein.

Pitt Women Readers Hear Two Reviews

The readers' group of the Women's Association, University of Pittsburgh, is meeting today in the old building of the College Club. Mrs. E. Kingman Eberhardt is reviewing "Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing," by Warden Lawes, and Mrs. George Gould has "Rich Tapestry," by Elinor Mordaunt, for review.

Miss Bertha M. Smyers To Marry Detroit Man

Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Grace, of Ellsworth avenue, East End, announce the engagement of Mrs. Grace's daughter, Miss Bertha M. Smyers, to Chalmer R. Portser, Jr., son of Mrs. A. V. Portser, of Detroit. No date has been set for the wedding.

Irving College Club To Meet on Saturday

The Pittsburgh Irving College Club will hold its January meeting at the home of Mrs. F. L. Schomberg, St. Marie street, East End, on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. L. L. Cooper and Miss Ida Franzmann will serve as aides to the hostess.

Community Club Favors Present School System

The Squirrel Hill Community Club has gone on record as favoring the present appointive system of the Board of Education and as opposing City Council's making any change in the system of feeding undernourished school children.

A benefit card party is to be held Friday at the Morrowfield Hotel by the club's welfare committee, of which Mr. Roy Ziegler is chairman. Mrs. H. B. Layman is taking reservations.

Dean Amos to Entertain Pitt Presidents at Tea

Miss Thrysa W. Amos, dean of women at the University of Pittsburgh, will entertain the presidents of 18 women's organizations of the university at tea in her apartment in Hampton Hall, Sunday afternoon.

Among those who will attend are: Miss Rose Marie Demestichas, president of Women's Self Governing Association; Miss Mary Garber, president of Panhellenic Association; Miss Mary Lou McConnell, president of Women's Athletic Association; Miss Evelyn Mease, president of the University Y. W. C. A.; Miss Eunice McClurkin, president of Women's Glee Club; Miss Genevieve Blatt, president of Women's Debating Association; Miss Dorothy Lee, president of Mortar Board; Miss Helen Chalker, president of Cwens; Miss Sally Isler, president of the Class of 1935; Miss Jean Howard, president of the Class of 1934; Miss Evelyn Blaisdell, president of the Class of 1933; Miss Margaret Chalmers, president of the Class of 1936; Miss Kathryn Cronister, president of the Council of Pitt Women; Miss Estelle Woods, president of Physical Education Club; Miss Anna Wetzel, president of Delta Psi Kappa; Miss Emmy Lou Haller, president of Quax; Miss Alice Davis, president of Xylon; and Miss Edna Landman, Pitt News.

Elmira College Club To Meet on Saturday

The Elmira College Club of Pittsburgh will have its January meeting and luncheon on Saturday, at the College Club. Mrs. L. H. Miller and Mrs. William H. Phillips are in charge.

Adams to Address P.T.A. on School Legislation

Stephen C. Foster melodies arranged in operetta form and a talk on school legislation will be given tomorrow night at the January meeting of the James E. Rogers Parent-Teacher Association.

John A. Adams, principal of the Perry High School, will discuss legislation affecting the public school system and the operetta, "Way Down South in Dixie," will be presented by pupils of the school.

Members of neighboring P.-T. A.'s have been invited to attend.

Church Women Back School System

A resolution has been adopted by the Women's Division of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches favoring the continuance of the present appointive system of the Pittsburgh School Board. Legislators will be asked to "refrain from changing the method by which such capable and high-minded men and women are secured."

The committee of the Council on Adult Immigrant Education is completing plans for a program of folk dancing and singing and an exhibit of folk art to be held Friday evening, January 27, at the South Side High School.

The program is being presented with the purpose of acquainting the general public with the cultures of the various nationality groups existent in Pittsburgh and of fostering a spirit of good-will and co-operation among them. Seven nationalities have offered their co-operation in arranging the affair.

* * *

A dinner dance will be held tomorrow evening at the Plaza Restaurant by the South Hills Italian Girls' Club in celebration of its fifth anniversary. Miss Anna M. Shialabba is chairman and is being assisted by Miss Gilda Valella and Miss Lucille Forgion. Mrs. Leonard Chiovetta, one of the charter members and the first president of the club, is to be an honor guest.

* * *

Mrs. William H. Heselbarth, of Lovelace street, will be hostess tomorrow afternoon for the West End Literary Club meeting. The post-luncheon program, in charge of Mrs. John Weir, will include a description of her South American trip by Mrs. Louis Dietrich, a talk on "Coffee Lands of Brazil," by Mrs. John Haudenshield, and one on "Rivers of South America" by Mrs. A. E. Dietrich.

* * *

The January meeting of Chi Chi Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Chi Omega will be a tea at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association on Saturday. During the afternoon "Pros and Cons of the Economic Boycott" will be discussed by Mrs. Francis Cretcher and Mrs. E. K. Eberhart. Miss Jane Schrum is chairman of the affair.

Forums on Government Planned by League Of Women Voters

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

A new and particularly practical movement has been started by the Allegheny County League of Women Voters—a series of four open forums to be held monthly beginning Saturday. An hour will be devoted at each meeting to a presentation of city, county and state government and the 1933 legislative session.

The meetings are called for 10 o'clock on the third Saturday of January, February, March and April in the Congress of Clubs and at the initial one this week the discussion period (on city government) will be followed by an address by John S. Herron, president of City Council.

An especially interesting feature of this new venture is that senior high school students have been asked to send as representatives six pupils from the eleventh and twelfth grades, accompanied by a faculty sponsor. The meetings have been planned for Saturday that teachers may attend.

Day Nursery Film To Be Exhibited To Sorority

All Alpha Delta Pis in Pittsburgh and vicinity are invited to be present at the meeting on Saturday at the home of Miss Dorothy Donally, Wynoka street, Carrick.

Motion pictures of the activities at the University of Chicago Day Nursery School, which is supported by Alpha Delta Pi, will be shown, and Miss Louise Hetherington will show a film taken on a recent Mediterranean cruise.

Bradford Woods Juniors To Hear Alston Field

Alston Field will speak on international relations at the meeting of the Bradford Woods Junior Club on Sunday at the home of Miss Margaretta and Miss Dorothy Martin. Plans for the January bridge and the valentine box social will be made.

County W.C.T.U. Entertains for 200 Guests

More than 200 guests, representing Indiana, Washington and Armstrong counties, as well as the hostess county, Allegheny, were presented at the Women's Christian Temperance Union prohibition anniversary tea at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. yesterday.

Miss Mary Ervin, world W. C. T. U. lecturer, spoke on "Safeguarding America's Future," stressing the education of young people concerning alcohol. Miss Minnie J. Long, state corresponding secretary; Mrs. Emma Porter, president of Washington County; Mrs. Paul McKendrick, of the state W. C. T. U., and Mrs. Elizabeth J. Gibson, president of Allegheny County, also spoke.

Percy A. Dorrington, baritone, sang, and little Jean Lewis added violin numbers to the program. There was tea and Mrs. Gibson was presented with a fitted traveling case from the county organization. Resolutions were sent to Washington and to Harrisburg protesting the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, modification of the Volstead act, and repeal of the Armstrong-Snyder and the Blue Laws.

ACCESSORIES THAT GLITTER BRIGHTEN THE EVENING SCENE

BRIGHT AND glittering accessories against a matt-like background of black or neutral color—this is the current recipe for smartness in dinner clothes. Belts of metallic gold and silver, slippers of bright colored velvet or gilt leather set with colored stones, jeweled evening bags—all these are included in the list of correct gadgets to go with semi-formal evening clothes and dinner dresses.

* * *

ONE DESIGNER makes use of bright, metallic belts on both day and evening dresses. They are buckled and fastened in the tailored manner, but their materials are made of metallic gold and silver threads, in fanciful designs. Otherwise, his dull crepe de chiffon dresses show belts and sashes and girdles of glossy satin or cire.

* * *

BLACK CIRE satin ribbon—thick and heavy, like millinery ribbon—marks the waistline of the black chiffon dinner dress in today's sketch. The ribbon is placed flat across the back of the waist, but is twisted into a single knot at the center front.

* * *

THE DRESS itself, of the tunic type, is black striped chiffon, with a scarf-like arrangement about the shoulders which ties at the front.

* * *

THE EVENING slippers shown at the bottom of the sketch are of green crepe de chine trimmed with braids of matching leather; and at the top are black suede ones that are banded with gold kid and adorned with gold kid flowers and buttons.

YOUR TURN TO GET WHITER WASHES EASILY!

I'VE TRIED CHIPS, POWDERS, BAR SOAPS—AND I STILL CAN'T GET A SNOWY WASH!
I KNOW—SOMETIMES I SCRUB FOR HOURS AND THE CLOTHES DON'T EVEN SHOW IT
YESTERDAY I READ IN THE PAPER ABOUT A WOMAN WHO GETS SNOWY CLOTHES WITHOUT EVEN TOUCHING A WASHBOARD
THAT SOUNDS TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE, JEAN
SHE SAYS SHE USES A SOAP THAT SOAKS OUT THE DIRT. IT'S CALLED RINSO
OH, YES—I'VE HEARD ABOUT RINSO. LET'S BOTH TRY IT NEXT WASHDAY
NEXT WASHDAY
WHY DIDN'T I TRY RINSO LONG AGO? I NEVER SAW SUCH GLEAMING, SNOWY CLOTHES! THEY'LL LAST LONGER THIS "SCRUBLESS" WAY, TOO
JUST THINK, JEAN! I DIDN'T SCRUB OR BOIL YET MY WASH IS AT LEAST 4 SHADES WHITER
ISN'T IT MARVELOUS! TRY IT FOR DISHES, TOO—ITS CREAMY SUDS ARE SO EASY ON THE HANDS

"Does amazing amount of work," says Mrs. Joseph Marshall of Baltimore

"I CAN certainly recommend Rinso to all thrifty housewives. Here's a list I kept of the work I did with one big box. Besides doing my dishes 30 times, sinks and tubs 6 times, and woodwork once, I washed:

5 doilies	3 table-cloths	5 house-dresses
1 bedspread	29 towels	4 nightgowns
5 bureau scarfs	27 handkerchiefs	6 aprons
7 face cloths	5 children's dresses	7 pairs socks
16 napkins	13 pairs children's stockings	4 nightclothes
8 pillow cases	7 pieces children's underwear	14 shirts
5 sheets	4 children's nightclothes

Radio Drama Peers Ahead To 1975

An amazing scientific forecast, "What Will Happen in 1975?" published in the January 22 issue of the American Weekly, which is distributed each Sunday with the Sun-Telegraph, is dramatized with Bert Lytell, popular stage and screen star, portraying the leading role, on WCAE at 6 and WKBN, Youngstown, O., at 5:45 today. The presentation is one of a series of dramatic and musical programs being offered over more than 100 broadcasting stations throughout the country by 17 Hearst newspapers, including the Sun-Telegraph. It marks the initial radio appearance by Mr. Lytell, aside from a few extemporaneous talks.

Mr. McEvoy

J. P. McEvoy, author and playwright, delivers a curtain speech as he conducts that popular figure of his imagination, "Denny Kerrigan," to the microphone for his radio debut in a dramatized version of Mr. McEvoy's short story, "Dear Little You," during the Five Star Theater at 7:30 on KDKA tonight. "Dear Little You" relates the adventures of a greeting card writer who is sued for divorce and wins a sympathetic audience in the courtroom by pleading his case in verse.

* * *

Connie, Martha and Vet—the harmonizing Boswell Sisters from New Orleans, return to the air, following a busy vaudeville schedule, over CBS-WJAS tonight at 10 o'clock.

Program Pointers

Hans Kindler, celebrated 'cellist and conductor of the Washington National Symphony, is guest conductor of the NBC Symphony Orchestra during its concert over WCAE at 9 p. m. Kindler was born in Rotterdam, Holland, and made his debut in that city at the age of 10. He has been soloist with the New York Philharmonic, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cincinnati and other leading orchestras in the United States and Europe.

Mr. Kindler

Incidents in the life and colorful career of Rudolf Valentino are dramatized during D. W. Griffith's "Hollywood" broadcast at 10 on KDKA.

A play-by-play account of the Pitt-Tech basketball game at the Carnegie Tech Gym, by Ed Sprague, is listed on WWSW at 8:20 tonight.

Dr. Robert S. Wiehl, director of the Bureau of Metallurgical Research, is guest speaker on the KQV-at-9 "Pittsburgh Today" presentation.

Several new specialties, including a tap dance, a yodel novelty and a medley of Hawaiian tunes played by the Royal Hawaiians with Buck Bannister, barnyard imitator, as master of ceremonies, are features of the Corn Cob Pipe Club—WCAE at 10.

Bing Crosby's interpretations of "Take Me In Your Arms," "So At Last It's Come to This" and "Rock-a-Bye Moon" are WJAS highlights at 9 o'clock.

Tear-drenched old-timers mark an all-request program offered by Kate Smith at 8:30 on WJAS: "Break the News to Mother," "White Wings That Never Grow Old" and that dirge of the 'nineties, "A Bird in a Gilded Cage."

One of T. Daniel Frawley's most prized possessions is an overcoat he bought in Ireland in 1900. It's been around the world with him eight times.

Tennis Experts With Seals

The 1932 Pittsburgh Tennis Association rankings are announced by Robert C. Schmertz, chairman of the ranking committee, with comments on the selection of players, as a Trained Seals highspot on WCAE at 7. J. Phillips Davis, president of the association, and Paul G. Sullivan, secretary, also participate with Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, acting as master of ceremonies.

A program of special interest to children is presented under the direction of Jane A. White, assistant curator of education at Carnegie Museum, at 4:45 from the studios of WCAE.

Going on the air from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, relays the latest bulletins to WCAE and WJAS listeners at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. today. He also is heard over WJAS at 2:30 p. m.

Waring Wins New Network 'Prize'

Pittsburgher Fred Waring and his band have been chosen for a new cigaret program by the sponsor which first employed Paul Whiteman. To be carried by CBS, the program will probably have Jack Benny as its comedian, although Bert Lahr, Joe Cook and J. P. Medbury also have been auditioned. . . . NBC plans a new sustaining program featuring Helen Kane and her boop-a-dooing . . . Reports say that the "California Melodies" program, listed on WJAS opposite the Fire Chief program, will be jacked up with big names hereafter because Ed Wynn's antics are robbing it of listeners . . . Ray Bolger, Victor Moore and Milton Berle bring their comedy to Rudy Vallee's hour tomorrow.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

A famous beauty, who has foregone a stage and screen career to make a success out of marriage, was blessed Sunday with a 7½ pound baby girl. The mother, Mrs. Morris Rosen, of Rochester, Pa., was the former Ruby Smith, of California. She was Miss California of 1929 and 1930 beauty contests; and Miss Oakland in 1927 and 1928. It's quite a happy event. Mrs. Rosen is contented and doing well. Mr. Rosen is deliriously excited and the New Lincoln Hotel management is delighted with its important guest.

Here's a Globe Trotter that arrived in time for the 6:30 broadcast January 13; and if 13 is significant, this youngster is the thirteenth grandchild of the proud father's parents . . . as well as the twenty-seventh grandchild of the mother's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wanamaker, 172 Brook street, Carrick, are the overjoyed mama and papa.

The files of the Canonsburg General Hospital contribute to the much-publicized lightweight baby. A baby boy born in November, 1924, weighed one and a half pounds at birth and is now a healthy normal youngster of 9. Although fed with a medicine dropper at birth, today he is quite capable of masticating his share of ice cream cones and other delicacies. What, no spinach? He is Charles Edward Gamble.

Even in 1864 we had an "America for Americans" campaign. Playing card manufacturers conceived the idea of national emblems. The four suits were called Eagles, Shields, Stars and Flags. In place of monarchistic titles of King, Queen, Jack we had the patriotic counterparts of Colonel, Goddess of Liberty and Major. Think of being vulnerable in four Eagles and your partner trumps your Goddess of Liberty.

They Find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Dependable Medicine

EXLIA BELIVEAU
Claremont, New Hampshire

According to the latest census, nine million women and girls in these United States are earning their own livings. Thousands of them are depending upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to keep them fit to work every day. It steadies quivering nerves, eases backaches and headaches, gives needed strength and energy . . . makes trying days more endurable.

Don't go another day without the help this medicine can give you. Get a bottle from your nearest drug store immediately. Take it regularly according to directions. You will be surprised and pleased at the results. The Tablets are newer . . . convenient to carry with you . . . easy to take.

"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I was weak, rundown and dizzy. I was always lying down for I did not feel like doing my work. Now I can work so much better. My nerves are steady and I eat and sleep well."—EXLIA BELIVEAU, 24 Factory St., Claremont, New Hampshire.

"I am a cashier in a department store. I used to suffer such indescribable pains in my back that I would have to stay at home for a day or two every month. Nothing helped me until I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have not missed a day from my work in the last two months."—BETTY LEWIS, 5664 W. Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

CRUSHED BY LOG AT PLAY, BOY DIES IN HOME

Peter Wagner, 7, rear of 221 Bell avenue, McKees Rocks, was dead today from injuries suffered when a heavy log rolled on him from a truck trailer on which he and his four brothers and other boys were playing near their home last night.

The victim, a first-grade pupil of the McKee School, and his brothers, John, 13; Joseph, 11; Vincent, 10, and Albert, 5, and other boys were climbing on and jumping from the trailer when the timber rolled off, pinning Peter against the trailer. His brothers and playmates lifted the log and pulled him out. His brother John told police:

"Pete walked home after we raised the log and complained about his side. He asked for a drink of water and then fell down."

A physician attributed death to internal injuries. The trailer was owned by William Leech, McKees Rocks hauling contractor, according to Deputy Coroner Robert D. Newman.

Peter was one of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Wagner.

LIBBY'S BABY GAINS WEIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—Libby Holman Reynolds' infant son weighed only two pounds and seven ounces at birth, it was reported today.

Officials at the Pennsylvania Hospital, where the heir presumptive to the tobacco fortune of his late father, Zachary Smith Reynolds, was born January 10, refused to confirm the report. It had been said previously that the dark-haired baby of the former Broadway torch singer weighed about three and a half pounds.

John N. Hatfield, superintendent of the hospital, said the tiny mite of humanity was "steadily improving." The infant has begun to gain weight, an ounce at a time, he said, after registering a loss earlier in the week.

McKeesport Murder Indictment Sent

A certified copy of an indictment charging Louis Dalo, alias Scratow, with the murder of Charles Waddles, proprietor of a barbecue in McKeesport road, during a holdup in March, 1930, was forwarded today by County Detective Chief George W. Murren, to Los Angeles, where Dalo has been captured.

Louis Zemmler, alleged accomplice in the murder who escaped from the Greensburg jail and was recaptured the following day, is serving a life sentence for the crime. City Detective Walter Monaghan will leave for Harrisburg to prepare extradition papers for the fugitive.

Dormont Widow Dies in Street Car

Mrs. Lincoln S. Brown, 69, widow of Dr. Brown, former health director of Dormont, fell dead today in a street car in Dormont, according to a Coroner's report. Death was caused by heart disease, according to Dr. J. W. Gebhardt, 420 Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, who was summoned.

OBITUARY

Settler Funeral.

Funeral services for Adele Settler, Salvation Army worker, who died Monday, will be held in the Cray funeral home, Bellevue, tomorrow afternoon. Born in Austria in 1887, Miss Settler came to this country in 1908, she attended the Salvation Army Training College, and was commissioned a lieutenant in 1922. For seven years she was stationed at the New York Home and Hospital, then was transferred to Boston. Coming to Pittsburgh in 1930, she was stationed at the Home and Hospital in Bellevue. Miss Settler leaves her mother and two brothers, one in Chicago and one in Austria.

Witness Shoulders Blame; Arrested In Gas Theft

Former Policeman R. Krumenacker, of Fairview street, was acquitted of larceny of five gallons of gasoline, valued at $1, after trial in Criminal Court, but the witness responsible for his acquittal was arrested on the same charge.

It was charged Krumenacker, after having gasoline put in his car at the filling station of John H. Downs, Irwin and Columbus avenues, North Side, drove off without paying.

Howard Geisler testified, for the defense, that it was he who got the gas. Visiting Judge William T. Darr ordered an information be made against Geisler.

WNBO FIGHTS PHONE RATES

Admission that no schedule of tariff has been filed with the Public Service Commission for use of wire services in radio broadcasting by the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania today was made by the utility counsel before Commissioner S. Ray Shelby, hearing complaints of Station WNBO, of Washington, Pa.

The radio station had filed charges of unfair, unjust and discriminatory rates being made by the telephone company. A second complaint charged a broadcast line was disconnected by the telephone company during the broadcast of a football game at Uniontown, November 19.

Will on Tiny Card Disposes of $2,000 Estate

A piece of cardboard, 2½ by 3½ inches, contained the will of Peter Baroni, of Plum Township, admitted to probate and disposing of his $2,000 estate. Dated May 23, 1929, it reads:

"In case of accident notify Frank Rinaldi, 531 Virginia avenue, Oakmont. Everything I own shall go to my sister, Natalina Rinaldi."

Baroni died January 4.

Bellboy Hurt in Fall In Elevator Shaft

Patrick E. Joyce, 26, of 1710 Amanda street, a bellboy at the Roosevelt Hotel, was in a serious condition in Allegheny General Hospital with injuries suffered when he fell 18 feet in the elevator shaft in the hotel last night, according to police.

Joyce, reporting for duty, found the door partly open, and opening it further, he stepped into the shaft backwards, thinking the elevator was there, police said.

Train Victim Found Near P. R. R. Tracks

E. R. Phillips, 60, formerly an upholsterer, was found dead today near the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad, east of Shady Side station. According to Deputy Coroner W. M. Jackson, Phillips, identified from cards in his pocket, evidently had been struck by a train.

WOMEN SCORE WOODSIDE ON 'WORTHLESS' AUDIT

POLITICS

Patronage Slight Irks Phila. Chiefs

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—Political rebellions and overturns are not always built on contention over a mayoralty, a county commissioner fight or a governorship. Minor jobs are important in political organizations, a principle of conduct which attaches extreme importance to the patronage awarded yesterday by the House and Senate.

Mr. Shields

A comparative few of these positions pay important money, but they pay something, and in these days anything is desirable — and sought for.

The immediate reaction to the patronage distribution was a revolt within the Philadelphia organization, already a feverish group which is seething with rebellion beneath the surface.

There was a cut of 23 employes in the House from the number of 1931. It was supposed to be distributed about the state. But Philadelphia suffered a loss of seven and is not happy. There was particular resentment because the candidate for assistant house clerk of Recorder of Deeds James Hazlett, chairman of the Philadelphia city committee, was shoved into the outer darkness when the patronage committee came to make its awards.

* * *

Coyne Leads Steedle In Overriding All

The committee was headed by Representative Joseph G. Steedle, of McKees Rocks, and he, under the guidance of Senator James J. Coyne, rode roughshod over everyone. Hazlett had as a candidate in the person of W. F. Murphy. But the job went to former Representative James Wettach, defeated for re-election in the Seventh District of Pittsburgh's North Side.

The Philadelphians did not consider that clubby, and though Hazlett took things with good grace, and professed satisfaction, such men as Mercantile Appraiser David T. Hart, of Philadelphia, were not to be placated.

Hart blurted out that the Philadelphia political organization was suffering from "political paresis." He said it would not be proper to say he would, in reprisal for slights, fight the Philadelphia organization, "because there no longer is a Philadelphia organization."

Sheriff Richard Weglein also was slighted, and there was amazement when two unquestioned followers of William S. Vare voted in the House not to accept the committee report. This surprising action came despite the fact that Harry Davis, of the Philadelphia Republican executive committee, gave at least lip service approval to the committee action. And Davis represents Vare directly, a thing which has caused Senator Samuel Salus to revolt against the organization leadership of his city.

Political analysis of the slates show that Coyne jerked the Philadelphia organization around as he wished.

* * *

Political Feud Seen Over Murdoch Ouster

One incident which may cause some future trouble occurred in naming a superintendent of the folding room. Former Senator Crawford Murdoch, of Wilkinsburg, who has held this place, was tossed out bodily, and the post went to Frank P. McBride, a brother of Representative William J. McBride, of the Tenth Legislative District. Frank P. McBride is from Pittsburgh, and the position was the only big one for which the congressional district represented by Congressman Clyde Kelly had asked.

Democrats from legislative districts within this congressional district predicted that the affront to the district, in removing Murdoch, would be of advantage to them in future campaigns. They voted against the slate committee report, but were jubilant in the defeat, in view of their future political hopes.

In having William L. Gallagher, 2113 Liberty avenue, selected as sergeant at arms, Pat O'Malley, Second Ward leader, scored a victory. This position in 1931, was held by Thomas R. Evans, a protege of Assistant Fire Chief Luke Conley in the Ninth Ward. Evans, however, has since moved from Pittsburgh, and there is no great political significance to the shift.

* * *

North Siders Ask Much But Get Little

From the North Side, there were a score of applicants for positions. But the sole important place, outside that given Wettach, went to Edward Hough, son of Representative Edward Hough, who was named clerk to a committee. This, also, may cause some hard feelings within organization circles.

Allegheny County, which went Democratic in the last general election, and elected a legislative delegation which is one-third Democratic, was able to dominate the patronage awards. The Steedle district grabbed the lion's share of jobs, and there is no happiness in other sections of the state as a result.

Leaders in counties which went Republican, including Philadelphia, resent the eminence of the western area and are attempting to figure out the future policies to be employed by the State Committee, the chiefs of which sat in on the patronage jobs. State Chairman Edward Martin unquestionably has decorated Coyne with the badge of leadership in the west, which may be important if Martin intends to be a candidate for Governor two years hence—and if Coyne then is in a position to deliver any substantial bloc of votes.

Coolidge Made Study Of Constitution Since Early Days in School

CHAPTER IV.

One of the sages of New England is reported to have declared that the education of a child should begin several generations before it is born. No doubt it does begin at a much earlier period and we enter life with a heritage that reaches back through the ages. But we do not choose our ancestors. When we come into the world the gate of gifts is closed behind us. We can do nothing about it. So far as each individual is concerned all he can do is to take the abilities he has and make the most of them. His power over the past is gone. His power over the future depends on what he does with himself in the present. If he wishes to live and progress he must work.

During early childhood the inspiration for anything like mental discipline comes almost entirely from the outside. It is supplied by the parents and teachers. It was not until I left home in February of 1886 that I could say I had much thought of my own about getting an education. Thereafter I began to be more dependent on myself and assume more and more self-direction. What I studied was the result of my own choice. Instead of seeking to direct me, my father left me to decide. But when I had selected a course he was always solicitous to see that I diligently applied myself to it.

A Lasting Impression

Going away to school was my first great adventure in life. I shall never forget the impression it made on me. It was so deep and remains so vivid that whenever I have started out on a new enterprise a like feeling always returns to me. It was the same when I went to college, when I left home to enter the law, when I began a public career in Boston, when I started for Washington to become Vice President and finally when I was called to the White House. Going to the Academy meant a complete break with the past and entering a new and untried field, larger and more alluring than the past, among unknown scenes and unknown people.

In the spring of 1886 Black River Academy had just celebrated its fiftieth anniversary. While it had some distinguished alumni, the great body of its former students were the hard-working, every-day people, that made the strength of rural New England. My father and mother and grandmother Coolidge had been there a few terms. While it had a charter of its own, and was independent of the public authorities, it was nevertheless part village high school. At its head was a principal, who had under him two women assistants. A red brick structure, built like a church, with an assembly room and a few recitation rooms made up its entire equipment, so that those who did not live at home boarded in private families about the town of Ludlow. The spring term began in midwinter in order that the girls could be out by the first Monday in May to teach a summer district school and the boys could get home for the season's work on the farm.

Studied Constitution

For the very few who were preparing for college a classical course was offered in Latin, Greek, history and mathematics, but most of the pupils kept to the Latin scientific, and the English courses. The student body was about 125 in number. During my first term I began algebra and finished grammar. For some reason I was attracted to civil government and took that. This was my first introduction to the Constitution of the United States. Although I was but 13 years old the subject interested me exceedingly. The study of it which I then began has never ceased, and the more I study it the more I have come to admire it, realizing that no other document devised by the hand of man ever brought so much progress and happiness to humanity. The good it has wrought can never be measured.

It was not alone the school with its teachers, its students and courses of study that interested me, but also the village and its people. It lay in a beautiful valley along the Black River supported on either side by high hills. The tradespeople all knew my father well and he had an intimate acquaintance with the lawyers. Very soon I too knew them all. The chief industry of the town was a woolen mill that always remained a mystery to me. But the lesser activity of the village was a cab shop. I worked there some on Saturdays, so I came to know how toys and baby wagons were made. It was my first acquaintance with the factory system, and my approach to it was that of a wage earner. As I was employed at piece work my wages depended on my own ability, skill and industry. It was a good training. I was beginning to find out what existence meant.

Rose Early to Study

My real academy course began the next fall term when I started to study Latin. In a few weeks I broke my right arm, but it did not keep me out of

WINDOW LEAP ESCAPE FAILS

Two men, who police said were attempting to loot the Franklin cleaners, at 244 South Highland avenue, early today tried to escape by leaping through a plate glass window, narrowly escaping injury.

The two, who gave their names as John Tella, 19, of 627 Lenora street, and Charles Madigan, 24, of 628 Larimer avenue, were detected in the building, according to police, by a passerby. When a police scout car drove up to the building they attempted to flee. Clothing valued at $500 had been rolled in a bundle.

Police said they did not believe the men were the same who held up the establishment early Monday evening, escaping with $5, missing $100 hidden in the rear of the store by a girl clerk, Evelyn DeWoehrel, 23, of 608 Avery street, North Side.

TAX CUT ASKED IN WILKINSBURG

Wilkinsburg taxpayers, protesting the borough tax millage, last night presented to council a proposed 1933 budget calling for a slash of more than $100,000.

Council assured the taxpayers' group that the 1933 budget would be slashed to the bone, but intimated it unlikely that the levy could be reduced 1½ mills.

The meeting was held in the high school auditorium in Wallace avenue because most of the huge throng was unable to enter the council chamber.

The tentative 1933 budget set by council was $373,000, which it was said, would only enable a reduction of one-half mill.

The taxpayers submitted a budget of $322,493, a decrease of $104,000 from that of last year.

CHARGES LOAN TO DAUGHTER'S WOOER UNPAID

Mother Says Suitor Borrowed $588 After Proposing to Girl

S. Barton Sklar, 35, of the Georgian Apartments, 5437 Ellsworth avenue, was at liberty on $1,000 bond today awaiting grand jury action on a false pretense charge preferred by Miss Nettie Iancu, 7615 Waverly street, before Alderman Edward W. Haas, West Liberty avenue.

Sklar was held for court last night after Mrs. Ida Iancu, Nettie's mother, testified he obtained $588 from her.

After telling her daughter, Nettie Iancu, he had $5,700 in the closed Monongahela National Bank and also would be getting some money on some patents, Sklar proposed marriage to her and later borrowed $588 from her mother, it was testified.

Later, Mrs. Iancu testified, she received a letter which informed her that Sklar had no account in the bank. He gave her a note, but failed to pay, she said.

Sklar's bond was furnished by Lillian May Slotolow on property she owns at 1802 Montier street, Swissvale.

Miss Iancu and her mother were represented by Attorney Sigmund Rosenwasser.

E. LIBERTY P. O. SALE ORDERED

Federal Judge Nelson McVicar has held that the Safe Deposit and Trust Company, of Baltimore, can proceed with the public sale of the East Liberty postoffice building, owned by the Amero Construction Company, of Philadelphia. The former concern is trustee under a mortgage of $217,000.

Judge McVicar vacated a previous order, which balked a sale scheduled for December 19, 1932, on a petition of the Potter Title and Trust Company, of Pittsburgh, trustee for 18 sub-contractors, under a second mortgage of $57,000.

The court held that the trustee of the first mortgage could proceed with the sale, due to the failure of the Amero Construction Company to pay 1931 taxes on the building. No date has been set for the sale.

Medical Society Indorses McFarland

Selection by Mayor Charles H. Kline of Dr. William S. McFarland, medical supervisor of the Bureau of Child Welfare, as director of the Department of Public Health, was approved at a meeting of the Allegheny County Medical Society in the Schenley Hotel last night. The society also approved the method of stepping up a man in the city medical service. Dr. J. A. Hagemann, president of the society, presided.

VOTER LEAGUE SEES BIG LOSS TO COUNTY

Strict Finance Quiz Urged in '28, Says Mrs. Miller

The Allegheny County League of Women Voters has come to the aid of County Commissioners in their feud with Controller Robert G. Woodside with the assertion that Controller Woodside failed to order a complete audit of county finances in 1928 which the league says would have saved millions of dollars.

Mrs. J. O. Miller, chairman of the county government committee of the league, has submitted a copy of a letter which she sent to Woodside in 1928, suggesting a complete audit of all fee offices, tax collections, agreements with municipalities, juvenile maintenance records, and records of the Board of Poor Directors.

'WORTHLESS' AUDIT

Mrs. Miller, in a letter to County Commissioners, says that the audit carried out under the supervision of Controller Woodside was, in her opinion, merely a bookkeeping audit and was "practically worthless."

Almost every point that has since been taken up by the auditors of Main & Co., working under the Commissioners, was suggested to Controller Woodside as the subject for an audit in a letter from Mrs. Miller in January, 1928, a copy of which she has sent to Commissioners.

In that letter she pointed out the importance of his defining the scope of the audit to search deeply into the various departments. She wrote:

"We all know there are powerful forces, both within and without the county government, that do not want a real audit, but just a superficial examination of the books to quiet and mislead the public. You now have a real opportunity to distinguish yourself both as a citizen and an individual by safeguarding this audit in the beginning that later it will be impossible to either block or hamper it."

$80,000 INQUIRY

An audit, limited as to scope was later made by Ernst & Ernst, according to Mrs. Miller. She stated that the cost of that audit was approximately $80,000. In her letter to Commissioners, she writes:

"Had that work been done properly and had the Controller and his office been really on the job, I do not believe that any future audit would have been needed."

Had the audit delved deeply into the county government in 1928 it would not only have saved millions of dollars in inefficiency and graft, according to Mrs. Miller, but it would have enabled the setting up of a system of bookkeeping checks which would have prevented irregularities in the next administration.

VERIFICATION FAILS

Ernst & Ernst, in a statement filed with the Prothonotary, declared that due to incomplete records and limited appropriation, it was impossible for them to verify in detail the financial transactions of the various county departments.

$150,000 BLAZE IN GREENSBURG

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Executives of the Greensburgh Baking Company, launching an investigation today into a fire which destroyed the plant, estimated the loss at $150,000.

Two firemen suffered minor injuries and a score of persons were drenched during the two-hour fight to conquer the flames last night.

The blaze started in the bun and cake shop in the rear of the bakery and spready rapidly throughout the plant.

Hundreds, watching the fire, fled and many were soaked as a fireman dropped a hose.

Farley May Be Heir to Brown's Tall Chapeau

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Republican postmasters hear the heavy tread of Jim Farley, the avenging angel of the Democrats.

A voice from the patronage sky proclaims:

"Boys, you have read your last postcards."

They say Jim will inherit the high hat and motor car of Mister Brown, who retires to a kiddy kar and a fedora.

This will not affect the letter carriers. Nobody wants a job where you have to walk.

The battle yell of prospective office-holders is:

"Both feet on the desk or nothing."

As the flaming sword of triumphant Democracy, Jim can supply the desks, the swivel chairs and the requisition blanks.

All the new office-holder need furnish is the feet for the desk, the body for the chair and an "out to lunch" sign.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Jan. 18.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Say, I got a good one on "Huey." The very best female scenario writer at our studio said to me yesterday, "Who is this Chinese Huey Long that you been writing about in the Senate? Do they let Chinese in there and how did they understand what he was saying?" Now that sounds funny, but try to answer it, and it's not so funny. First, of course, Huey is not a Chinese. "How did he get into the Senate?" Well, he got in over Carter Glass' veto. "And did they understand what he was saying?"

Will Rogers

And that's the hard part to answer. "Did they understand him?" Well, it's always been a question whether it made any difference whether you did or didn't understand what any Senator was saying. Most people have just become reconciled to 'em.

Yours,
WILL.

WIDOW BRANDS SOCIETY HUSBAND'S DEATH AS MURDER

MRS. BROWN SKEPTICAL OF SUICIDE

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Jan. 18.—While Ruth McCauley Brown, widow of the society man shot to death two nights ago in Palmyra, branded her husband's violent end as murder, investigations revealed today the first authentic motive for suicide—ill-health.

The autopsy performed on the handsome printing company official, who was known for his gaily reckless attitude toward life, revealed he suffered from kidney trouble, it was learned today. Doctors who performed the post-mortem said his span of life probably would not have exceeded five years.

Whether he knew the seriousness of his condition, however, was extremely doubtful. His wife told Ellis Parker, Burlington County detective, in charge of the investigation that she thought he had been quite well.

WIFE DOUBTS SUICIDE

If Brown did not know his condition, Parker admitted, he would be as likely to have been murdered as to have committed suicide.

Mrs. Brown, who was visiting her parents in Beaver, Pa., when the tragedy occurred, was firm in her belief her husband would never have taken his life, friends said today.

At the home of her mother-in-law in Moorestown, N. J., where she is now staying, the widow was quoted by friends as having said:

"He had no reason to want to, for we were so happy together."

Although it is known Brown was a user of alcohol, there has been not one shred of evidence that he attended "parties" or made the acquaintance of any persons unknown to his wife, investigators insisted.

Parker, known as the "slickest county detective in the business," was authority fo the statement that Brown made his own way from the earthen floor of the garage into the yard, up three steps, through a vestibule and into the living room, with two bullets in his body.

SCOFFS AT DOCTOR

Confronted with the declaration of Dr. Daniel Remer, county physician, that a man with two wounds such as those in Brown's body could not exercise controlled muscular activity, Parker drawled:

"No doctor living can tell what the human body is capable of when it comes to bullets."

He outlined the story of Bradway Brown's end, putting in all the contradictions, stressing the incredulities, grinning them down. He said:

"Yes, he was a lively feller—a regular chap—wouldn't call him melancholy, but you never know what another man will do till he does it. Speculation means nothing unless facts prove it. We're all a-settin' here, tryin' to figure it out.

"It's pretty definite the gun belonged to Brown himself. I won't tell you how I know that, but I do know he had it before he was married. Was it the same gun his father shot himself with? Well—no.

"He came home late Monday night after calling his mother to say he couldn't keep a dinner engagement with her because he had to work. He went into the house, turned on a light, left his papers, and went out again. He went to the garage—why, I can't say for sure—but there were bottles in there—you can figure that out for yourself.

"He was shot outside, because there's cinders in the barrel of the gun that must have got in after the bullets were fired. And I've changed my mind since a microscopic inspection of that gun. There were three bullets fired recently, and one some time back, not two recently and two further back, as I first thought."

The funeral will be held tomorrow at 2 o'clock at the home of the mother, Mrs. Charles T. Brown, in Moorestown, and interment in the Friends' Cemetery there will follow.

Last year Brown's father was buried from the same stately house. He took his own life after a prolonged illness.

MURDER THEORY GROWS

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 18.—Mrs. E. S. H. McCauley, formerly Pennsylvania Secretary of Welfare, revealed here today that she had talked by telephone with her daughter, Mrs. Ruth McCauley Brown, widow of Bradway Brown, and that the widow had said there were developments strengthening the belief that Brown was murdered.

Brazil First to Sign Anti-War Treaty

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The first adherent to Argentina's proposed South American anti-war treaty was obtained today when Brazil notified Saavedra Lamas, minister of foreign affairs, that it "was proud to sign." Brazil also suggested that all nations be permitted to sign instead of those of South America or Pan-America only.

Tittle Asks Divorce On Desertion Charge

SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Suit for divorce, entered by Walter Tittle, portrait painter and etcher, was on file in Common Pleas Court here today. The petition charged Mrs. Helene Tittle, of Paris, France, was extravagant, demanded large sums of money for travel, and deserted the plaintiff less than a year after their marriage in Paris in 1925.

POLICE CHIEF BECK WITH FATAL REVOLVER

OFFICER FIRES AT FLEEING CAR

John T. (Snowball) O'Neill, 42, of 19 South Thirteenth street was under arrest in South Side Police Station today after he is alleged to have attempted to run down Patrolman Fitzgerald when the officer stepped from the sidewalk in Carson street to question him for driving without lights, the policeman reported.

The officer fired one shot in a futile attempt to halt the motorist.

O'Neil was arrested two hours later in another automobile, police said. The first machine was found on a parking lot near his home without license plates, police reported.

Hindenburg Decrees Mortgage 'Holiday'

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—A moratorium on mortgaged estates and farms was declared in an emergency decree signed today by President von Hindenburg.

The decree provides that mortgages on landed estates and farms, most of which fall due in the spring when the farmer has no cash, cannot be foreclosed before harvest time, but the mortgager has until October 31 to pay up.

Held Up, Imprisoned By Store Bandits

Police today sought two bandits who obtained $35 in the holdup last night of the confectionery of E. Simon, at 3401 Parkview avenue. Simon was forced into the rear room by the pair who also took cigarets valued at $4. They escaped in an automobile.

NO 'WOMAN LEGISLATOR'

ANNA M. BRANCATO . . WOMAN DEMOCRAT IN LEGISLATURE

SHUNS 'WOMAN' LABEL IN HOUSE

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—If there's one thing Anna M. Brancato, Pennsylvania's first Democratic woman legislator, doesn't like, it's to be thought of as a "woman legislator."

Observing her birthday yesterday in the midst of her third week in the House of Representatives, this youthful, black-haired Philadelphian, was emphatic on that point. She said:

"Of course I'm interested in women's problems, but I'm interested in all other legislative problems as well.

"I wasn't elected as a woman; I was elected as a representative, and here I have a representative's work to do, not a woman's alone."

Miss Brancato upset the Republican organization of William S. Vare right in his own "Vareville" (South Philadelphia) in the election last November.

Appropriately enough, her birthday found her getting her first real legislative baptism. She attended her first committee meeting, and it is in committee that the Legislature does its work.

There is something peculiarly fitting, too, in the fact that her first committee is law and order, for she ran on a platform of modification of the Sunday Blue Laws and prohibition. Three bills to amend the blue laws are now before this committee.

As to what birthday she is observing, Miss Brancato merely suggests she is "old enough to be a representative, anyway."

Mather's Son Wed To Cleveland Nurse

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The marriage last summer of S. Livingston Mather, son of the late Samuel Mather, steel magnate, to Alice N. Keith, of Cleveland, was announced yesterday by Mather.

The ceremony was not announced last summer, he said, because he wished personally to tell his two daughters, Flora and Elizabeth Mather, who were abroad at the time. The present Mrs. Mather formerly was a nurse at Mt. Sinai Hospital.

PROBE COUNTY ROAD CHARGES

Investigation was under way today to determine whether Joseph Gaudy, of McKeesport, and the W. J. Hasley Company received contracts to furnish machinery for road work under the County Commissioners' emergency relief program, in spite of being high bidders.

Director Ray Sprigle, of the Property and Supplies Department, said that if it is learned the companies were high bidders they would be compelled to refund the difference between what they were paid and the amount of the low bids.

Records at the Controller's office indicate that Gaudy and the Hasley Company were paid for rental of power shovels at rates higher than those submitted by the low bidders.

Kidnaped, Hurled From Robber Auto

ALTOONA, Pa., Jan. 18. — D. Elmer Sell, of the Altoona Mirror, today notified police that he was waylaid near his home last night and taken for a ride that ended when he was thrown out of an automobile in Wilkinsburg.

Sell said a blanket was thrown over his head while he was en route to Hollidaysburg to settle an estate in which he was interested. The robbers missed a small sum which he had secreted on his person, Sell told police.

BENEFIT SHOWS FOR SHERADEN

Election of officers and plans for a series of benefit moving picture shows featured a meeting of the Sheraden Board of Trade in the Langley High School last night. Officers named were:

President, A. C. Ackenheil; vice presidents, A. R. Albaugh and Loran Lewis; secretary, J. P. Werneth, and treasurer, H. C. Dennison.

The board moved to sponsor a series of moving pictures to open in the Sheraden Theater February 6, proceeds of which will be used for the school shoe fund. The money will be divided between the Langley High, American Avenue, Harwood, Holy Innocents, Esplen and Chartiers city schools. Mr. Ackenheil was named chairman of the entertainment committee.

Son-in-Law Slain In Row Over Eggs

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Dr. Lafayette J. Dull, 72, retired dentist, was under arrest today, accused of fatally shooting his son-in-law, Horace M. Randall, 32, formerly of Detroit, Mich., during a quarrel arising over two eggs.

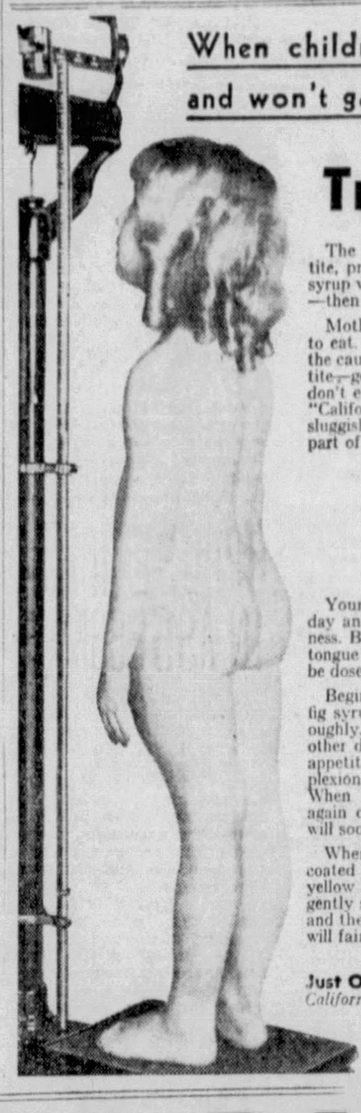
BANK CASHIER ON TRIAL

The state today traced the migration of $50,000 worth of Liberty bonds of the Citizens Trust Company of Bellevue in the trial of A. D. Smith, former cashier, charged with embezzlement. H. E. Kirk, assistant secretary of the closed bank, testified that when he failed to find the bonds in the vault, Smith told him that they were in Smith's office. Kirk also said that the witness had always made out the reports to the state banking department until the last statement prior to the closing was to be filed. Then he said Smith told him, that he (Smith) would make out the statement.

Clarence Elste, vice president, said Smith had told him he had placed the bonds in the reserve funds of the bank and H. J. Freese and James Graham, school board members, testified that Smith had pledged the bonds as security for the school fund deposit.

The case is on trial before Judge A. B. Reid.

When children won't eat—and won't gain weight—



Try This!

The youngster who has no appetite, probably has stasis. A little fig syrup will soon correct this condition—then watch the child eat—and gain!

Mothers should never coax a child to eat. Nature knows best. Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite—get rid of stasis. Children who don't eat are sluggish. Read what the "California treatment" is doing for sluggish, listless children in every part of the country!

A Pound a Week

Your child will eat well from the day and hour you conquer sluggishness. But that girl or boy with furry tongue and a bad breath should not be dosed with salts!

Begin tonight, with enough pure fig syrup to cleanse the colon thoroughly. Less tomorrow then every other day or twice a week, until the appetite, digestion, weight, complexion, tell you the stasis is gone. When a cold or other ailment has again clogged the system, fig syrup will soon set things to right.

When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, California fig syrup will gently stimulate the colon muscles—and the child you used to coax to eat will fairly devour his food.

Just One IF—The claims made for California Fig Syrup are true and it will do the same for you—IF you get genuine CALIFORNIA fig syrup. Don't accept any of the substitutes.

WOMEN SCORE WOODSIDE ON AUDIT

Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, of the league, to see the audit report was refused by Woodside pending the settlement of litigation on the Controller's records.

Controller Woodside has termed the special county audit, now in progress, a "racket" and charged that McGovern and Barr were guilty of "mock heroics and sham virtue."

Woodside declared that he had invited William F. Marsh, president of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants, to name a committee of unbiased accountants to volunteer their service to examine the books of the controller's office and compare them with other years.

M'GOVERN'S VIEWS

McGovern said he was glad to learn Woodside was going to have his own audit, but said that he believed the Controller and Commissioners should have the same right in naming the committee.

Woodside said:

"The display of mock heroics and sham virtue staged by Commissioners Barr and McGovern Saturday morning does not dismay me, nor will it deter me from my course."

The Controller said the Commissioners have dodged his challenge to return to the 1909 salary scale of $8,000.

In the original charges Woodside accused the Commissioners of false economy and said that they tolerated a system of espionage to report on various county workers. He charged his neighbor had been offered a job by the county in return for false testimony concerning the use of county materials on Woodside's farm.

An open hearing will be held tomorrow noon, at which time the Controller will be asked to prove his charges. The Commissioners have stated that if Woodside fails to prove his accusations he should resign. McGovern and Barr have declared they will quit if the charges are proved.

New 'Mystery Woman' In County Probe

Another example of methods allegedly used by investigators searching for irregularities in county governmental affairs was revealed today by friends of Controller Robert G. Woodside, who charges jobs were promised in exchange for information on "higher ups."

A second mysterious woman has appeared into the affair as an "investigator" and, it was charged by Edward A. Hertz, a former county employe, that he was "propositioned."

Hertz, who lives at 465 Third avenue, Homestead, said the woman and a man visited him last May or June. Both represented themselves, he said, as investigators from the office of Leo Riordan, of the County Commissioner's office.

The woman, Mrs. Hertz described as being of past middle age, tall and thin and wearing an old-fashioned picture hat with flowers, and a blue dress. The woman did most of the talking, according to Hertz and his wife. Hertz said:

"She asked me if I didn't know that county bricks had been used in the construction of C. J. McBride's home at Lincoln Place. I told her it was absurd.

"She asked me if I didn't know that Burns had been selling and otherwise illegally disposing of county asphalt. I told her he wouldn't stoop so low. She wanted to know about others in the county road department doing outside jobs with county labor and materials and when I told her I didn't know anything about it, she asked me if I didn't want to get my county job back.

"She said if I would 'remember' some of these things she and the man told me about, Riordan would sponsor me for another job, and I would be sure to get it. They even got me to sign an application and told me to go in to see Riordan the next day.

"I didn't go."

Hertz, unemployed since January 3, 1932, has been receiving welfare relief for several months. He has four children and receives $5.40 a week, free coal, Red Cross flour allotments and coal from borough relief agencies.

OPPOSE RAISE IN ASSESSMENT

Property owners on the south side of Brookline boulevard today argued their appeal from the last city assessment before Common Pleas Judge Thomas M. Marshall, alleging the increased values do not conform with present day prices. The assessment was raised to $140 a front foot, it was brought out, and later reduced to $125. The protestants are seeking a further reduction to $100 a front foot.

Thomas C. McMahon, chief city assessor, was asked by counsel for the property owners if the increased assessment was made to punish the large independent majority polled at city elections in the district. He answered:

"Never in all the years I have been connected with the Assessor's Office has any one tried to influence my judgment in any way."

SULLIVAN MIXUP MUDDLES TAX RECEIPT CASE

Alderman Thomas M. Geary today pondered his decision in the case of Alderman Luke J. Sullivan, of the Sixth Ward, who appeared before him yesterday on charges of violating the election laws.

In Common Pleas Court last December Arthur Drumm, of the County Treasurer's office, identified Alderman Sullivan as the "Mr. Sullivan" who had obtained several hundred tax receipts on allegedly fraudulent orders. The identification resulted in a directed verdict of acquittal for Edward Sullivan, on trial at the time because the name Edward Sullivan appeared on the orders.

Following the identification an information was filed against Alderman Sullivan for the same offense. At the hearing yesterday Drumm was unable to identify any of the tax receipts as those given "Mr. Sullivan."

Then the acquitted Edward Sullivan, placed on the stand by Attorney James P. McArdle, admitted he was the man who had the dealings with Drumm.

Following these developments and McArdle's request for a discharge in Alderman Sullivan's case, Geary reserved decision until he can look up the law.

Four States Given $536,000 Job Aid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The Reconstruction Corporation today authorized four emergency relief loans totalling over $536,000, Tennessee being granted $176,098, South Carolina $135,000, Georgia $195,375 and Montana $30,420.

SUSPECT DENIES KILLING WIDOW

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Police said Joseph Taylor today admitted he was Joseph Crawford, the Negro sought for a year on a charge that he killed Mrs. Agnes Boeing Illsley, wealthy widow, and her maid, Miss Mina Buckner, at Middleburg, Va., but he denied that he committed the crime.

Sergt. John McArdle and Special Officer Joseph McDevitt, who interviewed Crawford at the Charles Street Jail, said he admitted knowing Mrs. Illsley, and also that he resided on property owned by her. He said, however, that he left the vicinity in September, 1931, and did not return. The murder was committed on January 13, 1932.

Crawford's identification came as a result of a "a hunch" on the part of a finger printing student employed by the state.

EATON SEEKING END OF HALL SITE TANGLE

No claim ever having been presented to County Controller Woodside by the Schenley Farms Company for payment for the Town Hall site in Oakland, Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, representing the County Commissioners, yesterday presented a petition in Common Pleas Court in the hope of forcing such action.

The Schenley Farms Company several months ago brought a mandamus action in an endeavor to force the County Controller and the County Treasurer to pay for the site. The action is now before the court.

Eaton takes the view that the Controller can, as soon as demand for payment is made, go into a hearing on the merits of the contract between the County Commissioners and the Schenley Farms Company for the purchase of the site.

He maintains the previous court action was premature, the action taken to enforce payment having denied the Controller the right to hold a hearing on the merits of the contract, which the present Commissioners do not wish to carry out. It would involve the payment of more than $1,000,000.

Judge Thomas M. Marshall told Eaton he would take the subject up with Judges James R. Macfarlane and James H. Gray. Eaton wants the additional data made a part of the original record.

CIVIC CENTER OPENS FRIDAY

The headquarters of the newly organized Community League of Beechview will be opened with a meeting Friday night in the old Beechview School, Sebring avenue. The building, recently acquired by the organization, will have reading rooms, library, pool room, gymnasium and lounging rooms. An attendant will care for children left by their parents during the day. The quarters will be open every day but Sunday.

Officers of the league are Attorney Elmer E. Hardster, Jr., president; Robert S. Steele, Jr., vice president, and C. J. Rubenstein, treasurer.

The manual training school, formerly housed in the building, has been transferred to the new Beechwood School, Alton street.

SEE 75,000,000 AT WORLD FAIR

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—When it comes to estimating the number of persons expected to visit the World's Fair next summer, Harry J. Dooley proved himself a great optimist.

Dooley, right hand man and first assistant to official City Greeter George D. Gaw, recently completed a good will tour of the United States and Canada and this is what he told Mayor Anton J. Cermak:

"We must be prepared to entertain 75,000,000 visitors."

He didn't mention that if his expectations come true more than half the population of the United States and the Dominion would be on hand.

Calvin Coolidge's Life Story

school more than two days. Latin was not difficult for me to translate, but I never became proficient in its composition. Although I continued it until my sophomore year at college the only part of all the course that I found of much interest was the orations of Cicero. These held my attention to such a degree that I translated some of them in later life.

When Greek was begun the next year I found it difficult. It is a language that requires real attention and close application. Among its rewards are the moving poetry of Homer, the marvelous orations of Demosthenes, and in after life an increased power of observation.

Besides the classics we had a course in rhetoric, some ancient history, and a little American literature. Plane geometry completed our mathematics. In the modern languages there was only French.

In some subjects I began with the class when it started to review and so did the work of a term in two weeks. I joined the French class in mid-year and made up the work by starting my study about 3 o'clock in the morning.

During the long vacations from May until September I went home and worked on the farm. We had a number of horses, so that I was able to indulge my pleasure in riding. As no one else in the neighborhood cared for this diversion, I had to ride alone. But a horse is much company, and riding over the fields and along the country roads by myself, where nothing interrupts his seeing and thinking, is a good occupation for a boy. The silences of nature have a discipline all their own.

Taught Money Value

Of course our school life was not free from pranks. The property of the townspeople was moved to strange places in the night. One morning, as the janitor was starting the furnace, he heard a loud bray from one of the class rooms. His investigation disclosed the presence there of a domestic animal noted for his long ears and discordant voice. In some way during the night he had been stabled on the second floor. About as far as I deem it prudent to discuss my own connection with these episodes is to record that I was never convicted of any of them, and so must be presumed innocent.

The expenses at the academy were very moderate. The tuition was about $7 for each term, and board and room for each week not over $3. Oftentimes students hired a room for about 50 cents per week and boarded themselves. In my own case the cost for a school year averaged about $150, which was all paid by my father. Any money I earned he had me put in the savings bank, because he wished me to be informed of the value of money at interest. He thought money invested in that way led to a self-respecting independence that was one of the foundations of good character.

It was about 12 miles from Ludlow to Plymouth. Sometimes I walked home Friday afternoon, but usually my father came for me and brought me back Sunday evening or Monday morning. When this was not done I often stayed with the elder sister of my mother, Mrs. Don C. Pollard, who lived about three miles down the river at Proctorsville. This was my Aunt Sarah, who is still living. She was wonderfully kind to me and did all she could to take the place of my own mother in affection for me and good influence over me while I was at the academy and ever after. The sweetness of her nature was a benediction to all who came in contact with her. What men owe to the love and help of good women can never be told.

Youngsters Studious

The Academy had no athletics in those days, as the boys from the farms did not feel the need of such activity. A few games of baseball were played, but no football or track athletics were possible. Games did not interest me much though I had some skill with a bat. I was rather slender and not so tall as many boys of my age.

Those who attended the school from out of town were all there with a real purpose of improving themselves, so that while there was no lack of fun and play they all worked as best they could, for their coming had meant too much sacrifice at home not to be taken seriously. They had come seeking to better their condition in life through what they might learn and the self-discipline they might secure.

The school had much to be desired in organization and equipment, but it possessed a sturdy spirit and a wholesome regard for truth. Of course the student body came from the country and had country ways, but the boys were inspired with a purpose, and the girls with a sweet sincerity which becomes superior to all the affectations of the drawing room. In them the native capacity for making real men and women remained all unspoiled.

The Presidential election of 1888 created considerable interest among the students. Most of them favored the Republican candidate Benjamin Harrison against the then President Grover Cleveland. When Harrison was elected, two nights were spent parading the streets with drums and trumpets, celebrating the victory.

History Revealed

During most of my course George Sherman was the principal and Miss M. Belle Chellis was the first assistant. I owe much to the inspiration and scholarly direction which they gave to my undergraduate days. They both lived to see me President and sent me letters at the time, though they left the school long ago. It was under their teaching that I first learned of the glory and grandeur of the ancient civilization that grew up around the Mediterranean and in Mesopotamia. Under their guidance I beheld the marvels of old Babylon, I marched with the Ten Thousand of Xenophon, I witnessed the conflict around beleaguered Troy which doomed that proud city to pillage and to flames, I heard the tramp of the invincible legions of Rome, I saw the victorious galleys of the Eternal City carrying destruction to the Carthaginian shore, and I listened to the lofty eloquence of Cicero and the matchless imagery of Homer. They gave me a vision of the world when it was young and showed me how it grew. It seems to me that it is almost impossible for those who have not traveled that road to reach a very clear conception of what the world now means.

It was in this period that I learned something of the thread of events that ran from the Euphrates and the Nile through Athens to the Tiber and thence stretched on to the Seine and the Thames to be carried overseas to the James, the Charles and the Hudson. I found that the English language was generously compounded with Greek and Latin, which it was necessary to know if I was to understand my native tongue. I discovered that our ideas of democracy came from the agora of Greece, and our ideas of liberty came from the forum of Rome. Something of the sequence of history was revealed to me, so that I began to understand the significance of our own times and our own country.

A COLD PASSES THRU 3 STAGES!

It is Twice as Easily Stopped in the First as in the Second or Third Stages!

A cold passes through three stages—the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. Once it gets beyond the Dry Stage it is far more difficult to relieve. Therefore, treat a cold promptly.

The best thing you can take is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels. Kills the germs and fever in the system. Relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

This is the relief you want—complete, thorough and decisive! Trust to nothing less.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful. May be safely taken by young and old and whether you stay indoors or go out. There is absolutely no penalty attached to its use. For more than 40 years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine now comes in two sizes—30c and 50c. As a measure of preparedness, get yourself a package today. Accept no substitute on any pretext.

NOTE: During Epidemics a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine every morning and night will do much to keep your system immune.

You Can Lose Fat a Pound a Day on a Full Stomach this way

Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Science has made important discoveries in fat reduction. The average fat person can now rip off fat a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—on a full stomach, with never a hungry moment. Thus it is foolish now to stay fat.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in a glass of water a half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses the system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute! Cut down on fats, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. The diet takes off fat with food that turns into energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

Man! Watch your KIDNEYS

If you are over 45, give Kidneys and Bladder benefits of Santal Midy

When a man reaches his prime, kidneys and bladder frequently go back on him. Then, about 75% of the body's waste matter which must be eliminated by these organs does NOT pass out.

Doctors know the power of Santal Midy Capsules in keeping the bladder and kidneys healthy and free from irritation. Santal Midy contains a precious extract from the East Indian santalwood tree, which has been prescribed for over a hundred years in all parts of the world.

Don't let your genito-urinary organs work under a strain and a hardship. Prevent burning sensation, backaches, restless nights, frequent risings, leg pains, stiffness, heavy eyes. Get some Santal Midy from your druggist—today.

Calvin Coolidge's Message to Advertisers

SPEAKING before the 1926 annual convention of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, Calvin Coolidge, then President of the United States, said:

"The pre-eminence of America in industry which has constantly brought about a reduction of costs has come very largely through mass production. Mass production is only possible where there is mass demand. Mass demand has been created almost entirely through the development of advertising."

A little farther along in his address he said this:

"It is not enough that goods are made; a demand for them must also be made. It is on this foundation of enlarging production through the demands created by advertising that very much of the success of the American industrial system rests."

In commenting editorially on this speech at the time Printers' Ink said:

"The career of Calvin Coolidge as we know it includes no long training in the school of business. His main concern throughout has been to know people and to know what they want to know."

Or, to put it another way, his pronouncement in behalf of this great business force came not from an intimate, workaday knowledge of advertising as such; its inspiration was rather in his profound knowledge of the human family as a whole and particularly of the American portion of it.

That is what is going to make his wise words live in the minds of American business men as long as does his memory—which means that they will be increasingly helpful for a very long time to come.

The sudden death of this great American last week emphasizes that the thing nearest to his mind and heart even up to the closing moments of his life was the restoration of prosperity to this nation.

We believe, therefore, that a requoting of his sentiments about advertising is now both seemly and proper. For if advertising is what he said it is—and he always spoke from his innermost being without guile—then advertising is the keystone of all the elements that must be utilized at this time to make his fondest wish come true.

These sentiments uttered by a man whose forte was listening instead of talking and who never said a thing unless he meant it and knew what he was talking about ought to revive the lagging faith of every business man who has been searching for the light during three long years.

And if faith once more is firmly restored accomplishment will come.

There could scarcely be a better tribute to his memory.

NO OFFER MADE BY BUCS TO BRAVES

IF HE IS correctly quoted in the Boston newspapers, President Emil Fuchs, of the Braves, according to the officials of the Pittsburgh club, though they were too polite to put it in those words, is talking through his hat. "There is practically no chance of coming to an agreement with the Pittsburgh club in the matter of a trade which the Pirates started in an effort to get a starting pitcher from us," Fuchs is reported to have said. "The trouble with the Pittsburgh offer is that the Pirates want a starting pitcher we cannot afford to give up, and will give us only several men who are just a trifle below the grade of regular starters. You can say that the Boston club definitely has lost interest in the proposition."

Emil Fuchs

A pretty speech for home consumption, but it happens to be all news to Pirate officials. They say they had no deal on with Boston, and never made a proposition of any kind to the Braves. President Benswanger says there is no player Boston would be willing to swap in whom Pittsburgh would be interested. The only thing that has come up, it is said, was an unimportant trade proposed by the Boston club itself, and which was rejected by the Pirate management.

THE RELEASE OF Outfielder Dusty Cooke by the Yankees to their Newark farm breaks up another of those long-standing baseball companionships. Cooke and Ben Chapman have been playmates for years in Durham, St. Paul and New York.

By an odd turn of things, Chapman finally took Cooke's job. Ben came up as a third baseman and Dusty was an outfielder. Two years ago Cooke fell on a slippery field in Washington and suffered such a severe shoulder injury that last year he was placed on the voluntary retired list. Joe McCarthy meanwhile converted Chapman into an outfielder and Ben now fills his old pal's place in left garden.

THE FRANKNESS OF Al Simmons and George Earnshaw in saying the 1933 pennant in the American League would be soft picking for the Yankees didn't make any hit with the club owners.

The magnates think it is not good business policy nor conducive to arousing fan interest for players on rival clubs to predict publicly a walkover for the Yanks. Connie Mack and Clark Griffith in particular are stirred.

THE REPORT THAT Earnshaw's interview will lead to a deeper cut in his salary than was at first intended may be an exaggeration, but there is no doubt about Mack's disapproval. Connie declares it is too early to concede a flag to any club; that he would not claim one in January for his own team because he has discovered some of the best machines can crack from overconfidence. He says good young teams sometimes smash through older and more experienced foes to the championship. Griffith calls attention to the numerous deals he has made to bolster the Washington club and insists that the Senators have just as good a pennant chance as the Yankees, regardless of any views to the contrary that may be held by Simmons and Earnshaw. The moguls apparently believe that it is the part of any player to think only of his own club and not to be predicting an easy pennant victory for any rival.

John A. Heydler

WHILE CHARITABLY REFRAINING from criticizing the play-off system adopted by the American Association and International League, because, as they explain, it concerns only those leagues themselves, leading officials in the majors are replying very vigorously in the negative to questions as to whether the plan may be tried later in the big show.

"Whether or not the play-off system proves successful in the minor leagues, I am certain that the majors will not adopt it," said John A. Heydler, president of the National League. "We've been doing business with the same sort of schedule for 58 years, and one bad season isn't going to make us change."

ANOTHER WHO CAN'T see the hockey play-off system as applied to baseball is John McGraw, for 30 years an outstanding figure among the major league managers.

"It may work out in the American Association and International Leagues, but I have my doubts," McGraw said. "I'm certain it never will be attempted in the majors, and I believe also that in 1934 the minors will go back to the usual schedule."

WHEN YOU MENTION tough football schedules, the one that Harvard will play in 1934 is not to be passed up lightly. It is a slate that will require little artificial aids to stir up interest down East, the list calling for games with Bates, Brown, Holy Cross, Dartmouth, Princeton, Army, New Hampshire and Yale. Looking a year farther ahead to 1935, the arrangements show Harvard making a concession in a deviation from its regular order of things. It has been a Harvard custom to play one game away from home each season, but in 1935 the Crimson will perform abroad twice, appearing at West Point and Princeton.

AS THE DATES of the Princeton-Harvard games in 1934 and 1935 indicated when they were announced, it is now admitted that Princeton recognized Harvard's stand that the Crimson's big rival is Yale, the Tigers withdrawing their previous demands for a rotating schedule that would make them Harvard's final opponents in alternate years.

So Harvard's big windup each season will continue to be with Yale, and Princeton will be met on an earlier date. It is presumed in the East that the Tigers therefore will continue to make Yale their major foe, with Harvard and Dartmouth secondary in importance.

IN THE MATTER of monopolizing sports honors for one family, the three Cook brothers would appear to be outstripping all rivals in that respect on the showing they have made in professional hockey so far this season.

Babe Didrikson

Frank (or Bun) and Bill Cook, who play the wings for the New York Rangers, are among the leaders on the scoring lists in the National League, while the younger brother, Alex, is the top scorer of the Canadian-American circuit.

IF BABE DIDRIKSON fails to include any particular pastime in her professional tour as a girl of all sports, it probably will be attended to by some other woman performer elsewhere. The branch that the fair ones have not invaded is a rarity. Over in London, they now have wrestling matches between women. Female boxers have been numerous in this country since Jeanne La Mar came over to set the style. Mary Hirsch, daughter of Max, the famous turf trainer, has applied for a license to train horses. Mae Craig Cagle, cousin of Red, is to be mascot for Biff Jones' Louisiana State football team. There are women swimmers, skaters, cueists and what not. Seemingly there is no field of endeavor in which they are not making headway, which leads one hopeful guy to remark that who knows but in time to come we may even have women cooks.

The leaders in the City League basketball campaign managed to hold their positions as the league title chase rounded into the third week of action, but two of them, Schenley, in Section I, and Perry, in Section II, had tough assignments yesterday.

It took some accurate long distance shooting in the extra period by Cates, veteran Negro forward, to enable Schenley to defeat Taylor Allderdce, 25 to 24, in Section I. Perry was extended to down South Hills, in Section II, 30 to 27.

Trailing by 21 to 19 with the game almost over, Hyatt, younger brother of the famous Charley, of Pitt fame, was hacked in the act of shooting and stepped up to the charity line and registered both tosses to knot the count. Then Cates came through with his two long ones to win the game.

SOUTH EASY VICTOR

In other City League encounters, in Section I, South walloped Peabody to remain tied with Schenley, 39 to 24, and Fifth Avenue defeated Connelley, 35 to 15.

Allegheny won over Oliver in Section II, 30 to 10, and Vocational defeated Carrick, 29 to 28. An argument marked the end of the latter game. With time up, the scoreboard showed Carrick ahead by 29 to 28; the official scorer had the score 29 to 28 favoring Allegheny and Carrick claimed the count to be 28-all. The officials awarded the game to Vocational.

Favorites crashed through without exception in the W. P. I. A. L. Scott rallied after its defeat at the hands of Rankin to beat Wilkinsburg, 46 to 17. Duquesne won over Munhall, 34 to 21; Ambridge walloped Beaver, 44 to 12; Rankin defeated Turtle Creek, 33 to 25; New Kensington took over Springdale, 34 to 12; Aliquippa doubled the score on Monaca, 30 to 15.

NEW CASTLE WINSI

Butler trimmed Rochester, 30 to 19; Freedom upset Midland, 34 to 23; New Castle nosed out Beaver Falls, 26 to 24; Mt. Lebanon downed Stowe, 17 to 15; Braddock nosed out Swissvale, 28 to 27, in a great battle and Hurst was a point better than Connellsville at 18 to 17.

In junior high frays, Schenley downed Baxter, 19-11; Herron Hill upset Latimer, 16 to 14; Fifth defeated Arsenal, 21 to 4; Prospect trimmed Overbrook, 21-11 and Neville walloped Brentwood, 34 to 8.

High school competition today is limited to junior teams. South plays at Washington in the City Junior League, and in the Junior W. P. I. A. L., Elizabeth plays at Pitcairn and East McKeesport is host to Clairton.

YALE POLOISTS FACE LOCALS

Polo assumes a collegiate aspect here on Saturday night when the Yale varsity poloists tackle a trio of Pittsburgh Polo League All-Stars, all former collegiate and scholastic luminaries, at Hunt Armory.

The New Haven entourage, with five players and a coach, will arrive Saturday morning.

The 308 Cavalry will meet the Culver Military Academy riders in games at Culver, Md., January 27 and 28. Elliott E. Perritt, Jr., and W. W. Young, of the Pittsburgh team, are alumni of the academy.

American League Schedule Changed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—William E. Harridg, president of the American League, has disclosed that wide changes in the league schedule will be made for 1933.

The changes outlined by Harridge during a visit here with Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington club, would prevent eastern teams from going into a huddle for the first 23 games while the western nines are battling each other.

It was described as one which would generalize the schedule more and lessen the chances of one or two teams getting away to a prohibitive start, in addition to giving the fans a more diversified brand of entertainment.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE GIGANTIC ARROWHEAD—This curious formation, about 1,500 feet long and one-half as broad, is due to the light color of the grass within its area as contrasted with the surrounding dark green chapparal. It was first reported by a band of Mormon immigrants bound from Utah to California, after a journey of 500 miles across the Great American Desert, under the leadership of Capt. Hunt, in 1851. The arrow points directly to a terrace at the base of the mountain where great springs of healing water gush forth. To the weary travelers the phenomenon was a symbol placed upon the mountain by the invisible hand of the Supreme Being, to guide them to the miraculous waters of healing. The hottest of the springs attains a temperature of 202 degrees, while the total discharge of the springs is several thousand gallons a minute. THE GLOBE-WALKER—This curious walking feat was accomplished by the American girl in 1906. In 11 hours she covered the distance between London and Brighton —51 miles—treading the globe, thereby winning a wager of $2,500.

TOMORROW: AN IRISH TONG GOVERNOR.

SQUASH PLAY NEAR FINALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

With the Pittsburgh Golf Club invitation singles event a feature of the past, competition in the P. A. A. squash racquets tournament is slated for immediate resumption. The Winged Head affair at present languishes in the semi-finals, with the exception of one bracket, wherein Dr. John O'Loughlin and Graham McCargo must tussle in quarter-final fray.

Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, leader of the Red and Gray squad in the local Class A inter-club loop, encounters his teammate, Dr. Whitey Stegeman, for right to enter the upper semi-final, while in the lower the survivor of the McCargo-John O'Loughlin affair meets Paul Sullivan.

The official P. A. A. club championship tourney will be staged on the Schenley Farms courts early next month. The summary:

SECOND ROUND

Upper half: Dr. David L. O'Loughlin defeated J. Rogers Flannery, three games to none; John D. Beatty defeated Dr. George Booth, 14-17, 18-13, 15-11, 15-12.

Lower half: Dr. John L. O'Loughlin won from Dr. Ray Gillis, by default; Graham McCargo defeated F. N. Dean, 15-8, 15-2, 15-4; P. G. Sullivan defeated Dr. C. F. Brand, 15-9, 17-16, 15-8; Eugene Dowling won from C. I. Collins, by default.

THIRD ROUND

Upper half: Dr. David L. O'Loughlin defeated William Hutchins 15-12, 12-15, 15-11, 12-15, 15-7; Dr. G. Stegeman defeated John D. Beatty, 15-10, 15-11, 15-12.

Lower half: P. G. Sullivan defeated Eugene Dowling, 15-12, 15-7, 15-10.

Maj. Sasse After Mich. State Post

Yarosz Finds Kid Wolfe No Bargain as Foe

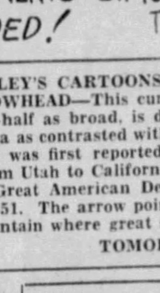
By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

The best fights generally are the ones the fighters don't want.

They don't want them because they're tough.

Such a bout is the third meeting between Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, undefeated in 62 bouts as a professional, and Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, of Memphis, slated at Motor Square Garden next Monday night.

Their first meeting, in Detroit, was so close that there was a lot of argument over the justice of the decision in favor of Yarosz. They fought again a little later, in Madison Square Garden, New York, and Ted had to come from behind with a rush in the last two rounds to get a draw. When he returned home, the Garden tried to make a third pairing, but Ray Foutts, Yarosz' manager, would have none of it, saying:



Eddie (Kid) Wolfe

"Wolfe gives Teddy too much trouble. Teddy can beat him, has beaten him, but he's a rough, tough fellow and makes a hard fight. Get us somebody else for a change."

A TOUGH RINGSTER

The Garden tried to get somebody else and didn't succeed, and finally came around to the Wolfe match again. The terms were made sufficiently attractive for Yarosz and now the battle is on. That Wolfe is plenty tough is attested by the local fans who saw him really beat Tony Herrera at the Meyers Bowl more than a year ago, although Tony got the decision, and, more recently, saw him knock out Pee Wee Jarrell in a punch at the Garden after being on the receiving end as he chased the nimble Jarrell for seven full rounds and part of the eighth.

Between Rounds

Mose Butch insists he is going to turn around and box in orthodox fashion against Ross Fields, Weirton southpaw, in their main bout at the Arena Friday night. It will be interesting to note his reactions if he is stung with a punch. Instinct should force him to drop back into his old southpaw stance if the going gets tough, especially in view of the fact that this will be the first fight in which he will "reform" and try to quit being a wrongsider.

By the way, have you noticed in the increase in the number of southpaw boxers these days? Around here we have Butch, Fields, Alabama Kid, Joey Speigal, Frankie Bojarski, and—but that's enough.

Joey Speigal writes from Uniontown that he is surprised the promoters lost his telephone number when they were looking around for someone to box Billy Holt at the Arena Friday night. He has beaten Holt and fought a draw with him.

Marty McHale, of McKeesport, who fought a good fight against Marty Gornick at the Arena recently, says Gornick has refused to meet him in a return bout, and he also is available to box Holt.

Sammy Paris, Hill District bantamweight, plans to leave soon for the coast, where a number of matches have been assured him.

Buddy McArthur boxes Rosy Rosales in the main bout of a show at Fairmont, W. Va., Friday night. Paul Ogez and Jack McCarthy box the six-round semi-final.

The card has been completed for the amateur show at McKeesport tomorrow night as follows: Buster Lowstetter vs. Jess Cunningham; Frankie Karnagh vs. Anthony Barr; William Johnson vs. George Schaer; Frank McLaughlin vs. John Fleming; Eddie Roberts vs. Anson Grieves; Bill Schwerin vs. Joe Mazur; Tony Grecan vs. Mike Bukovac; John Brydine vs. Tuffy Langon; George Luppanacci vs. Floyd Walcott; Johnny Ochs vs. John Petro and Wolf Black vs. John Mazzo.

MICHIGAN MAY PLAY IRISH

DETROIT, Jan. 18.—Notre Dame and Michigan, which have not met since 1909, are on the verge of resuming football relations, it developed at the Notre Dame banquet at South Bend last night, when Harry Kipke, Michigan coach, was a guest and complimentary remarks were exchanged.

Athletic Director Jesse Harper and Coach Hunk Anderson, of Notre Dame, expressed themselves as willing to play the Wolverines any time.

Swim Stars Clash In Keystone Meet

Four championship events are on the program arranged for the swimming meet to be held tonight in the Keystone Athletic Club pool. They are the 400-yard senior relay for men, low board senior diving for men, 100-yard senior breast stroke for women and 100-yard junior free style for women.

The leading amateur swimming clubs of Western Pennsylvania have entered full teams in the meet.

At a meeting of the boxing committee wtih sports writers and officials of the A. A. U., at the Keystone Club, last night, supervised by Stanley Wachter, chairman of the committee, and Jack Kennard, athletic director, plans were advanced for staging of the Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. junior boxing championships to be staged in the club's gymnasium February 2, 3, 4 and 6.

By JESS CARVER

For the forty-sixth time since athletic relations between Pitt and Carnegie Tech had their inception, the Panthers and Tartans will clash on the basketball court tonight, meeting in the first game of their annual series on the Skibo gymnasium floor. The series is one of the oldest and most lengthy sport relationships in the country, and finds the Panthers holding a tremendous edge, having won 38 of the 45 games played to date.

Victory tonight for either team carries with it temporary leadership in the Eastern Intercollegiate Conference and puts the winner on an even basis in the race for the city title, a race which promises to be a thrilling and bitter battle. So far, in the three-cornered battle between Pitt, Tech and the Dukes, the latter have defeated Pitt.

BOTH TEAMS CRIPPLED

Tech risks its undefeated record against the Panthers tonight and the risk appears to be a big one. On the basis of form displayed to date, the contest appears to be a toss-up. Both fives will enter the game in a crippled condition, though the loss of Cribbs to the Pitt forces is somewhat more serious than the absence of Red Silverman from the Carnegie lineup.

Pitt lost Claire Cribbs, promising sophomore center, in the Temple game, and had to battle the Dukes with this important cog out of the works. The same revised lineup that worked against the Bluffites will be used against Tech tonight by Dr. Carlson. He'll have Skippy Hughes and Capt. Don Smith at the forwards, Russ Ochsenhirt shifted from a guard to the center post and Don McCamant and Charley Hughes at the guards.

For Tech, Rigg will play in Silverman's post at guard, paired off with Capt. Red Fergus. Lou Jagnow and Bob Smith will go at the forwards and Ed Stentz at center.

On the bench for Pitt, straining at the leash, will be Slim Wainio, crack shot of the squad, the lad who just about beat the Dukes single-handed last week. Wainio, a former New Castle High lad, trained in the way he should go by the cagy Phil Bridenbaugh, of whom there is no more cagy, is a dead shot and a fast floor performer.

TECH HOPES HIGH

Coach Max Hannum's hopes for a victory tonight are high. His team isn't as fast as it might be, due to the knee injuries to Red Fergus and Jagnow, but it still is a mighty potent aggregation.

The last time Carnegie won from Pitt was back in 1927. The first time was in 1908. The Plaid won again in 1909, waited nine years until '18 for a third triumph, scored again in 1924 and won two of the three games played in 1925.

The freshmen teams of the rival institutions will clash in the preliminary, slated for 7 o'clock. The varsity encounter is set for 8:15.

The attendance — 3,500, is capacity and then some for Tech gym. All bleachers will be up, chairs installed at corners and standing room permitted wherever possible.

In another game tonight Marshall will be the guest of Cincinnati.

Dukes Play Alumni

The annual Duquesne University varsity-alumni basketball will take up the boys' time tomorrow night. In a preliminary, the members of the athletic department, Messers Layden, Holohan, Davies, Donnelli, Kovalchek, Joe Miller and probably Brew Jackson, to say nothing, or at least, very little, of Sebastian Istabella, will meet a team selected from the Board of Governors of the University.

Coach Joe Orsini, of Pitt, is just about set on the makeup of the boxing team he'll take to Philadelphia Saturday for the Eastern Conference inaugural meet with Temple. The following boxers have been selected, tentatively:

115 pounds—Herb Pearle or Charley Junge; 125 pounds—Harry Conti; 135 pounds—Jim Glanati; 145 pounds — Bernie Speigel; 155 pounds—Jack Shricker, Conference champion; 165 pounds—Capt. Francis Scigal or Charley Gangloff; 175 pounds Eddie Horwicz.

HEARST NEWSPAPER HELPS GENE GET SQUARE DEAL

FAIR REFEREE DEMANDED BY PUBLISHER

SYNOPSIS

Leading Chicago citizens assure Tunney of "fair deal" as his return bout with Dempsey approaches in a murky atmosphere of "fix" and "dive" rumors involving big town gangsters and shady politicians. The referee question becomes critical indeed. . . .

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

The most persistent rumor going around was that I was going to take a dive (feign a knockout) in the seventh round.

Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, arrived in Chicago the day before the fight. Hearing this rumor and several others, he telephoned to my training camp at Lake Villa, and said: "Gene, there is a rumor going around Chicago that you are going to lose by a knockout in the seventh round. I know this is not true, but I want to know what kind of shape you are in. There are all kinds of rumors about an injury to your eye, to your hands, and I want you to tell me if there is anything to these rumors."

Gene Tunney

Now I had known Frank Hague rather intimately since the early days of my career. I felt his interest sincere.

I replied:

"Mayor, I do not know anything about the rumors. If I am knocked out in the seventh round, it will be because Dempsey knocked me out. There will be no feigning on my part."

COMMISSION PRODDED

Hague then went to Commissioner Kelly and told him he would have to snap the Commission out of its lethargy or else rescind the permission to hold the match at Soldier Field. He was convinced that a steal was being perpetrated in which neither Dempsey nor Tunney had a part; gangsters and sure-thing gamblers were plotting the biggest scoop in sporting history. Never before in the history of any sport was so much money wagered on any event. This betting was not confined to our own country. All the countries of the world that had taken up boxing were engaged in the betting.

Realiding the importance of definite action, Commissioner Kelly went, on the following morning, to the office of John Righeimer, chairman of the Illinois Boxing Commission, and said:

"The hoodlums are planning a steal tonight. If any man of bad reputation is put in that ring as referee, I am going to expose the whole thing. I warn you, I have already written a statement for release to the press and in it have stated that this sinister plot has been called to your attention by me."

Commissioner Righeimer advised Kelly that he was excited and "het up" over rumors that had no foundation in fact. At 3 o'clock that afternoon, rumors now being whispered as actual inside information, Commissioner Kelly again went to Righeimer's office and repeated his warning.

Several days before the fight, I was notified by the Illinois Boxing Commission to send a representative to its offices for a conference upon the interpretation of the rules. They set no limit to the number of representatives, so I sent three—Billy Gibson, Jimmy Bronson and my lawyer, George Whiteside, of the firm of Chadbourne, Stanchfield and Levy. Gibson and Bronson I thought could take care of any professional question. In the event of any legal question arising, I wanted Mr. Whiteside there. I also thought that the notes that Mr. Whiteside would take might be important later on.

RULES INTERPRETED

George Getz, the nominal promoter, now member of the Illinois Boxing Commission, was present. Leo P. Flynn, representing Dempsey, and the three members of the commission, made up the conference. This group met every afternoon for three days. They went over all phases of the rules and commission interpretations. Mr. Getz later told me that Flynn brought up the question of a knockdown and insisted that in the event of a knockdown the man scoring it should go to the farthest neutral corner, and, in the event he refused, the count would not begin until he had gone. The suspension of the count was to be the penalty for disobeying the rules.

This interpretation, insisted on by Flynn, later became the cause of great discussion. Bronson claims it was not Flynn but he who introduced this point. Which one took the initiative is immaterial. That it was discussed before the fight is the important factor. Toward the close of the third conference, during a discussion of some point or other, Flynn in the midst of this group turned to George Whiteside saying:

"For —— sake, let's be frank. I'm here to steal as much for my man as I can. Why don't you admit the same?"

'NO HOODLUM REFEREE'

To get the humor of this situation, one would have to know George Whiteside. George, with his malacca walking stick, chamois gloves and gray hair, has the appearance of a director of the Social Register. He exclaimed:

"What! Well, that is just why I am here—to prevent your stealing anything!"

Mr. Whiteside had been associated with William Travers Jerome in the District Attorney's office in New York for many years. He later proved his mettle in defending me in blackmail suits brought subsequent to my retirement.

Just before the fight started, Righeimer went to Commissioner Kelly and said:

"No hoodlum is going to referee the fight. I will tell you the name of the man if you want me to."

Kelly answered:

"I don't care to know his name. My only concern is that he is not a hoodlum."

A reporter for the Chicago Herald-Examiner, a Hearst newspaper, paid a visit to the offices of the commission at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and brought with him a message from the publisher to the effect that the Herald-Examiner would not tolerate the appointment of any referee of bad reputation and that if such a one were appointed referee, whether his officiating were honest or not, that paper would utilize its power for the removal of Righeimer.

John Hertz, whose home I had visited with Bernard Gimbel, assured me that Mayor Thompson's committee of seven leading businessmen of Chicago was determined to have two reputable businessmen, with a knowledge of boxing, act as judges for the contest. These businessmen were as anxious to avoid scandal as we were.

Tomorrow Tunney will tell how "my heart dropped into my stomach" when Dave Barry was introduced as the referee and how the latter clearly explained the knockdown-neutral corner rule to both contestants just before the opening gong. The fight gets under way . . .

Just a Matter of Smiths—

DON SMITH, PITT

BOB SMITH, CARNEGIE TECH

Opposing forwards in the basketball game between Pitt and Carnegie Tech at the Stadium tonight will be these two Smiths. They're not related. In fact, one or the other of them is said to prefer to be known as Smythe. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

RACING BILLS IN HOUSE

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—Representative Baldi, Philadelphia, presented a bill in the House today to legalize horse racing and pari-mutuel betting in Pennsylvania.

The bill would establish a racing commission and fix the number of racing days, license associations and supervise racing in general.

Revenue raised through the sport would be placed in the motor license fund, excepting that 5 per cent would be returned to the counties in which the races are held.

Similar legislation was introduced today by Representative Frederick C. Peters, Montgomery, providing that the revenue from a tax on racing be deposited in the general fund.

Jack Johnson Denied License in France

PARIS, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—The French Boxing Federation today refused to permit Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion, to take part in a proposed exhibition bout Friday night. Johnson said:

"I guess they think I'm an old man on crutches. I'm just a hard luck baby. All my life it has been the same. I've got $100,000 tied up in the bank of France—all because Dan McKetrick quarreled with Frank Moran after our fight in 1914 and refused to sign a release. The money has been tied up all of these years."

Van Klaveren Hurt, Garden Seeks Sub

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—Madison Square Garden may be dark on fight night this week again. Bop Van Klaveren, Dutch boxer, scheduled for a 10-round bout with Billy Petrolle, Friday night, showed up today with an injured hand and a substitute is being sought.

Bill Duffy, manager of Primo Carnera, threatens to call off the Italian's bout with Ernie Schaaf in the Garden, February 10, unless the price for ringside seats is restored from $3.30 to $5.50, which may or may not be ballyhoo.

Sport Shorts

All-star soccer teams selected from the Central District League and Allegheny Valley League will clash Saturday at the Westinghouse High School field. Hugh Robinson and George McCormack, secretaries of the two loops, are lining up the talent.

ATLANTIC CITY—Jimmy Foxx, star slugger of the Athletics, thinks Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs for one season can be broken, and that he may turn the trick in 1933.

LOS ANGELES—The greatest golfer in the world, according to Gene Sarazen, is Bobby Jones. He rates Walter Hagen second and MacDonald Smith third.

COLUMBUS, O.—The Columbus Red Birds of the American Association will train at Spartanburg, S. C., this spring. The first squad will leave Columbus March 10, and the first workout is carded for March 13.

WALTHAM, Mass.—John R. (Dinny) McNamara, former Boston Braves outfielder and Fordham University backfield coach was in a hospital here today recovering from minor injuries he sustained in an auto accident here last night.

LOS ANGELES—Frank Wykoff, University of Southern California sprint star, is to make his debut in indoor foot-racing in meets in the East, beginning February 4.

MIAMI, Fla.—John C. Jackson, chairman of the Rules Committee of the U. S. G. A., today said Lee U. S. G. A. would not sanction a golf tournament in which eight-inch putting cups were used, as proposed by Gene Sarazen.

Fight Results

At Portland, Ore.—Ah Wing Lee knocked out Hubert (Kid) Dennis, 2 rounds.

At Indianapolis—Paul Pirrone defeated Rory (Kid) Baker, 10 rounds; Willard Brown defeated Santiago Zorrilla, 10 rounds.

At Fargo, N. D.—Sherald Kennard and Caddy Casey drew, 6 rounds; Ray Cossette defeated Johnny Moran, 4 rounds; Al Reinhoff defeated Jimmy Slattery, 4 rounds.

At Fort Benning, Ga.—Corn Griffin defeated Cowboy Frank Eidren, 10 rounds; Harold Murphy defeated Ching Johnson, 8 rounds.

At West Palm Beach—Dave Barry won by a technical knockout over Young Granada, 10 rounds; Johnny Miles knocked out Tony Ferrante, 2 rounds; Chick Hains defeated Homer Sheridan, 10 rounds.

At Los Angeles—Lee Ramage defeated Tuffy Griffiths, 10 rounds; Billy Hogan defeated Stanley Krannbert, 4 rounds; Jack Raper knocked out Wally Hunt, 1 round.

At New York—Frankie Bruno won by technical knockout over Sammy Fishbein, 4 rounds; Charley Badami defeated Jimmy Thompson, 6 rounds.

LONG BEACH, Cal., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Playing over a rain-drenched course, Charles Guest, Deal, N. J., professional, his partner, Curtis Williams, of Long Beach, and the Coleman brothers, Fay and Lester, of Culver City, Cal., won the $500 Long Beach pro-amateur tournament with best ball scores of 65. The tourney was played yesterday.

Tennis Heads Give Rankings On Seals' Bill

J. PHILLIPS DAVIS

The Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph frolic again tonight on their weekly radio broadcast over WCAE at 7 o'clock.

The feature will be the announcing, for the second successive year, of the annual rankings of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association by Robert C. Schmertz, chairman of the ranking committee.

J. Phillips Davis, president of the association, also will speak. The officials will be introduced by Paul G. Sullivan, secretary, who also is the tennis authority of the Sun-Telegraph, and will be in charge of tonight's broadcast.

SHARKEY GETS RATING OVER SCHMELING

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The seventh annual ranking of the world professional boxers by The Ring, boxing magazine, revives the arguments over the respective fighting abilities of Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling and their two fights for the heavyweight championship.

In contrast to the top ranking given Schmeling by the New York Sun in its annual rating, the only other boxing appraisal published yearly, The Ring in its copyrighted article hails Sharkey above the Teuton challenger who won the title on a foul and then lost it again on a close 15-round decision last summer.

JACK, MAX LEAD

Splitting the various divisions into groups, and rating boxers in each group, The Ring placed Sharkey and Schmeling alone at the top of the heavyweight list.

Max Baer, the Livermore, Cal., walloper, who tackles Schmeling under the promotion of Jack Dempsey this June, heads group two, with Stanley Poreda, of Jersey City, second, and the man who knocked him out two weeks ago, Ernie Schaaf, third. Primo Carnera brings up the rear of group two.

Taking in the entire boxing field, here and abroad, the magazine places Maxie Rosenbloom alone in group one at the top of the light heavyweights; Marcel Thil, of France, off by himself at the top of the middleweight class; Tony Canzoneri in a class by himself as a lightweight, and Panama Al Brown in a group of one among the bantamweights.

FIELDS LEADS WELTERS

Jackie Fields has three companions in the first group of welterweights, although he heads the class with Young Corbett, of San Francisco, second; Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver Irishman, third, and Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express, fourth. Kid Chocolate, best of the featherweights, is rated above Fidel LaBarba in the first group, and Midget Wolgast, of Philadelphia, heads the flyweights.

Strangely enough, Ben Jeby, New York middleweight, who knocked out Frank Battaglia, of Winnipeg, for New York recognition as middleweight champion last Friday night, is rated fifth in the second middleweight bracket.

The annual list of eight who showed the most promise for the future are:

1—Max Baer, heavyweight.
2—Adolph Heuser, light-heavyweight.
3—Frank Battaglia, middleweight.
4—Lou Brouillard, welterweight.
5—Barney Ross, lightweight.
6—Baby Arizmendi, featherweight.
7—Speedy Dado, bantamweight.
8—Little Pancho, flyweight.

COCHRAN WINS IN TOURNEY

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Welker Cochran, of Hollywood, Cal., today was off to an impressive start in his first attempt to win the world three-cushion billiard title.

Cochran, famous at balkline for many years, won his first match in world competition at the angle game last night, defeating Allen Hall, of Chicago, 50 to 49 in 52 innings. Two former champions, Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, and Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, lost their opening matches.

Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, who didn't get very far in last year's tournament, rallied to defeat Reiselt, 50 to 39 in 40 innings, and J. N. Bozeman, Jr., of Vallejo, Cal., defeated Thurnblad, 50 to 37, in 71 innings.

Clarence Jackson, Canadian veteran, who defeated Augie Kieckhefer, the defending champion, in the opening match of the tournament, had Thurnblad for his second opponent, in the first match on today's schedule.

They were to be followed by Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., and Frank Scoville, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Kieckhefer will start this comeback task tonight against Denton.

Muhlenberg Effects Athletic Shakeup

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—A shakeup in the athletic program of Muhlenberg College, announced after the semi-annual meeting of the trustees, resulted in abolition of the college athletic council and the graduate manager's office and a cut in the salary of Head Coach George R. Holstrom to the level of a professor.

With the new policy comes an athletic board of control, composed of three members of the faculty and three members of the board of trustees.

SHOOTERS HONORED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—John DuPuy, of Pittsburgh, today was announced as one of the junior shooters of the country who has qualified as an expert rifleman in the junior division of the National Rifle Association. Edward Lincoln Sutton, Jr., 194 Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, and John Nicholas Reese, Jr., 449 McKee avenue, Monessen, also qualified as expert riflemen during the year.

TWO GOBS AILING

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—(INS.)—Jack Sharkey, heavyweight boxing champion, and his protege, Ernie Schaaf, were on the sick list today.

Sharkey suffered a septic finger as the result of a door slamming on his hand while vacationing in Bermuda. Schaaf was a patient at St. Elizabeth Hospital with an attack of influenza.

GRIFFITH TROUNCED

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Lee Ramage, San Diego, battered Tuffy Griffith, Sioux City, Ia., heavyweight, into submission before 6,000 persons here last night and won a 10-round decision. The victor weighed 182, his opponent 186.

MILLION DOLLAR NINE? . . . . . THAT'S TONY'S DREAM

PIET IN CITY WITH BRIDE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Anthony Francis Pietruszka (Tony should be in the Notre Dame backfield, what with that name and his dazzling speed) is in Pittsburgh on a business and social call.

Mrs. Piet

And, as business should come before pleasure, the big second sacker of the Pirates will call upon the directors of the Pittsburgh club relative to his contract for 1933.

An active participant in each of the 154 battles participated in by the Corsairs last season, Piet intimates he rates an advance in pay. He said today he does not anticipate any trouble coming to terms with Prexy Benswanger.

Tony came on from his Chicago home in company with his bride, who before last October 12 was Miss Janina Samoraj, of Progress street, North Side. A talented contralto singer, Mrs. Piet formerly broadcast over a local radio station.

Tony is one of those active young players who will talk baseball under almost any conditions. When found here, he was enjoying himself in the selection of what he termed a "million-dollar-team" made up of present-day stars. Incidentally, or more so, he thinks Lou Gehrig is the most valuable of players, so he gives Columbia Lou the highest rating in his all-star cast. Here it is:

Player—Club—Position.	Value.
Kiki Cuyler, Cubs, r. f.	$100,000
Charley Gehringer, Tigers, 2d b.	100,000
Al Simmons, White Sox, l. f.	100,000
Lou Gehrig, Yankees, 1st b.	150,000
Chuck Klein, Phillies, r. f.	100,000
Joe Cronin, Senators, s.	100,000
Pie Traynor, Pirates, 3d b.	100,000
Bill Dickey, Yankees, c.	125,000
Lefty Grove, Athletics, p.	125,000
	$1,000,000

Aussies Face Task In Cricket Match

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Faced with the task of scoring 532 runs to defeat England in the third test cricket match, Australia went to bat today in their second inning and had scored 120 runs for four wickets when play ended for the day.

The English second innings ended with 412 runs. They had scored 341 in the first against 222 for the Aussies, giving them a margin of 531.

Resuming the bat the Australians made a dasappointing start, only Don Bradman making any sort of a stand and he had knocked out only 66 runs when he was caught by Hedley Verity, who was bowling.

$25,000 CUT AROUSES IRE OF RUTH

By GARRY SCHUMACHER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The 1933 contract sent by the Yankees to Babe Ruth called for a $50,000 salary, a slash of $25,000 from his pay of last season.

The Babe himself was authority for these figures. Ruth said:

"Naturally I am not going to take such a cut. I sent the contract right back to Mr. Barrow."

The Babe was located on the links of the St. Albans Country Club yesterday engaging in a match with some friends. He voiced his feelings freely. Ruth was plenty "burnt up" at the terms offered him and did not hesitate to let himself go.

Ruth said he planned to leave for Florida about February 15 for light training until such time as he is expected to report to Joe McCarthy at the St. Petersburg training camp. The second squad of Yankees is due to arrive in camp on March 7.

Both Col. Ruppert and Barrow were non-committal on the Ruth situation. The Colonel refused to make any comment whatsoever. Barrow was equally reticent.

GROVE CITY, Pa., Jan. 18.—Grove City College's basketball team, if it loses to Waynesburg in the Tri-State Conference tilt here tonight, can't say it was not warned.

The Jackets, who make their second start of the week tonight against the Grovers, lost a tough game to Westminster last night at New Wilmington, bowing 27 to 26, after having led until the final two minutes of play.

The Jackets held a 16-12 lead at the half and midway in the second period were in front by 24 to 16, but the Titans tied the score at 25-25 and then Mauro Siljander came through with the field goal that won the game. The lineup:

In other district college basketball games played last night, Bethany defeated W. & J. at Bethany, W. Va., for the second time within a week, 40 to 35. Allegheny dropped its third straight game, bowing to Mt. Union at Alliance, O., 58 to 22, and Slippery Rock Teachers' College downed the Indiana Teachers, 21 to 18, at Indiana, with Patnik playing the stellar role.

DEMPSEY IN DENIAL

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Jack Dempsey former heavyweight champion, today denied rumors he is to marry Ruth Dodds, daughter of Gus T. Dodds, Atlanta soft drink manufacturer. Miss Dodds, wintering in Miami, also denied the story.

STOCK MARKET PRICES TURN WEAK

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—The stock market took on a rather pale complexion today, as mid-week business statistics failed to provide nourishment.

Price changes were narrow, however, and in the main the undertone was fairly steady. Price weakness in such lines as steel products and crude oil, and uncertainties over forthcoming dividend actions, seemed effectively to turn the damper on market enthusiasm.

While steel production continued to gain, trade reviews mentioned price recessions in several lines of finished steel, and were inclined to forecast a further reduction in wages. In some quarters in Wall street it was doubted that United States Steel would maintain the $7 annual dividend rate on the preferred if it felt constrained to reduce wages again. Electric power production, as reported for last week, made a somewhat less favorable comparison with a year previously than the preceding three weeks.

Standolind Crude Purchasing, a subsidiary of Standard of Indiana, reduced the price of crude oil by 25 cents a barrel in the mid-continent fields, making the top price about 50 cents. The weekly production statistics showed but a slight gain. Some of the larger producers, however, have been accusing independents of "bootlegging" crude under the recent market prices.

The tobacco stocks were helped by Liggett & Myers' 1932 report, showing $6.85 a share earned per common and class B shares, only 2 cents less than in 1931. The regular extra dividend of $1 was ordered on the common and "B" stock, in addition to the quarterly of $1. In the rails, Chesapeake and Ohio was firm, in response to its unusual earnings record for 1932, amounting to about $3.05, or 55 cents more than the annual dividend. This road's coal business has stood it in good stead.

COTTON PRICES TURN DOWN

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 8-14 lower on lower Liverpool cables and foreign selling. January, 6.05c; March, 6.15c; May, 6.25c; July, 6.36c; October, 6.54c; December, 6.66c.

Houses with Japanese and continental connections were said to be sellers at the start, while there was scattered selling from the South and through brokers with co-operative connections. These offerings were absorbed by trade and commission house buying, but covering was less active following yesterday's late advance, and prices sagged to 6.10 for March and 6.35 for July during the first half hour, or about 1½ to 12 points net lower.

Traders found little fresh inspiration in Washington news or in the early stock market, but after early offerings had been absorbed contracts became comparatively scarce. Prices stiffened on further trade buying, and some local buying appeared. March sold up to 6.17 and July to 6.43, making rallies of about 5 to 8 points from the lows of the morning. The midday market showed net declines of 5 to 7 points.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 18.—Cotton—Receipts, 13,000 bales, all American. Spot in better demand; prices 7 points higher. Quotations in pence: Strict good middling, 5.95; good middling, 5.65; strict middling, 5.40; middling, 5.25; strict low middling, 5.10; low middling, 4.95; strict good ordinary, 4.75; good ordinary, 4.45. Futures closed quiet, January, 4.96; March, 4.97; May, 4.99; July, 5.01; October, 5.05; December, 5.09.

BROKERS HOLD MORE STEEL

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The floating supply of United States Steel Corporation common stock on December 31, 1932, as indicated by stock in brokers names was 1,323,798 shares or 15.21 per cent of the total issue of 8,703,252 shares, an increase of 32,401 shares since September 30 1932, when the supply was 1,241,577 shares or 14.27 per cent of the total issue. At the end of 1931 the floating supply was 1,156,845 shares, or 13.29 per cent of the total.

The floating supply of Steel preferred on December 31, last shown by brokers holdings was 327,197 shares or 9.08 per cent of the total, against 275,067 shares or 7.63 per cent three months ago and against 309,581 shares or 8.59 per cent of the total three months ago and 275,067 shares or 7.63 a year ago.

Steel Car Receiver 'Showdown' Slated

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 18.—(AP.)—New Jersey's Court of Chancery has set January 30 as the day for hearing arguments on whether the Pressed Steel Car Company, which manufactures railway cars in Pittsburgh and Chicago, should remain in the hands of receivers.

Edward Hermann, of Jersey City, and Julius S. Rippel, of Newark, were named temporary receivers recently, when creditors charged the concern, capitalized at $16,200,000, operated at a loss of $100,000 a month during 1932 and defaulted interest and principal of $3,500,000 bonds last January 1.

SLUMP TURNING POPULAR MIND TO ECONOMICS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The prolonged depression has made the American people economic conscious.

The flow of new books on economic subjects from the presses is proceeding at an unprecedented pace.

An indication of the popular mood is shown in disposition of tabloids to devote whole editions to technocracy. There is also a movie on the subject and several magazines have sprung up to interpret the new fad.

Mr. Rukeyser

One recurrent question in the popular mind is whether the country will have to resort to inflation as a way out.

It is well to start out on this subject with definitions.

I once defined inflation as that which makes a five-cent loaf of bread cost 10 cents.

Deflation, on the other hand, operates to make a good 10-cent cigar sell for a nickel.

In more scientific terms, inflation and deflation do not operate uniquely on any single commodity, but affect the price level of all commodities.

Inflation occurs when the volume of money and credit increases more rapidly than physical goods and services available.

On the other hand, deflation occurs when there is a contraction in the volume of money and credit relatively to the supply of articles and service.

In the present depression, the word reflation has been coined to express the conception of counter-deflation. Reflation involves restoring the price level through currency and credit policies at least part of the way toward where it was.

In deflation, gold rises in purchasing power. Therefore it becomes more difficult for debtors to meet contracts payable in gold. Accordingly, in periods of acute deflation there is usually political sentiment to relieve debtors by cheapening the value of money, either through reducing the gold content of the dollar, through the printing of fiat currency, or through the widespread flotation of government bonds.

MOLYBDENUM EXPANDING

Molybdenum Corporation of America has called a special meeting of stockholders for January 28 to vote on an increase in authorized capital to 650,000 shares from 500,000, par value $1. Holders will have the right to subscribe up to February 15 for one new share at $3.10 for each share held, and for one option warrant by paying $1 for each five shares received. The warrants permit subscriptions to stock at $4 a share up to the end of 1934.

Molybdenum Corporation has entered into an agreement to sell 50,000 shares and option warrants granting the right to purchase an additional 60,000 shares at $4 a share, in consideration of which it is to receive $100,000 in cash and all mines and equipment of the International Vanadium Corporation, of Utah, and the Vanadium Alloys Corporation, of Colorado.

POWER OUTPUT HOLDS UP

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Power production figures released today for the week ended January 14 totaled 1,495,116,000 kilowatt hours against 1,460,639,000 in the previous week which included New Years holiday, and 1,602,487,000 in the corresponding 1932 week.

For the first time since the week ended December 17, the National Electric Light Association computed the percentage of decline from the corresponding week of a year ago. The decline amounted to 6.7 per cent, the same as in the week ended December 17. For the three weeks intervening, a period that was influenced by the incidence of year-end holidays over the two years in different weeks, the rate of decline averaged 5.9 per cent.

F. T. POWER,
Secretary.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The bond market was a little more cheerful today as rallying tendencies appeared in United States and leading foreign goverment issues.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

U. S. GOVERNMENT BONDS.

BUSINESS

American Rolling Mill Faces Maturity Of Bonds

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THE RAPIDITY of the recovery in the steel business will have an important influence on the financial position of the American Rolling Mill Company this year. The organization is faced with a maturity of a $15,000,000 issue of its 4½ per cent gold notes on November 1.

Under ordinary conditions, a bond maturity of this amount would provide only a minor financial problem for a company of this size but existing conditions make refunding operations difficult. The company does not appear to have cash resources sufficient to meet this maturity so that at least a part of the obligation will have to be met by a new loan in some form.

The notes were issued in November, 1930, to retire indebtedness incurred in plant expansion and to provide additional working capital. They are currently selling on the New York Curb Exchange at about 70. Up to the end of 1931 $98,000 of the notes had been reacquired.

* * *

Issue Is Small Part of Total

THE ISSUE MATURING this year represents a small part of the total funded debt, which stood at $43,612,037 at the end of 1931. The nearest maturity on the other bonds is 1948. On these issues the company will have to meet sinking fund requirements of about $900,000 during the year.

At the end of 1931 the company showed a good financial position with current assets of $28,130,383 against current liabilities of $4,217,918, which left working capital at $23,912,465. All the current assets were not subject to ready liquidation, however. Cash stood at $5,197,002 and call loans and acceptances at $501,755. Marketable securities were carried at $1,036,586, but had a market value of $931,088. Of course other current assets such as accounts receivable and inventories may have been partially liquidated during the past year. On September 30, 1932, current assets stood at $27,865,737 against current liabilities of $2,178,105. This indicated some improvement in the current position, but a detailed analysis of the current account was not made public at that time.

Losses Reported For Two Years

THE AMERICAN Rolling Mill Company reported a net loss after all charges of $3,098,446 for 1931. This compared with net income of $114,094 in 1930 and with net income of $6,110,570 in 1929. Complete figures for 1932 are not yet available. In the first nine months of the year net loss was $1,821,418 as compared with $1,389,707 for the corresponding period of the previous year.

Earnings for the fourth quarter of the year probably reflected the moderate improvement in steel mill operations during that period and the effects of economies in operation. The steel trade has had a slow start this year but it is early to hazard predictions of the probable results for the quarter.

Dear Mr. Olsen:

I suppose the Sun-Telegraph, like any other institutions, enjoys an occasional compliment. Fortunately for me, I am able to congratulate you on the prompt effectiveness with which your Classified Ads produce real results.

Not only have I been able to secure many students through the Sun-Telegraph, but in addition, it has been the means of my being able to sell a surprisingly large number of instruments.

Keep up the good work for we and be assured I will co-operate in the way of further advertising.

Sincerely yours,

MARY FAITH

Story of a Girl With Husband Who Wouldn't Grow Up

By BEATRICE BURTON

Kim Is Resentful When Wife Speaks of His Interest In Other Girls

CHAPTER XXXIV.

The nearest telephone was in the drug store just around the corner on River street. Mary Faith rushed to the evil-smelling little booth and gave Dr. Thatcher's number.

While she was waiting for him to answer she heard Kim's voice, his slow deep voice that was like no other voice in the world. He was talking to someone in the prescription room just behind the telephone booth. And before she had finished talking to Dr. Thatcher, Kim walked past her to the front of the store.

"Goodbye," she heard him call to someone behind the partition, and a girl's voice answered:

"Goodbye. See you later."

Mary Faith watched him go out. Then she heard the familiar sputter of his roadster. She opened the door of the booth and stepped out. Behind her, in the prescription room, she could hear a girl humming. She hurried into the lamp-starred darkness of River street and turned toward home. Her thoughts were where her heart was at that moment—in the flat with her baby. At the moment jealousy and heartbreak and suspicion were trivial things in the face of his illness. The very word "convulsion" was so terrifying.

FLASH OF BITTERNESS

She reached the door of the apartment building just as Kim came around the corner from the garage.

"Where have you been?" he asked, waiting for her to unlock the door.

"Same place you were—at the drug store," she told him, with a flash of bitterness.

She ran up the stairs ahead of him and through the flat to the bathroom, where Mrs. Farrell had the baby in a tub of hot water. She did not think of Kim again until 8 o'clock, when the doctor had gone and she was sitting beside the baby's crib, watching his regular breathing.

Then Kim came to the door of the bedroom and beckoned to her. She did not move, merely looked up at him thoughtfully.

"Kim," she said at last, getting up from her chair, "I saw you in the store tonight, and I heard you in the back room, talking to that girl. Kim, how can you be so cheap? Carrying on an affair in the back room of a store—"

"Oh, for goodness' sake!" Kim interrupted, with a groan. They were in the dining room now, and he sat down beside the table, shaking his head.

HAS AN EXCUSE

He got up and stood in front of her.

"What's the matter with you?" he asked.

Mary Faith shook her head. "Kim, you were in the back room of that store."

"Well, what if I was? I was sitting back there talking to Jim and that girl clerk. That may be a crime in your eyes, but that's what I was doing."

Jim, Mary Faith knew, was the proprietor of the store. She had not heard his voice as she stood in the telephone booth, but that did not prove that he had not been there, and she wanted to believe that he had been there. She wanted so desperately to believe that nothing was wrong—that Kim had no interest in that pretty blonde girl.

"You've been away from home so much lately," she said, looking up at him.

He raised his thick level eyebrows. "I've been working hard lately, Mary Faith, and you know it. I haven't bothered you with all the details. I thought, if I told you that I had to go out and stay late occasionally, you'd understand. I never dreamed that you were tormenting yourself like this."

"But I was," she blurted out. "Kim, how could I help it, when I saw you smiling at that girl that night when we were in the drug store? And lately you've been going out every night and staying so late—" She was crying now, and her face was drawn and white.

BLAMES MARY FAITH

"Kim, I shouldn't go to pieces like this." She knew that he hated to see her cry. He was looking at her with an expression of actual dislike in his eyes. "But I can't help crying. If you only knew how sick the baby's been tonight—and you weren't here—and, Kim, I've been so jealous and unhappy the last month or so."

"I don't see why you should be jealous," he said.

"Any woman who loves a man is jealous when he seems to be interested in some other woman. Of course, I know you love me and the baby—"

"Well, then, what are you having hysterics about?" He spoke briefly and brutally. Then he went on in that same hard, angry voice. "Now, let me tell you something, Mary Faith. If you'd cut out the grief and meet me at the door with a smile now and then, you wouldn't have to worry about me and other women. If I don't follow you around like a shadow all the time, it's your own fault! You hadn't figured it out that way, had you?"

He picked up his hat and went out. The door slammed behind him. Mary Faith stood where he had left her, wringing her hands in genuine pain at the unfairness of the things he had just said to her. She knew that they were unfair and untrue—and yet she felt that somehow or other she had failed him. It was her job to hold him, and she had failed. She knew that what he demanded from life was gayety and good cheer, and that when he didn't get what he wanted at home, he looked elsewhere.

"But how could I laugh when the baby was sick?" Mary Faith went on thinking, and the more she thought the more angry she became. "And how could I smile when Kim came home after an evening with that girl—smile and pretend that I didn't know where he'd been?"

But surely there must be men who didn't look for amusement and love-making all of the time. There must be husbands who shared the burden of illness and anxiety with their wives. Men who realized that marriage and children and home-making aren't all "beer and skittles," as Mrs. Puckett would probably have expressed it.

Kim was like a spoiled boy, Mary Faith decided. There was no use in talking to him; the thing to do was to stand by and wait for him to grow up.

He did not come home that night.

The next morning she telephoned the office. Mr. Farrell had come in a few minutes ago, the telephone girl told her, but he had gone out again.

He was safe then.

"Safe and sulking," said Mary Faith to herself. She wondered where he had spent the night, and decided that in all probability he had gone downtown with Jack Maldon.

Synopsis

Mary Faith, secretary to Mark Nesbit, wealthy businessman, gives up her position to marry Kimberley Farrell, shiftless young lawyer. She realizes he has an eye for every girl, but hopes that married life will sober him and make him successful in his profession. Instead, Kim is annoyed at Mary Faith's "Puritanism," and his friends, Claire and Jack Maldon, find her a dull companion. Learning that she is to become a mother, Mary Faith, for the first time, visits Kim's office. Kim is furious when Mary Faith finds him flirting with his blonde secretary. That night he informs his mother and Mary Faith that he is leaving. Heartbroken, Mary Faith decides not to tell him of her approaching motherhood. She gets a temporary job as a stenographer. Kim returns after a son is born. Mary Faith is worried when Kim becomes interested in the girl employed at a nearby drugstore.

Now Go On

Mary Faith watched her husband go out.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

By ANN HELFGOTT
Official Reporter, Enright Chapter.

Hello Members:

"That's the way to do it," said Punch, whom we all saw at the last meeting to be held at the Sheridan Square, because the club is moving back to the Enright.

I wish to take this opportunity on the behalf of all members of the Enright Chapter to sincerely thank Mr. Hooley, manager, and the staff of the Sheridan Square Theater for all their kind efforts in helping the boys and girls find real fun and while doing so making them better citizens. So "Uncle Jack" and all the Sheridan Square staff, we thank you.

Wasn't that doll parade beautiful? Every kind of a doll was there. Did you see Mary Louise Parker's doll? Probably not because there were so many. Well, it was dressed entirely in pink and looked so alive I thought at first it was a real baby. Mary Louise tells me her doll's name is Patsy.

And did you see our little friend, Charles Ross' doll? It was dressed as a man, in long pants, a Clark Gable sweater, a coat and real black and white sport shoes. Charles tells me that the doll's name is Dick Powell, whom, I am sure, all our members will always remember.

The doll with the pretty curls belongs to Camilla Delche. Its name is Nancy. The reason everyone was talking about it, is because Nancy was clothed exactly like a little girl of four would be dressed.

Here is something I heard behind the key-hole:

Warren Talenfield enjoys playing football. He tells me that when he is old enough he is going to play on Pitt's team and is going to show the Panthers how to beat those Trojans the next time. Come on, Warren, show them!

Joe Fox is also thinking of entering the athletic field, but Joe is going to be a track runner. He is showing it already by taking active part at our weekly meetings.

Mary Louise Shettig is dreaming of becoming a movie star. She is thinking of being like Zasu Pitts. Well, there is a saying, "What this country needs is a good laugh."

Everyone is wondering where our little friends Shirley and Betty Wieland are. We would like to see their smiling faces again.

Dick Cunningham is an unusual boy. He is going to be a cowboy. His favorite song is "Home, Home, on the Range."

Well, I think I'll stop looking in keyholes for a while. Don't forget, the next meeting is back at the Enright Theater, and remember, bring your pets for the pet show, bring your oldest piece of money for the money contest and remember there is going to be dancing and games. So come early and bring your friends.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Congratulations to the following boys and girls, all members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theater Junior Komic Club, who are celebrating their birthdays today:

Enjoying Another Set of Laws

The thing that puzzles our dignified lawmakers is what to do with beer after it is legalized.

The ordinary and brutal mind would say, "Drink it."

But the common and corrugated mind did that even when it wasn't legal.

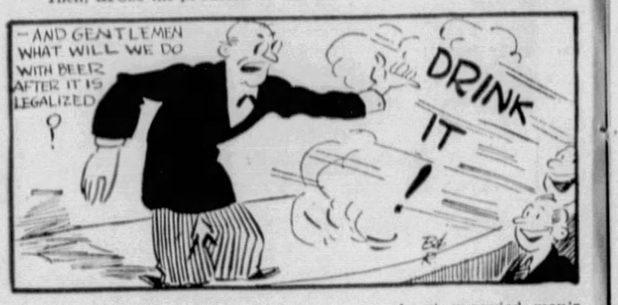
It's different with a statesman and a diplomat who does everything with a flourish like a forger signing a stock certificate.

He must surround his mysterious legislation with technicalities and by-laws. First of all, the most terrific fight over beer was deciding the location of the decimal point.

It is much too close to the right now. But we should be thankful it didn't lead the parade.

Then came the question of the tax. Some said five a barrel, some said 10 a barrel and others just ignored the excise and voted for the hoops and staves.

Then, arose the problem of the sale. Shall it be sold in restaurants, dispensaries, ice cream cones or only at married men's picnics?



How much could each citizen buy without exceeding his quota? Some voted for a keg, some for a bagful and some homeopathic dignitaries were for a spoonful every hour.

Where shall the tax be collected? At the source or from the ultimate and illuminated consumer?

All these things must be written out on parchment down to the finest kind of details. It takes a lot of words.

And that's why the U. S. Constitution looks like the preamble to an amendment.

There are more paragraphs and information in the postscripts than are contained in the body of the letter.

The only item overlooked by the law makers was the authentic and legal angle of the elbow.

That will be left to the individual. We should say an equilateral with the chin forming the base.

WASH OUT YOUR K-I-D-N-E-Y-S SLEEP FINE

No More Getting Up Nights

So you feel achy all over, miserable and blue? Your head feels "crowded" your nerves quiver, you have pin-and-needle cramps—your appetite has gone and you feel weak as a cat. Don't fill your stomach with tonics or laxatives or rheumatism remedies. How can they help if it is your kidneys.

The job of the kidneys is to strain the uric acid and other poisons out of your blood. They purify your blood, that's it. Now you must not let these acids stay in the kidneys or they'll get back in the blood and poison your whole body. That is why your kidneys must pass 3 pints of "water" a day. Let them fail and you know it. Your appetite goes back on you, so does your pep, your sleep, and your nerves—your back hurts, your ankles and feet may swell up and you feel cranky and sick.

Now see what a wonderful change takes place after you start on Foley Pills. Kidney action increases at once. Out go those acids. Burning stops. Sleep is sounder, and none of this getting-up business. You feel like "somebody."

Your druggist has Foley Pills. Sells a lot of them, because most people know how good they are. Don't cost much either—but they certainly do a grand job. If they don't, your money back any time you want it. © 1933

Dick Metcalf was in town Saturday. What's doing out there in Barton City? we asked Dick.

Nothing he said. We all stay home mostly. I used to like to go to Verdella and spend the evening, talking to the boys at the store. But the boys that come in don't have much to say any more. They just all sit around. I guess we're all worrying about what we're going to do about paying our taxes and interest. But really most generally we are not going to do anything about it, so what's the use of worrying?

Why Import Perfume When American Flowers Can Build Home Industry?

DRAWN BY SWANS, AS SHOULD BE ALL PRINCESSES' boats, was this floating bower entered by San Francisco in Pasadena's last famous midwinter Tournament of Roses.

THE SWANS WERE MADE OF WHITE ROSE PETALS and their eyes of blue delphinium. Two ladies-in-waiting rode with the Princess on a lake of ferns and leaves.

LONG BEACH'S GORGEOUS FLOAT AT PASADENA midwinter Tournament of Roses, depicting "The Peacock," beautiful royal bird, symbolic of the wonders of fairyland.

ROSES, ORCHIDS, SWEET PEAS, NARCISSI, LILIES and other flowers formed the throne from which reins led to Peacock at the front. A fountain and swans were in the center.

LOOK ON these beautiful pictures, and consider what they mean.

Both are midwinter scenes in California. The camera shows the art of man as creative designer of picturesque pageants. But it no more than suggests, in the wealth of floral material, the glorious effulgence of nature in this broad country of ours.

California is an all-year flower garden. Millions of visitors have beheld with delight and admiration that state's gorgeous flower festival at Pasadena.

But Florida, and other southern states, have also their winter floral glories.

Portland, Oregon, in the northwest, holds its rose carnival.

The violet thrives in northern Maine.

There is no state in the union that does not produce flowers in profusion.

Moreover, so rich is the American soil, and so varied its climates, that no other nation equals ours as a fruitland. Any fruit grown anywhere can be grown in America—somewhere in America—in many instances more successfully than in the lands from which the seeds or cuttings were first imported.

* * *

"IMPORTED"—that word suggests something.

If perfumes are made, as we know they are made, from flowers and fruit and fruit blossoms, and if America is the greatest fruit and flower country on the globe, then, WHY, just WHY ARE AMERICANS SPENDING TENS OF MILLIONS A YEAR BUYING IMPORTED PERFUMES?

What need is there for us to import French and other foreign perfumes when the raw materials of the perfumer's finished products are to be had in such profusion in America, whether in California or elsewhere?

We have all the ingredients, and if we haven't all the formulas we need, we can get them.

The making of perfume is not a secret rite. It is not something handed down by word of mouth from father to son. Its variations must be the product of experiment, or there would not be so many variations. Each year and almost every season brings forth its new perfume, and what is done in the factories of France can be done in the factories of America.

* * *

IN THE beginning it must be a matter of money spent either for chemical research or the purchase of formulas. If the formulas cannot be bought at a reasonable price, they can be arrived at or approximated by scientific experimentation.

Perfumes are luxuries, but luxuries of such widespread use they have become the necessaries of our American civilization.

What profit there would be in the making of American perfumes, if the American people, in their patriotism, EXTENDED THE "BUY AMERICAN" POLICY TO THE PRODUCT OF THE PERFUMER!

Look on these pictures, and having enjoyed their beauty, then imbibe their lesson.

America, with its zones of fruits and states of all-year flowers, ought to make the perfumes for the world.

By doing so, it would be making work for many thousands of unemployed Americans and keeping tens of millions of dollars every year in America.

The Cost of Red Tape

The Taxpayers Would Save Much Money If It Were Eliminated.

Useless red tape costs the taxpayers a pretty penny.

Here is an example:

Pennsylvania's presidential electors met in Harrisburg on January 4 and cast 36 votes for Herbert Hoover for President of the United States. The formality cost the people of Pennsylvania $421.84, for the electors were paid $3 for each day required in attending the session and three cents for each mile traveled.

Seven of the 36 declined to accept any remuneration. Honor to them!

There is much unnecessary red tape in the administration of the government. Taxes would not be so high if it were eliminated.

A Valuable Audit

The Citizens Demanded an Independent Inquiry into the County's Financial Affairs

Controller Robert G. Woodside calls the audit that the County Commissioners are having made of the county's financial affairs a waste of the public money. There will be few to agree with him.

The inquiry was demanded by the citizens when they elected Charles C. McGovern and C. M. Barr as County Commissioners. An independent audit of the Armstrong-Babcock administration was called for by the campaign platform of McGovern and Barr—it was one of the things that they emphasized—and a majority of the voters indorsed it.

The revelations of criminal misconduct, wastefulness and inefficiency that have resulted from the inquiry have paved the way for economies that will more than compensate for the cost of the audit.

The investigation was necessary to show the weak places in the county government and thereby to prepare the ground for a more honest and business-like administration.

The Commissary Plan

The Proposal to Issue Rations Has Little But Its Cheapness to Commend It

The proposal that the state shall relieve the needy by issuing a standard ration from commissary depots has aroused a storm of protest.

Social workers, merchants, trade unions and other organizations have raised their voices against the plan, and its advocates will be courageous indeed if they persist in their defiance of public sentiment.

There is no need to review the arguments against the commissary plan. It suffices to say that about the only thing that can be said in its favor is that it is cheaper than other methods of relief.

It is conceivable, though it is to be hoped not probable, that cheapness may come to be the dominating consideration. But that time has not yet arrived.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Evening on Wilshire boulevard.
Twilight sifting,
Sifting in a violet ash,
In wavering, deepening veils of violet ash.

Huge, through the veils, the buildings.
Cubes—cliffs—blocked out of shadow.
Smoke palisades, slitted with light.

Everywhere—Light.
Flares, garlands, confetti of Light.
Fountains of emerald, crystal,
Amethyst, garnet, topaz,
Sapphire, opal and pearl
Light.
Gossamer webs of Light.
Fruity clusters of Light.
Whirling wheels, spattering mica fire.
Arcs of light circling, leaping,
Clashing like blades.
On the black field of night.
Everywhere—Light.
Gushing, sparkling.
Dripping in jeweled pools on black asphalt,
Spraying in glittering spindrift
From the dark torrent of cars
Pouring home from Los Angeles to Beverly Hills.

Hundreds of automobiles,
Thousands of automobiles,
Pouring in a hooting, grunting,
Snarling, thundering torrent.
Hundreds of people,
Thousands of people,
Sitting safe in those cars;
Sitting safe in the money that bought those cars;
Riding arrogantly on the power that made those cars.
Thousands of people
Racing home from Los Angeles;
Racing home past stage-sets sheared from shadow,
Looped with a billion dollars' worth of
Kilowatts gone crazy.

Suddenly,
Soft above the bedlam
Breaks a sound
Heavy, golden—
The sound of a bell.
One bell,
Then another,
Then, blending,
The Chimes!

"JESUS, LOVER OF MY SOUL,
"LET ME TO THY BOSOM FLY."
Down in that madness beneath them
Thousands are flying—where?

"WHILE THE NEARER WATERS ROLL,
"WHILE THE TEMPEST STILL IS HIGH."

What are they thinking, those thousands,
Hurling on, into the night;
What of the waters that trap them,
What of their souls' sore plight?

"OTHER HELPERS HAVE I NONE;
"HANGS MY HELPLESS SOUL ON THEE."
Each of them clinging to something—
Some hope, desperate and dear,
Set high above all the wildness
Of hate, and desire, and fear.

"LEAVE, OH, LEAVE ME NOT ALONE!"

Massed in with millions of people
Walled in with steel and with stone,
Yet, from each heart comes that whimper—
"Leave me not—down here—alone!"

"STILL SUPPORT AND COMFORT ME!"

Snug in their ease and their riches,
Steeled in their pride and their might,
Still their hearts secretly pleading:
"Comfort me, God, through my night!"

Night time on Wilshire Boulevard.
Light gone ga-ga.
Nit-wit noise.
Red Hot Mammas.
Lisping Boys.
Frozen faces.
Twitching lips.
Piggy jowls
And leering hips.
Yet over the sinning and hating—
The frenzy . . . the fear . . . and the crimes—
The white stars are steadily burning,
The old bells are pealing the Chimes.

Isn't It So?

Humor is the best lubricant of life.

The way of all flesh is to a beauty parlor.

Gossip may sometimes tell the truth but seldom is caught at it.

Forgiveness is rarely perfect except in the hearts of those who have suffered.

A man, with proper care and agility, may dodge taxis, but he can't escape taxes.

Some motorists are on the road to jail; others are on the road to the poorhouse, but they don't know it.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

No More Sturdy Oaks

Every normal woman wants to be "somebody's little girl." Every normal woman wants to be "taken care of." No matter how big and brave and athletic she is — no matter how efficient, successful and independent she is or how hard-boiled she is—it is woman's nature to want to be loved and "protected." * * *

I have been saying this sort of thing for several years—and at last a modern woman writer AGREES with me!

"The woman who walks by her lone," writes that brilliant columnist, Agnes Smith, "is somehow tragic. There is about her something regretful and poignant—"

* * *

Mrs. Smith agrees with me also that there IS a difference between the sexes, both physical and temperamental—otherwise God would not have made two of them!)—and that the primary need of woman's life is that background and stability which only the comforting knowledge of a man's strength can give her, which only his presence in her life can afford her.

* * *

She may not need his financial support, she may be a husky who can defend herself physically; but there is a spiritual support, a feeling of "protection" which a home and even a half-dependable husband give a woman, and which nothing else can quite replace.

True, the modern woman gets very little of this protective tenderness from a man—chiefly because she doesn't DEMAND it. And women never get anything from men which they don't demand. A man simply cannot have that same sense of responsibility for the efficient, independent young woman of today, with her self-sufficient air and glace polish that he had for the helpless, feeble-minded clinging vine who hung onto his coat lapel. But there are times when we can't help wondering if the "clinging vine" WAS feeble-minded—or just wise-headed.

* * *

"Sturdy oaks" appear to be passing out of the picture along with "clinging vines"—and it is a pretty difficult feat for any would-be clinging vine to find an oak who wants to be "clung to." Modernism has certainly been a wonderful thing for the men! It has freed them from woman's tyranny—and from most of the responsibility for her safety and happiness. * * *

Modernism has given women lots of rights that they never expected. In Russia, they have the "right" to be drafted for the army. And in America they have the right to pay their own cab fare, settle the dinner check and fight their own way into the subway.

All of which is fine and fair and FREE, of course—if you like it. But why does that old atavistic longing to be "cherished" and "protected" by masculine strength still lurk at the bottom of every natural-minded woman's heart?

* * *

For the same reason that rivers run toward the sea and water runs down hill—because Nature MADE 'em that way!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Heritage

We can not know them all,
These ancestors of ours
Who left us, through the long, slow years
Such strangely varied dowers.

One gave me wistful dreams
And love of wind-tossed foam,
Another gave a heart that clings
To tranquil ways and home.

One gave me truth and trust,
One gave me pride and fire,
The gift of one was faith enough
To grasp my heart's desire.

Women with laughing lips
And men who fought and dreamed;
So through my veins the changeful tide
Of diverse lives has streamed.

And sometimes I must ask,
As life so strangely runs,
How much of this myself is I,
How much those other ones?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Along serpentine glides of New York's elevated, trestled high in the air, one may see behind poker-face fronts of the city's tenements. In these back-yard Savannahs, the poor cast off restraint. And elevated passengers may peep over the drab curtains.

Women, with mouths full of pegs, pin sheets to a line and gossip about the neighborhood. There are little mounds of contraptions everywhere, looking vaguely useful but in reality only debris of forgotten enthusiasms—junk. Among them poke gloomy men with sacks.

Over washtubs, with sleeves rolled up, bend Hogarthian women. Occasionally, through a grimy window, is silhouetted desperately pale faces close to the needle, and feet that pedal madly at sewing machines. Pinch-faced girls, packing things, now and then wave merrily.

In every window, a struggling plant rises from a broken pot, suggesting those wild flowers shooting through bleached desert skulls. Thumb-tacked on walls are faint prints and often a plaster of the crucifixion. Nearly every fire escape displays a forlorn and contemplative cat.

Faces at tenement windows present the bleakness begotten of environment. Listless expressions in dull frames. Tragedy there always, but rarely the touch of comedy. Neither the expression of hate. Instead, the passivity of utter hopelessness.

Even the blind street beggar has his method of stimulating trade. On 57th street today, a sightless panhandler, with his dog, suddenly fumbled and scattered pencils along the pavement. A half dozen rushed to retrieve them, dropping coins in his cup. At the next corner, the same accident happened with same result. It happened at the next corner, too. And I turned into another street.

I thought Herb Roth's, "Dandruff on the Knob" was high in country estate names, but today I received a letter from an old newspaper pal, seeking health for seven years near Tucson. In a sort of poisoned candour, he calls his desert shack "Ye Olde Shutt Inne."

New York, even in modern Bohemian-400 mixing, hasn't a place like the old Palm Room in the Imperial Hotel. It may be there still. But in other days it was an opulent Broadway hang-out, a small inside room with no windows and with walls and ceilings in mirrors. About the tables grouped Jesse Lewisohn, Reggy Ronalds, Tom Clarke, Craig Wadsworth, Freddie Gebhard, George Kessler, Kyrle Bellew, Mrs. James Brown Potter and others. A head waiter—Phillipe, if I recall—saved the glassy, inside circle for only those of headline quality. Outlanders draped the edges.

The first nights of Katharine Cornell bring out a flowering of celebrities comparable only to premieres of Gilbert Miller and the late Ziegfeld. They have additional charm of being housed in the mellow old Belasco, a playhouse somehow magically surcharged with the creative expectancy of a lifted baton.

A nostalgic hanker for confusion of a newspapership assails all disciples now and then. The other evening when theaters emptied, traffic thinned and supper parties diminuendoed to yawns, I drove slowly by a bright-lit building where presses whirred madly. Even in this remote contact, I came away more firmly convinced that newspapering is the most bewitching trade in the land.

My first closeup of a celebrated editor was of the late John Vandercook. As a London correspondent, he scooped the world on Queen Victoria's passing. At 32, he affected a slight imperial, the first I aver saw outside illustrations of romantic fiction. He died within that year, and so wide is the gulf between callow youth and the early 30's, I looked upon him as elderly.

For a brief stretch—nine days, if you feel meticulous—I perpetrated a daily column under Mr. Vandercook's regime, topping it with the bromidic bravura "Sense and Nonsense." The third day Mr. Vandercook shortened it to "Nonsense." On the tenth day—don't look now—they had another boy.

That night I wrote to father: "I've decided to give up the funny column and do more serious work. In fact I may leave this paper any day."
